TROOPS BALK 'BONUS ARMY'

DIG INTO INCOME TAXES PAID BY MAYOR WALKER

U. S. Attorneys Scan Exempt "Gifts."

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—Federal authorities are investigating Mayor James J. Walker's status as an income taxpayer, it became known today as Samuel Seabury presented a mass of new evidence for the mayor to explain when he makes his first appearance on Wednesday as a witness before the Hofstadter legislative committee.

RUSSELL T. SHERWOOD. [Acme Photo.]

United States Attorney George Z. Medalie and Hugh McQuillan, head of the local intelligence unit of the department of internal revenue began their examination of the mayor's tax returns after the disclosure that J. A. Sisto had given Mr. Walker $26,500 in bonds in 1929 or 1930.

Quiz Centers on "Gifts."

Their interest was quickened by disclosures at today's public hearings and they are waiting for the mayor's explanation of his stock transactions.

Neither Mr. Medalie nor Mr. McQuillan would comment but it become known definitely that the mayor's returns for the years 1928 and 1929 are under scrutiny. It was pointed out, however, that failure to report a "gift," is not a violation of the law since a gift is not taxable, unless it was made in consideration for favors. In other words, if it can be proved the bonds which Mr. Sisto gave the mayor were in the nature of a bribe for services rendered they should be taxable and failure to report receipt of the bonds would be a violation of the income tax law.

Reveal $15,000 Legal Fees.

Most of the evidence presented today by Mr. Seabury dealt with the activities of the missing Russell T. Sherwood, whom he pictured as the mayor's right hand man in all business affairs. The session ended, however, on a note of mystery, with the identity of an investor in the Equitable Coach company still to be explained.

Out of the mouth of a witness who spoke of the mayor as "Jimmy," Mr. Seabury established a definite link between Mr. Walker and the missing Sherwood, and revealed payments of $15,000 for "legal services," from a company that already had its own attorney.

Hides Walker's Services.

This witness, Abraham Schwartz, treasurer of the Century Circuit company, and a score of affiliated theater concerns, refused to waive immunity as several others closely associated with the mayor have done. He sought to hide the nature of the services Mr. Walker had performed under a claim of privilege between lawyer and client and would say only that they were of a private nature.

While the mysterious services were performed before Mr. Walker's election as mayor, the payments extended through 1929 and in two instances were charged as "commissions," rather than "legal services," on the books of the various companies.

Definite Link to Sherwood.

Soon after Mr. Walker took office in 1926 Mr. Schwartz asserted he went to city hall to suggest to the mayor he take stock in some of the companies affiliated with the Century Circuit, a theatrical enterprise, instead of taking cash. On that occasion he was introduced to Sherwood by the mayor whom he quoted as follows:

"'Abe' he says, 'I am the mayor of the city of New York now and all transactions of business—take it up with Sherwood. Whatever he does, it suits me. He is the accountant for the office. He represents all of us and whatever he does is O. K. with me.'"

The importance of the testimony given reluctantly by Schwartz, whose memory constantly had to be refreshed by reference to testimony he had given in private only a few days ago, was almost overshadowed by that which followed from the lips of Samuel Ungerleider, former head of Samuel Ungerleider & Co., and now a member of the brokerage firm of Fenner, Beane & Ungerleider.

VETERANS FREE TRAINS; TO RIDE IN MOTOR VANS

An Illinois Sheriff Gives Them Lift.

East St. Louis, Ill., May 23.—[Special.]—Six companies of the Illinois National Guard were ordered tonight to proceed here to prevent possible disorder and to watch the activities of some 400 world war veterans who are stranded en route to Washington to demand payment of their bonus certificates in cash.

The situation became troublesome when the ex-service men, denied the use of box cars on the Baltimore and Ohio road to further their expedition, retaliated by greasing the rails with soap and tying up 30 cars. Late tonight, after news of the summoning of troops became known, the veterans released the freight cars and the situation eased.

Sheriff to Furnish Trucks.

Sheriff Munie carried news of the troop mobilization to the assembled veterans and conferred with several leaders. A conference of less than 15 minutes brought evident "peace."

The armistice was attained through a promise by Sheriff Munie that he would give them free transportation to Washington, Ind., by motor truck. The veterans then announced they would release the freight cars and accept his offer. This agreement was immediately carried out by the veterans. They moved away from the trains and camped nearby.

The National Guard companies ordered out include a machine gun unit and are part of the 130th Illinois infantry. They are scheduled to reach here and Caseyville, 7 miles east and one scene of possible trouble, between 5 and 7 a. m. tomorrow. The total complement is 321 with Lieut. Col. Robert W. Davis of Carbondale in command and with Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond of Chicago serving in an advisory capacity.

Troops Are Ordered Out.

Mobilizing of the troops was authorized by Acting Governor Fred E. Sterling from his home in Rockford and directly ordered by Adj. Gen. Carlos Black at Springfield. The companies called out were company C of Springfield, company I of Salem, company K of Cairo, company M of Paris, a machine gun detachment, the headquarters company of Carbondale, and the howitzer company of Mount Vernon.

No special orders beyond preserving the peace was given to Lieut. Col. Davis, it is understood.

Calls Situation Serious.

In calling out the guard Acting Governor Sterling said that he understood the situation to be "very serious." The Baltimore and Ohio, he said, had joined in a request for troops to permit the movement of shipping.

The gravity of the situation also was emphasized by Sheriff Jerome Munie of St. Clair county and by United States Marshal Arthur Burt of Champaign, who is at the scene. The sheriff revealed that he had insufficient funds to hire extra deputies in case of emergency. His men also disclosed, it was said, a rising temper on the part of the veterans.

Resent Railroad's Action.

During the day the situation became acute, in the view of several official observers. The veterans, while seemingly in good spirits, resented the refusal of the railroad to allow them to ride on east bound freight trains. In their entire journey, which started originally at Portland, Ore., they had experienced no difficulties in "riding the blinds" or otherwise finding organized transportation.

When they learned at East St. Louis that they could not proceed via the B. & O. the veterans nevertheless boarded one east bound train. However, only half of the "bonus army" managed to get aboard. When they discovered at Caseyville that their buddies had been left behind they cut off the air brake lines and halted the train.

The train was halted effectually. Several of the cars contained perishable goods and agents of the road pleaded to be allowed to return them to East St. Louis for added refrigeration. The war veterans refused this request and held the thirty cars. They kept the rails greased. As a result only three freight trains were able to leave the yards during the day.

Sterling Calls Emmerson.

During the afternoon acting Gov. Sterling was advised of the situation. He telephoned to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, who is at the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., for medical attention, and was urged to permit the county authorities to handle the problem if possible.

THE NATIONAL TERROR

BOMB EXPLOSION DAMAGES HOTEL; WOMAN INJURED

One woman was injured and hundreds of persons were shaken by a powerful bomb explosion late last night in the rear of the Crest hotel, 67th street and Stony Island avenue. The bombing was the second there since Jan. 1 and was almost in the same spot.

The injured woman was Mrs. Beulah Rogers, 28 years old, wife of C. H. Rogers, clerk of the hotel. She was reading a newspaper in her room at the first floor rear when the blast occurred. The door of her apartment was shattered and she was cut by wood splinters and broken glass.

Windows on the north side of the hotel were shattered, as were windows in neighboring homes and structures. Two automobiles, parked nearby, were badly damaged. Sergt. Michael Toohey of the bomb squad questioned Mr. Rogers and Roy R. Dawson, the manager. Possibility that labor trouble over the employment of the hotel engineer, who doubles as janitor, was suggested. This trouble was assigned to the first bombing. However, other causes are being investigated.

Another bombing occurred last night on the northwest side in which a new branch store of the Checker Cleaners, Inc., at 2706 West Division street, was the target. Damage was estimated at $250. The Checker Cleaners is an independent company, and price cutting is believed the motive for the bombing.

W. B. WANZER, HEAD OF DAIRY COMPANY, DIES

William Bradley Wanzer, president of Sidney Wanzer & Sons Dairy company and one of the leading figures in the Chicago milk industry, died early this morning of a stroke in his home at 364 Normal parkway. He was 68 years old and a native Chicagoan.

He started as a boy in the dairy company founded by his father, the late Sidney Wanzer, in 1875, and at the time of his death was considered the oldest man in point of service in the milk business in Chicago. He was president of the Milk Dealers' Bottle exchange, a member of the Illinois Milk Dealers' association, and other associations, as well as a trustee of the Englewood Hospital association.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock Thursday at the Normal Park Presbyterian church, 71st street and Yale avenue. Burial will be at Dundee, Ill. Surviving Mr. Wanzer are his widow, Flora Belle, and four children, Mrs. Claribel Hiesenberg, Mrs. Elsie Reiling, Sidney Wanzer III., and Phyllis Kathryn Wanzer.

Truck Cargo Is 3 Drunks, Half a Ton of Dynamite

Ottumwa, Ia., May 23.—[Special.]—Earl Price of Douds was arrested today charged with driving while intoxicated. On his truck the sheriff found two other intoxicated men, two gallons of alcohol and 1,000 pounds of dynamite.

Name Suspect in Kidnaping of Lindy Baby

BULLETIN.

Boston, Mass., May 23.—(AP)—Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley said tonight he had furnished authorities with the name of a person believed to have been involved in the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby and the collection of $50,000 ransom paid by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Crowley said he had been pledged to secrecy and that publicity might hamper search for the suspects. He said the person suspected was believed to have arranged the negotiations with Dr. John F. Condon, who paid the $50,000 ransom.

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—The authorities investigating the kidnaping and murder of the baby son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh were admittedly no nearer a solution tonight than when the child's body was found twelve days ago. Their only hope appeared to rest in the reward of $25,000 which the state of New Jersey is expected to post tomorrow.

A bill empowering the governor to post a reward for conviction of the kidnapers of any child under 16 years old was introduced tonight and passed by a unanimous vote in the state senate and with only one dissenting vote in the assembly.

Hope for Break in Gang.

Gov. A. Harry Moore and police believe that the offer of such a large reward may cause some member of the kidnaping band to betray his fellows or may cause bickering which may lead them to betray themselves.

Circulars containing facsimiles of the handwriting in two notes written to Dr. John F. Condon, Fordham lecturer, by the gang to whom he paid the $50,000 ransom were sent broadcast to wardens of prisons and jails and police authorities throughout the country. The circular contained a request for prison and police officials to examine the handwriting of all prisoners coming under their cognizance.

Police Get New Idea.

New York police attached significance to the fact that the Condon notes—rather than the original ransom note left on the window sill of the Lindbergh nursery—were made public. The ransom notes has never been broadcast, and persons who might recognize the handwriting have had no chance to see it.

Morris Rosner, who declared after the kidnaping that he had positive information that the child was safe and who served subsequently as an "intermediary," has been subpoened to appear before the Bronx grand jury tomorrow and will be questioned regarding his part in the case.

FLAMES CAUSE $200,000 LOSS TO WAREHOUSE

Damage estimated at $200,000 was done by a spectacular fire which destroyed the interior of a seven story brick building occupied by the Hermann Warehouse company at 1101-25 Cherry street, on Goose island. Several thousand spectators drove to the scene in automobiles to view the fire, and it was necessary to form police lines.

Hides, felt, cotton and oil were stored in the warehouse and added to the intensity of the fire. Danger to other buildings was lessened because the warehouse stood rather alone in its particular locality. The fireboats, the Graeme Stewart and the Illinois, were summoned, but could not lend direct aid, the river being too far for their effective services.

The roof of the structure caved in two hours after the fire started, scattering bricks in all directions, but no one was hurt. Five extra alarms brought ample equipment to the scene. Marshal Michael L. Corrigan directed the fight. Early this morning only the walls of the warehouse were standing.

U. S. AGENTS RAID BIG NIGHT CLUB ON NORTH SIDE

Ten dry agents in command of Administrator M. L. Harney and Acting Deputy A. J. Kennedy raided the Club Ambassador at 226 East Ontario street late last night. The club was one of the bright night spots on the near north side. Twenty-five couples, attired in evening gowns and formal dress, were dancing on the floor or sitting at tables as the raiders entered. They were allowed to pay their checks and depart.

Dan Baroni, 48 years old, 457 Belmont avenue, the reputed owner, and four employés, John Surgis, Nick C. Page, Christ De Piro, and Peter F. Mageros were arrested.

The raid was made on the strength of purchases made several days ago. Testimony as to the purchases resulted in the issuance of a warrant yesterday by Commissioner Walker.

The dry agents were still busy early this morning carting away the equipment of the club in five trucks. The club occupied three floors and a basement. The bar was in the basement.

Supreme Court Is Guarded but No Communists Appear

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—Extra guards were posted at the capitol where the Supreme court was meeting today as a precautionary move following the circulation of reports that a communist demonstration was to be staged. Metropolitan police, circling the city, found half a dozen automobiles loaded with war veterans seeking early payment of the soldiers' bonus. No communists were found and no demonstration developed. A police detail spent the day trailing the automobiles.

Senators Sing Nonpartisan Hallelujahs

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—For a happy half hour today senators tossed compliments back and forth across the aisle that separates Republicans from Democrats as they join in a nonpartisan hallelujah chorus praising their own industry and intellect and calling the public wrong for having dared to call them a little wrong.

SEN. JAMES E. WATSON. [Fotograms.]

It was a letter that started the whole show. The bipartisan letter which Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, former Gova Alfred E. Smith and Frank O. Lowden, and others sent Saturday to leaders Watson and Robinson urging them to "lay aside every form of partisanship and of possible partisan advantage and quickly unite to adopt a balanced federal budget."

Amid Bitter Bickering.

Right in the midst of a bitter bickering over tariff items in the tax bill Senator James E. Watson [Rep. Ind.] rose to talk about that letter, which he characterized as particularly astonishing since it came from men who, he intimated, ought to know better.

Partisan politics, indeed. He scoffed at the charge. Then he proceeded to assure his colleagues, who were glowering at each other, that they really loved each other. Instantly every head was wigwagging self-conscious approval.

"Never in the history of this country," shouted Mr. Watson, "in time of peace has there been such a slight display of partisanship as in this session of congress."

Watson Bangs His Desk.

"This communication is part of the general propaganda to soak the congress"—he banged his desk until the papers hopped about.

"Mr. President," his big voice filled the galleries, "people who are not familiar with legislative methods do not know many of the problems that confront us, of the many difficult situations with which we have to deal as legislators.

"And if they did know instead of criticizing us throughout the country they would be praising us for the progress we have made and for the nonpartisan way in which we have handled these great questions."

Thanks Democratic Leader.

Then the leader of the Republican side turned and looked across at Robinson, leader of the Democrats, as he said:

"I want now, publicly, to thank the leader on the other side, and his colleagues, for having so often submerged their partisan opinions in order that we might enact legislation for the benefit of the country and the welfare of its people."

Once, when Senator Watson lowered his voice, Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.] ventured the suggestion that it might be good to ask the gentlemen who wrote the letter to submit their bill of particulars for proper senate action in the present crisis.

Senator Watson shrugged his broad shoulders.

"In considerations of this kind," he explained, "one must exercise re-

HOUSE REJECTS BILL TO TAX AND LEGALIZE BEER

Put on Record for Fall Election.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—Efforts to bring about a modification of the Volstead act at this session of congress ended in failure today when the house by a vote of 169 to 228 rejected the O'Connor-Hull resolution legalizing and taxing 2.75 per cent beer.

On March 14 the house by a vote of 187 to 227 rejected the Beck-Linthicum resolution to submit to the states an amendment of the 18th amendment restoring liquor control to the states.

On May 18 the senate by a vote of 24 to 61 rejected the Tydings amendment to legalize and tax 2.75 per cent beer.

From the dry Seventy-second congress the anti-prohibitionists will now carry their appeal to the people at the November election at which the next President, the next house and one-third of the next senate will be chosen. The opponents of prohibition have forced the members of both houses to go on record on the issue and the record of those resisting modification becomes the basis of the fight to be waged to retire drys from the next congress.

Parties Split Evenly.

Voting for the beer resolution today were 83 Republicans, 85 Democrats and the lone Farmer-Laborite, Paul Kvale, who represents the Minnesota district that gave Andrew Volstead to fame. Voting against the resolution were 116 Republicans and 112 Democrats.

In general it was city members who supported the move to declare 2.75 per cent beer nonintoxicating and rural members who defeated it.

Technically the vote was on the resolution to discharge the ways and means committee from further consideration of the beer bill, which if carried would have had the effect of bringing the beer bill before the house. As the motion failed the beer bill remains in the committee pigeon hole.

How Central States Voted.

ILLINOIS.

Seventeen members who voted with the wets for the Beck-Linthicum resolution in March voted with the drys against the beer resolution today.

They were Barbour [Rep., Cal.], Buckbee [Rep., Ill.], Hadley [Rep., Wash.], Hooper [Rep., Mich.], M. D. Hull [Rep., Ill.], Johnson [Rep., Wash.], Kniffin [Dem., O.], McDuffie [Dem., Ala.], Montague [Dem., Va.], Perkins [Rep., N. Eight Change to Beer.

These members are drys who, nevertheless, are in favor of allowing the country to pass again upon national prohibition.

Eight members who voted with the drys against the Beck-Linthicum resolution voted with the wets today in favor of the beer resolution. They were Canfield [Dem., Ind.], Crowe [Dem., Ind.], Haines [Dem., Pa.], Kemp [Dem., La.], Kvale [F.-L., Minn.], Larrabee [Dem., Ind.], Loufbourow [Rep., Utah], and Overton [Dem., La.].

"This was the first actual test ever had in the house on who is wet and who is dry," Representative William E. Hull [Rep., Ill.], co-author of the beer resolution, said. "Many who voted for the Beck-Linthicum resolution were in the dry column today because while they concede the right of the states to decide the question they are not willing to vote for actual legislation."

Mr. Hull asserted that if a similar vote is had next December the result will be in favor of the wets.

Cites Election Influence.

"Many of the votes cast against the motion today," he stated, "were cast to protect members in the November elections. When they come back in December, with the election over, and with prospects good that a change will come anyway within their term of office, they will vote in favor of a proposal such as that offered by myself and Mr. O'Connor. There will also be a number of men who like myself will have been defeated in the elections, but will return here to fill out their term. They will vote for such a proposition because they know it's right and they won't have anything to stop them."

Majority Leader Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], who cast a vote against the motion today, asserted following the roll call that the result "simply shows that the only logical proposal for the wets to make is a proposal for resubmission of the eighteenth amendment."

"The recommendations of the Anti-Saloon league and the American Hotel association," he said, "ought to be carried. Both organizations, one opposed to prohibition and the other supporting it, are standing on resubmission of the amendment every ten years.

"That is a chance the wets ought to have and a chance the drys ought to permit them to have. It is their only chance of effecting a change, as is demonstrated by the greater number of votes cast for the Beck-Linthicum resolution than for the O'Connor-Hull bill. They will never get a measure of doubtful constitutionality through the house."

General Debate Limited.

The twenty minutes of general debate which preceded the vote under the provisions of the discharge rule was parceled sparingly to nearly a score of members, most of whom were forced to confine his remarks to 30 or 40 seconds.

"The ways and means committee will never bring in a beer bill while the 18th amendment is in the constitution and the Volstead act is in the statute books," said Representative Charles R. Crisp [Dem., Ga.], acting chairman of the committee.

Representative James M. Beck [Rep., Pa.], a widely known authority on the constitution, assured his colleagues that the O'Connell-Hull measure was in no way in contravention to the constitution.

Representative T. L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.], allowed two and a half minutes to oppose the proposal, spent the entire time quoting a flowery passage from Robert G. Ingersoll on the evils of alcohol.

Cites Same Authority.

Mr. Ingersoll's inconsistency on the liquor question was stressed a moment later by Representative J. J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.], who recalled that the "great agnostic" had written "one of the most beautiful, touching tributes to corn whisky ever penned."

Representative William J. Granfield [Dem., Mass.] told his colleagues that "this bill will write into the Volstead act a sane, sensible and honest definition of intoxicating beverages as a substitute for the present dishonest legal limit of ½ of 1 per cent which has been characterized repeatedly as a "legislative lie."

Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] argued that the beer tax would yield 500 millions, revive industry, aid the farmer, and make those untold millions of American citizens who are ready and willing to pay for a good glass of beer happy.

PUSH COPPER AND LUMBER TARIFFS INTO TAX BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—The wall which the senate anti-tariff bloc has so stubbornly defended against the inclusion of import duties in the revenue bill gave way tonight.

Through the breach, the Republican-Democratic protectionist coalition drove a tariff on copper and one on lumber. Their adoption meant that all of the four tariffs about which the fight has centered had successfully been shoved into the tax bill. The tariffs on oil and coal were adopted last week.

Contemporaneously with the change in the senate situation came word that President Hoover was inviting some 30 prominent newspaper publishers to meet with him next Wednesday night. The President, it was said, hopes to enlist their aid in shaping public opinion in their respective communities.

Seeks Publishers' Aid.

More specifically it is believed that Mr. Hoover desires to enlist them in a nation-wide campaign aimed at the congress that the chief executive considers both stubborn and dilatory. On the publishers' return home, they will be expected to build fires under their respective representatives in congress, particularly with reference to the tax bill.

The conference, it was announced, is to be strictly nonpartisan.

The breach in the anti-tariff opposition was significant rather than complete. There is to be more fighting, but the outlook for the revenue bill's early passage is much improved. There is to be fighting tomorrow when Senator George W. Norris [radical Rep., Neb.] brings up the farm debenture rider to the tax bill. There will be another skirmish when Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] offers his beer amendment.

Antis Fight Hard.

Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.], leader against the tariff provisions, admitted that he had had to beat a strategic retreat when tonight's session brought up the first three of his 500 amendments to the tariff schedule, all dealing with aluminum, and all were defeated. His cohorts faltered badly. He had difficulty in getting the 15 upraised hands necessary to a roll call.

"I have not quit yet," Senator Tydings maintained. "If I could get twenty senators to stick I'd fight against the oil tariff until Christmas."

With the Tydings amendments off the road, the tariff group got quickly to work. A tariff of $3 a 1,000 board feet on all lumber except hardwood flooring was adopted, 36 to 24; then a tariff of 4 cents a pound on copper was agreed to, 41 to 25.

MORON TRAPPED; CONFESSES HE MOLESTED GIRLS

William Clark, 21 years old, confessed to Grand Crossing police last night that he had molested nine girls on the south side in the last two months. He lives at 10441 Ewing avenue and is employed as a delivery boy by a downtown store.

Clark was arrested late yesterday by South Park Policeman Patrick McMahon, 7814 Euclid avenue, after he had enticed the policeman's 8 year old daughter into a hallway.

He was questioned by Detectives Dennis O'Brien and Sylvester McDonald and Assistant State's Attorney William Crowe, and within fifteen minutes confessed. Police believe Clark is the man whom they had been seeking for several months. Numerous complaints, one from Ald. Barnet Hodes of the 7th ward, have been received, they said, in which the descriptions have emphasized a delivery uniform of the style worn by Clark.

RUSSIA ORDERS RABBIT BREEDING TO PROVIDE FOOD

(Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.)

MOSCOW, May 23.—The soviet government today issued a decree calling for widespread breeding of rabbits by individual peasants and state farms as a remedy for the meat shortage.

The government simultaneously opened a campaign to convince the Russian people that rabbit meat is not only an appetizing but a valuable food with a high protein content.

Machine Gunners Battle Snipers in Ohio Mine Area

Uhrichsville, O., May 24 [Tuesday].—(AP)—A machine gun fight between guards at the Wolford coal mine near here and snipers in the hills nearby broke out early today. Hundreds of shots were fired, but apparently no one was wounded. Ivan and J. N. Wolford, brothers, owners of the mine, said the attack of the snipers was another outbreak of a wage strike of miners. The shaft was closed by the strike several weeks ago, but recently resumed operations on an open shop basis.

REALTY DEALER IS FINED.

Harry J. Diskrau, 28 years old, 4145 Broadway, a real estate dealer, was fined $10 for disorderly conduct yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green. Diskrau was arrested for arguing with John C. Gekas, 35 years old, an attorney, in the Foreman Bank building.

LET EUROPE PAY IN GOODS WE NEED —SENATOR LEWIS

Calls Revision of Debts Needed for Prosperity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—A proposal to permit the countries of Europe to pay their debts to the United States through American acceptance of goods which do not compete with American products was made to the senate today by Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.].

SEN. J. HAMILTON LEWIS.

His statement came during the fifth day in which discussion of the tariffs in the revenue bill occupied the floor to the exclusion of the bill itself.

The country, said the Illinois senator, has entered an era in which the old tariff issue has been entirely altered by the fact that the United States is no longer a debtor nation, but the world's greatest creditor nation, with the principal and interest of war, national, and commercial debts owed us totaling some 50 billion dollars.

Accept Products U. S. Needs.

"Through the tariff commission and various boards," said Senator Lewis, "it has been determined what materials and products we do not produce. We may therefore take from our debtors abroad those products for which we have need. We may then arrange that these products be credited on the debts of the debtor lands year by year.

"Thus we may obtain as imports what is necessary without paying American money for them, and we induce the debtor lands to spend their money with us for what they need of our goods."

Urges Debts Revision.

"The time has come," Senator Lewis said, "when America should with courage say to the world of commerce that the first step of restoration is that the debtor countries should have a revision of the debt, being paid by their products or from the money of their products. Thus the proportion of debt charged against them in the different treaty adjustments might be carried out by calculating the value of the product of the debtor on the basis of present day prices instead of the basis of the high prices at the time of the readjustments of the debts in quantity and quality.

"This would permit Germany to pay her creditors on the basis of the present prices of her products and our debtors to pay us upon the same basis. By this system we would equalize the relationships between the different countries and prevent the losses that follow from the descent of prices of products and the change of the system of currency. And we would build new friendships by this generous movement."

straint. Even if these gentlemen formulated a plan, it would be one to which we would pay no attention."

Senators broke into smiles, into grins. Senator Thomas persisted. It would be a good idea to let them suggest a plan, for "it would be so fallacious that the country would immediately see that it was fallacious."

Again Senator Watson shrugged his shoulders, made some remarks about the "intelligent solution we are now engaged in working out for the country" and sat down.

Fess Enters His Complaint.

"All my mail," he began, "expresses a desire to balance the budget but—"

"But don't put any taxes on me," Senator Robinson finished for him.

"Exactly," replied Senator Fess. "Or they write 'don't cut this particular appropriation.' The public is not in sympathy with what we are doing; the only thing for congress to do is to go ahead as it is."

Senator Smith [Dem., S. C.] said that he verily believed if he added up all the tax protests in his mail there would not be an excise item left in the revenue bill.

Robinson Criticizes Cabinet.

Meanwhile Senator Robinson was replying to Dr. Butler in a letter meant for all the signers of the original letter.

"It is my belief," the letter read, "that a fair review of the proceedings in both parties disclose practical unanimity of purpose to balance the budget without regard to partisan advantage. This policy has been rendered somewhat difficult by the continuous delivery of partisan addresses and announcements by members of the President's cabinet."

Of the injection of tariff provisions in the revenue bill, he admitted that it "has without doubt resulted in some confusion and is calculated to cause delay in the passage of the revenue bill."

$5,000 CUT FROM WANING GENEVA EXPENSE FUND

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—Faced with the prospect of having to call home the American delegation from the Geneva arms conference within a couple of months if new appropriations are denied by congress, the state department today ordered a $5,000 a month slash in the expenditures of the delegation. Under existing circumstances the appropriation voted by congress when the delegation went to Geneva in January will be exhausted in six or eight weeks.

Seven members of the technical and clerical staff, including Capt. A. H. Van Keuren, battleship expert, have been directed to leave Geneva and return to Washington or their posts abroad.

In view of the failure of the Geneva conference to get anywhere, doubt has developed as to whether it will be possible to obtain additional funds for the delegation in case the appropriations run out before the conference ends.

ASKS DRY LAW REPEAL FOR SAKE OF U. S. CHILDREN

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt wants the end of the 18th amendment for the sake of the children, she said tonight in a talk before a few members of the Square Table club at the Savoy-Plaza hotel. Under what she termed "the ignoble experiment" the children are growing up "very drink conscious."

Drink is talked about "endlessly," and the department stores are full of paraphernalia for that art, she said.

"In the old days the saloons were not allowed near the schools where young people could see them, and women and children were not allowed to go in. But they visit speakeasies now. And for the first time girls are drinking hard liquor."

A resolution asking that the 18th amendment be repealed, and regulation and control of liquor be given to the states, was passed.

Lord Beatty's Heir Hurt as His Plane Turns Over

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—Viscount Borodale, heir of Lord and Lady Beatty, the latter formerly Ethel Field of Chicago, "cracked up" while flying his own plane from his father's country residence at Market Harborough to the Sywell airdrome, near Wellingborough, today. He made a forced landing because of oil trouble. The plane's undercarriage caught on a hedge and the plane turned over. Viscount Borodale's right arm was slightly hurt.

Lost 72 Lbs. of Fat The Safe Way

"Dear Sir: I'm very glad to write and let you know what Kruschen Salts has done for me. I take it for reducing and have lost 72 pounds in less than one year and never felt better than I do now. I highly recommend it to all my friends. I weighed 234 and now I weigh 162 lbs.—Mrs. O. J. Kohrman, Mariner's Harbor, S. I., N. Y., February 25, 1932."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast. To hasten results go light on fatty meats, potatoes and pastries—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drug store—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back. E. Griffiths Hughes, Inc., Rochester, N. Y.

AMELIA PUTNAM LAYS IN SUPPLY OF NEW CLOTHING

Aviatrix Gets Up Early and Goes Shopping.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—Amelia Earhart Putnam, who had telegraphed Lady Astor asking her to provide her with a nightgown before she left Ireland for London yesterday, arose at 7 o'clock this morning to buy an essential wardrobe. The famous American aviatrix, who Saturday completed the first solo trans-Atlantic flight ever made by a woman, for the past two days has been furnished with clothing from closets of friendly women able to provide clothes which would fit.

"I'm very tall, you know," Mrs. Putnam explained.

On her shopping trip today she bought two suits, an afternoon frock, an evening dress, two pairs of shoes and two hats. She thinks this will last her until she returns to the United States about June 10.

Guest at Luncheon.

This noon Mrs. Putnam was the guest of the British Institute of Journalists at a luncheon originally meant as a greeting to American Ambassador Mellon. M. A. de Fleuriau, French ambassador to London, and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, were also present.

"I believe regular trans-Atlantic flying routes will come within our lifetime," Mrs. Putnam said in an address. "But whether it will be ten or twenty years from now, nobody knows. Such a service is badly needed."

She was invited today to attend the international convention of ocean flyers at Rome.

Mrs. Putnam made another change in her plans today. She was persuaded to allow her plane, which is still at Londonderry, northern Ireland, to be crated and shipped to London for exhibition.

A quiet dinner in her honor will be held at the American embassy tonight, and she hopes to meet noted British women flyers who will be invited to tea at the embassy later. These will include Amy Johnson, Mrs. Victor Bruce, Lady Bailey and Peggy Salamon.

DO-X Escapes Disaster.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 23.—(AP)—The German flying boat DO-X narrowly escaped disaster on arriving here this evening after an uneventful flight of 630 miles from Vigo, Spain, in six and a half hours.

The giant plane alighted perfectly on Southampton water and was taken in tow by the royal air force ship Pinnacle, which was to bring her to her moorings. When the plane was in a position to be moored and the tow rope had been cast off, one of her navigating officers leaning over the bows to grasp the moorings fell into the water.

With all engines shut off, the plane was caught in the grip of a fast flowing tide and carried toward the Calshot air station jetty.

The DO-X mechanics, standing on the wings, strove frantically to get some of her twelve engines working. First one, then another, stuttered and failed.

Saved in Nick of Time.

Finally, when only a few feet lay between the DO-X and shipwreck, an engine sprang into life and the huge ship was slowly taxied out of danger.

Meanwhile, the officer who had fallen into the water was rescued by a royal air force dinghy.

Tonight, an hour or so after her arrival at 7:15 p. m. [1:15 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time], the plane lay opposite the air station in the glare of searchlights. Some 3,000 gallons of fuel were put aboard her so she can resume her flight toward her base at Lake Constance tomorrow.

Airmen Who Flew Atlantic Divided on the Best Route

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 23.—Sixteenth century history was repeated today around the horseshoe table in Ruspoli palace, where fifty-three trans-Atlantic aviators, assembled in the first international convention of ocean flyers, debated without reaching an agreement on the best trade routes across the Atlantic.

HAROLD GATTY.
[Harris & Ewing.]

As was the case in the days of Columbus, when trade routes by water were sought, the aviators of northern countries favored the northern route, across Iceland and Greenland to Labrador, and advocated intergovernmental coöperation to establish radio and meteorological stations along the west coast of Greenland. This project was supported particularly by the Germans and Americans.

Latins Favor Southern Route.

The Spaniards, Italians, and Portuguese, however, favored the southern route. They were predominately interested in routes across the southern Atlantic to South America.

Some aviators favored perfecting planes and working toward a direct nonstop route. Harold Gatty, American round the world flyer, replied to this that such development would probably require a long time, whereas with the present equipment and planes regular trade routes, carrying mail and passengers, might easily be established either from Spain to the United States via the Azores or across Greenland and Iceland to Labrador.

The chief debate in this afternoon's session took place between Capt. Francisco Iglesias of Spain, who favored the southern air route, and Wolfgang von Gronau of Germany, who advocated the Iceland-Greenland route.

Balbo Elected Head of Airmen.

The Italians submitted a long report on a project for establishing a direct weekly trade line between Rome and Buenos Aires, based on data obtained as a result of Gen. Italo Balbo's mass formation flight across the south Atlantic two years ago.

The first business session of the convention of Atlantic airmen, called "Atlantickers" by the Italian press, was held this morning. Gen. Balbo, Italian minister of aviation, was elected president.

President Diaz of the Italian Aero club announced that he had received a telegram from Amelia Earhart Putnam asking if she might attend the convention. He immediately telegraphed the newest ocean conqueror an invitation to come.

Hold Services for Hungarians.

Funeral services for the two Hungarian airmen, Capt. George Endres and Capt. Julius Bittay, who were killed in a crash here Saturday, were held today at the Hungarian legation. All aviators attending the convention were present, as was Premier Mussolini and other government officials. Mussolini followed the funeral cortége from the legation to the railroad station, from whence the bodies were sent back to Hungary for burial.

Mussolini gave a dinner tonight to the fifty-three trans-Atlantic aviators. He awarded decorations to thirty-two foreign airmen. The decorations were of the Order of St. Maurice and Lazarus and the Order of the Crown of Italy. The five American delegates were given the Order of the Crown of Italy. They were Harold Gatty, Albert Hegenberger, Holden Richardson, George Haldeman, and Hugh Herndon Jr.

EXPLORER FINDS SITE OF ARABIAN LEGENDARY CITY

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, May 23.—Discovery of two meteorite craters on the site of the legendary city of Ubar, in the wastes of southern Arabia, was announced tonight by H. St. John Philby, British Arabic scholar and explorer.

Philby has just returned to England after a hazardous 1,800-mile journey through the "great empty quarter" or Ruba el Khali desert. He was the first European to find the long-sought site of Ubar, where, according to persistent Arab legend, there was once a flourishing city which met a sudden and terrible end by fire.

"There were two craters—one 100 yards wide and one 50 yards. One was almost a perfect circle and the other had a gap in the side. That was Ubar—the city whose king was destroyed by fire. But it was not a volcano and certainly not the remains of a city we saw. The craters were surrounded by what looked like lava—a slaggy, vitreous substance piled up like the bastions of a huge castle."

FLOODS SWEEP ENGLAND; CITIES SUFFER DAMAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—A large part of England was flooded today as a result of the heaviest rains in 50 years. The Thames was five feet above normal stage at Shepperton lock and the current was so strong that boat service up the river was suspended.

The whole Orford region is under water. At Bletchingdon the Cherwell river burst its banks and united with a canal a quarter of a mile away. The water rose over six feet in ten minutes today, flooding homes throughout the region. The worst flood in 39 years was experienced at Stratford-on-Avon.

The damage at Derby is estimated at $2,500,000 and at Nuneaton $500,000. In Yorkshire many factories have stopped operations.

CALLS ON PUBLIC TO LIST PERSONAL GOODS FOR TAXES

Jacobs Warns of Penalty for Violations.

The 1931 quadrennial personal property tax schedules demand that taxpayers list everything they own, from "mules of all ages," through radios, automobiles, jewelry, stocks and bonds, to "steam engines, including boilers."

The first of the new schedules were delivered by the printer yesterday, and Assessor J. L. Jacobs outlined his plans for instructing citizens in making proper returns and for furnishing the help of experts for those willing to appear at his office. He also cited the revenue laws governing the scheduling of personalty, and announced that they would be rigorously enforced.

With each of the 600,000 schedules to be mailed out the assessor is inclosing a form letter in which the taxpayer is urged to coöperate with the local government by returning a fair schedule. The letter asserts that every citizen will have to bear his fair burden of the tax in order to spread the cost of government.

Warns Taxpayers of Penalty.

But on the back of the new schedule the penalty for failure to make a return or for making a false return is printed in bold black type.

Each schedule must be sworn to by the maker, the oath to be administered either by a deputy assessor or by a notary public. The assessor said that the oath makes the giver liable for prosecution on perpury charges if the schedule is found to be untrue. The services of a notary public or a deputy assessor for administration of the oath may be had without charge at the assessors' office.

In case the schedule is false, the assessor is given power under the law to estimate the value of the taxpayer's property. He then may place his own value in the books, with a penalty addition of 50 per cent. All the assessments will be made on the basis of 37 per cent of the full value of the property. The same equalization factor is applied to real estate assessments.

Will Survey State Records.

To confirm the returns, Assessor Jacobs said, he will survey the records of the state license bureaus, standard reference books, and the services of expert appraisers.

In 1929 the personalty assessment amounted to approximately $750,000,000, and in 1930 to $900,000,000. Out of 500,000 schedules sent out, 200,000 were placed on the books and 40,000 bills were collected. The tax collections amounted to 65 per cent.

"I would hesitate to estimate the 1931 assessment and extension now," said the assessor, "but, naturally, I believe that there will be a substantial increase."

Stirs Protest in Suburbs.

Indications that Mr. Jacobs' efforts to obtain higher personal property assessements will meet with stern opposition was given last night at a gathering of representatives of chambers of commerce from the western suburbs, held in the Oak Park village hall.

Many of the local assessors in these suburbs already have forwarded the schedules from their taxpayers and Mr. Jacobs has asked the assessors to furnish him with additional information about the taxpayers. He also told the local assessors that many items, particularly automobiles, were listed too low.

The chamber of commerce officials agreed to have massmeetings in their respective communities and seek to arouse public sentiment against what they termed the unwarranted interference of the county assessor with local officials. The small town assessors declared that Jacobs was trying to take away their authority and "make messenger boys of us."

ARRESTS STARTED BY 119 POLICE IN PARKING DRIVE

Second Offenders Get Summonses.

BY HAL FOUST.

One hundred nineteen policemen, detailed to the enforcement of the all-night parking ban, patrolled streets of Chicago between 2 and 4 p. m. this morning pasting warning notices on automobiles parked at the curb and making special note of the 6,500 cars that received the warning stickers yesterday morning, on the first night of the campaign.

Court summonses will be issued today for the second offenders. The fine at the cafeteria traffic court is $2 on the first summons, $3 for the second, and $5 for any others. The arrest slips will be served on the owners in the daytime.

200,000 Park on Streets.

The policemen assigned to the task had no trouble in finding parked cars. It has been estimated that approximately 200,000 owners habitually store their automobiles at night at the curb near their homes.

There was some decrease early this morning in the number of automobiles on the streets all night. In many neighborhoods, vacant lots were invaded for parking. Garages reported an increase in storage business although not as pronounced as they had hoped. Dave [Cockeyed Mulligan] Albin, hoodlum politician and organizer for the Chicago Public Garage Operators' association, could not be reached for a statement.

But the announced purpose of the campaign is not to aid the garage business, which has suffered from the depression, but to decrease losses from theft.

Hope to Reduce Thefts.

"With this many policemen watching the cars," said Charles E. Gambill, a director of the Chicago Auto Trade association, "there ought to be some reduction in the thefts. But will it do any good to arrest owners without enough money to pay garage rent?

"This much police energy, possibly aided by the state's attorney, might do a whole lot more in reducing auto thefts by concentrating upon an investigation of the ring that is reselling stolen parts and accessories.

Called Blow to Business.

"There could not be a worse time than now to increase the cost of automobile ownership from $100 to $200 a year. This all night parking restriction will take the family car from thousands of owners. It's going to hurt the automobile business in Chicago."

The Chicago Motor club announced that it will await the results of enforcement before taking any action Joseph H. Braun, general counsel, said that if the parking prohibition proves oppressive, the club will prosecute a court attack on the constitutionality of the ordinance.

Fire Kills Dog as He Guards Empty Baby Crib

Brownie, a bull terrier, lost his life yesterday in a fire which attacked a store and apartment building at 5329-33 West North avenue after he had aroused Dr. Marcus Peterson, his master, and members of the Peterson family. The dog, Dr. Peterson said, stood guard over the crib of Charlotte, the youngest child, and refused to leave even after the baby had been carried to safety. Firemen later found the dog's body beside the crib. Two other families were driven from their apartments by the fire, which caused damage estimated at $15,000.

2 RELIEF BILLS FILED IN SENATE ASK 6½ BILLIONS

One Opens Way for New Los Angeles Grab.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—Two new federal relief measures, one providing a five billion dollar bond issue to finance a huge federal public works program and the second increasing the capitalization of the Reconstruction Finance corporation by one billion 500 million dollars, were introduced in the senate today. The latter bill would permit the finance corporation to use its additional capital in financing private, state, county, and municipal projects of a self-liquidating nature.

The five billion dollar measure, carrying three billions for roads construction and two billions for rivers and harbors work as well as public buildings and other public works, was introduced by Senator Bronson Cutting [radical Rep., N. M.] to the accompaniment of a caustic verbal attack on President Hoover for his action yesterday in declaring war on Democratic proposals of huge government bond issues for construction projects.

Fine for Los Angeles.

The second bill, which amends the Reconstruction Finance corporation legislation, was introduced by Senator W. Warren Barbour [Rep., N. J.]. It would pave the way for government financing of such projects as the 220 million dollar aqueduct which the Los Angeles metropolitan district proposes to construct between Los Angeles and the Colorado river. Water impounded by the huge federal Boulder dam project would thus be made available for the citizens of Los Angeles almost entirely by Uncle Sam.

The Barbour bill, while not stamped with the approval of the White House, is apparently in line with the relief suggestions offered by the President following his talks with congressional leaders some months ago. It would provide federal funds which the finance corporation could use in financing what the President referred to as "income producing works," by which he meant state, county, and municipal waterworks, toll bridges, toll tunnels, docks, and other works, the earning capacity of which provides a return on the investment.

Disapproves Cutting Bill.

The Cutting bill, on the other hand, provided for exactly the type of federal unemployment and relief aid which the President attacked in his letter of yesterday to Herbert S. Crocker, president of the American Society of Civil Engineers. Through a mistake this communication was given out at the White House as directed to a Richard S. Parker.

It was the President's action in attacking the Democratic proposals through the medium of a letter to a private citizen rather than through a communication to congress which drew the first attack on the President in the senate today. Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] fired the initial shaft, asserting that President Hoover had intentionally made his views known through a letter to a private citizen as a gesture of "disdain and contempt" of congress.

"I have always doubted," he said, "that any profit could come from letters written by heads of governments to actual persons or to imagined characters in order to communicate something in an effort to intimidate congress. I do not understand this system of communication through hearsay to a banking committee, a friend in California, or a friend anywhere to admonish or intimidate.

Sidesteps Formal Messages.

"If this kind of communication continues to be the practice of executives there will be no further need for messages to congress as the constitution provides. All a President will have to do is address his ideas on the state of the nation to a neighbor.

"The President by his action in addressing his views of the Democratic relief programs to a private individual rather than to congress has adopted a method which neither the dignity of his office nor the honor of his position can justify. For his action there is no precedent in the history of decency or any parallel in the country's record of patriotism. His refusal to dignify his condemnation by addressing it to congress is his way of showing his contempt and disdain."

Senator Cutting assailed the President's relief suggestion of ling money to "self-liquidating private enterprises" through the Reconstruction Finance corporation as far inferior to the plan of expanding public works through federal bond issues. He asserted his program would be far less likely to lead to scandal and to ultimate loss than a program of public works construction.

"If it were not for the position Mr. Hoover holds, I cannot conceive why any one would pay any attention to any statement by him," said the radical Republican senator. "The Parker letter belongs to the second stage of the President's usual program of procedure. This program embraces four stages in all.

"Faced with a new proposition the President's first reaction is to ignore it entirely.

"The second stage," he added, "is that of attack and criticism. Then follows the third stage of capitulation and surrender, and lastly the fourth stage in which the President tries to claim the entire credit for anything the program has accomplished."

The Barbour measure provides that the Reconstruction Finance corporation may coöperate in any project with any state, county, or municipality, provided the state, county, or municipality deposits with the corporation, as a guarantee, its obligation of a value of 20 per cent of the estimated cost of the project. Under this bill the finance corporation could also make loans to private individuals backing self-liquidating projects.

Los Angeles Eyes Melon.

For some time Los Angeles and the little sister cities forming the metropolitan water district of southern California have been actively sponsoring a program calling for federal aid for the construction of the aqueduct which is to transport the water from the Boulder dam development to the citizens of these cities.

The water district last year voted to authorize a 200 million dollar bond issue to construct an aqueduct from Los Angeles to the Colorado river. The aqueduct was to take advantage of the water impounded by Boulder dam. The district recently has been looking for a market for its bonds. The idea has been to sell these bonds to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Should the Barbour bill go through it is assumed that it would be possible for the metropolitan water district to borrow construction money.

SPEAKEASY PATRONS ARE IMMUNE FROM ARREST, JUDGE RULES

Boston, Mass., May 23.—[Special.]—Patrons of speakeasies are immune from arrest, search and unlawful interference unless raiders are armed with a warrant for their arrest, according to an apparently far reaching ruling made by a federal district judge here today.

This ruling was made for the first time in Massachusetts by Judge Elisha H. Brewster when he quashed an indictment against Patrick Jordan of Boston, arrested by dry agents in a raid on April 4, 1931. Jordan was searched by a dry agent, who found two pints of liquor on his person. Although the agent did not possess a warrant, he arrested Jordan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, May 23.—One hundred and sixty of Poland's 660 cities are facing bankruptcy with total liabilities of over $100,000,000 and with little chance of an early revival of prosperity, according to the official announcement of the parliamentary vice speaker, Dr. Polakiewicz, addressing a conference of municipalities at Lodz today.

The affected cities have urged the appointment of governmental managers, but the government has refused the request in order to avoid becoming involved in the financial stress. The situation is blamed in the extravagant expenditures of inefficient municipal leaders who controlled the political programs. The majority of the municipalities are administered by members of the Socialist and Nationalist opposition.

Despite the condition of the municipal exchequers, the government will pay full interest on the principal loans contracted in the United States, it was announced.

Forest Fires Rage in 12 Districts in Manitoba

The trial of Attorney Ward Swalwell and another defendant charged with the kidnaping of Dr. Max Gecht and his wife, Georgia, became charged with drama yesterday when Dr. Gecht gave testimony which indicated that Attorney Swalwell plotted the kidnaping and chose the physician, a close friend, as a victim for the abductors.

This evidence of the physician had never been revealed before and was regarded as a blow to the defense, which had insisted that Swalwell, a former assistant state's attorney, acted merely as an intermediary in the kidnaping and did not know the kidnapers.

Dr. Gecht and his wife were kidnaped last Dec. 10. The doctor was held for a day in a cottage in Palos Park and then released with orders to get $5,000 ransom. Mrs. Gecht was held for two more days. The physician paid $2,000 ransom and Mrs. Gecht was released. The gang was later trapped because one kidnaper became infatuated with Mrs. Gecht, a comely blond, and made a date with her.

Gives Evidence Against Swalwell.

Dr. Gecht testified yesterday that two days before the kidnaping, he and Swalwell went to a restaurant on State street for dinner. After entering the restaurant, he said, he missed Swalwell and went out to the street, looking for him.

He found Swalwell, he testified, talking with two men whom he now knows as John Pingera, head of the kidnaping gang, and Neil Montague. Pingera has pleaded guilty to the kidnaping and Montague is a fugitive from justice.

When this testimony was given, Swalwell leaped from his chair and started for the witness stand, muttering incoherently. His attorney, Public Defender Wilbur Crowley, seized him and pushed him back into his chair.

Doctor Tells of Clews.

Dr. Gecht testified that the kidnapers knew facts about his business and affairs which only Swalwell could have told them. Specifically, he testified that his purchase of a hospital in California was known to Swalwell and no one else, and that the kidnapers knew of this purchase.

Galesburg Police Chief Dies After an Operation

Galesburg, Ill., May 23.—[Special.]—John W. Swickard, 70, police chief here since 1923, died this morning of illness following an operation. He was formerly a special agent on the C. B. & Q. His widow and three children survive.

POLICE BLOTTER NAME FAMOUS IN FACT AND FICTION

Is Booked as Critic by Alien Squad.

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—The criminal alien squad arrested as a fugitive from justice today a man whom they described as Frederick Joubert Duquesne, 52 years old, a critic. They held him at police headquarters and announced that British authorities would call for him tomorrow.

Duquesne, according to the police blotter, "was arrested as a fugitive after having escaped from Bellevue hospital May 25, 1918, while confined on a warrant issued at the request of the British consul general of New York, charged with causing the death of three seamen by the explosion of a bomb in a trunk on board the S. S. Tennyson in South American waters."

There was a Frederick Joubert Duquesne, and he did escape from Bellevue hospital while awaiting extradition to England for the explosion on the Tennyson on Feb. 8, 1916, off the coast of Brazil.

Says He's Agent for Book.

But the man booked tonight maintains that he is Frank de Stafford Craven, and admits that he is an agent of a new book called "The Man Who Killed Kitchener" and that he had been negotiating for the filming rights of the book. The book says the man who killed Kitchener was Duquesne.

The British consulate would make no statement on the case tonight. It is generally known that the British pooh pooh the idea that Duquesne had anything to do with the sinking of the Hampshire, which carried Lord Kitchener to his death.

Clement Wood, author of "The Man Who Killed Kitchener," did not bother to go to headquarters for a look at the hero of his work, but said he might if the police asked him to.

"Is it a publicity stunt for the book?" the author was asked.

"If it is, the publishers haven't told me anything about it," said Mr. Wood. "And if it is a publicity stunt, the book deserves it."

Identified by Two.

Thomas Tunney, former head of the neutrality squad, and Chief Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy, both of whom had dealings with the real Duquesne in 1918, assert that the prisoner at police headquarters is Duquesne.

For the last year the man who says he is Craven has worked for the Motion Picture Herald in this city. He wore a monocle, spoke with a precise English accent, toyed with a smart stick, "wrote good copy," and acted, in other respects like the "second son of an earl," according to an office companion.

TWO POLICEMEN CONFESS PART IN BANK ROBBERY

Assistant Chief of Police Clarence Goss and Patrolman George Kmetz of Streator and four men whom they are alleged to have aided in the $52,000 robbery of the Union National bank of Streator last Monday were all locked up last night in the county jail at Ottawa.

State's Attorney R. O. Hansen of La Salle county announced later that Kmetz had signed a confession naming Goss, and that Goss had verbally substantiated Kmetz's statements and agreed to sign a written confession when it was prepared.

A strange series of events in which members of the gang gave each other the doublecross the triple cross, and even the quadruple cross, brought the solution of the crime.

Two Seized in Chicago.

Two of those under arrest were seized in Chicago. They are Abe Rotskoff, 25 years old, 2709 West Washington boulevard, and Ike Katzowitz, 28 years old, 4026 West 16th street. Taken in Streator, besides the two policemen, were Frank Cigrani and Joseph Casmano, bootleggers who dipped into major crime because, they said, "the racket wasn't paying."

Ten men in all participated in the robbery, four of whom are still being sought. Seven of the gang started operations by making the bank's cashier, Earl McNamara, a prisoner in his home Sunday night. Early Monday they took him to the bank and forced him to open the vaults when the time locks were released.

Ten bank employés, as they reported for duty, were captured by the gangsters and forced to lie on the floor until the looting was completed.

While the robbers were in the bank Chief Goss and Kmetz and the tenth member of the band stayed in nearby streets and saw that there was no interruption of the robbers inside.

Suspicion was first directed at Goss for two reasons. First, he had called his superior, Chief of Police Daniel Worrels, about the time the bandits were ready to take McNamara to the bank, and had informed him there was a serious accident six miles out in the country. Then, ten minutes after the robbery was over, he called Pat Roche of State's Attorney Swanson's staff, who is also head of the regional police organization, and gave him a detailed account of what had happened.

Admits Part in Plot.

Roche and A. R. Lapitz, manager of the criminal department of the Burns Detective agency, reasoned that he had gathered too much information in too short a time. So Sheriff E. J. Welter of La Salle county took the assistant chief into custody.

The fact that neither of the policemen got his promised share of the loot may have weakened their resistance and resulted in the confessions. As the authorities repeat the statements of the men who confessed, Casmano and Cigrani, through greed, held out $20,000 that had been left with them for Goss, Kmetz and two other residents of Streator.

The split was to have been $5,000 for each of the local men, the others, who were Chicagoans, taking the remaining $22,000, it was charged. But the bootleggers, retaining $30,000 between them instead of $10,000, aroused the anger of the other Streator participants.

Made to Give Up Loot.

These in turn complained to the Chicagoans, who went back to Streator, kidnaped the dishonest wardens of the loot, and made them give up the whole $30,000. Seeing that fair dealing with such persons was of no avail, the Chicagoans apparently decided to keep the whole $52,000.

Thus all the Streator robbers were without money and angry and became ready talkers. In Rotskoff's room the Chicago police found $1,500 in gold. They learned also that he had purchased a restaurant on Saturday and paid $1,500 for it. In all $15,000 in gold was taken from the bank. It is believed that the major share of the money is in the hands of two Chicago crooks who have not been arrested yet.

LONDON, May 23.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain's recurring attack of gout has compelled his abandonment of public engagements for the next fortnight. He will leave tomorrow to undergo a fortnight's treatment at the Harrogate spa.

JUDGE ORDERS 4 HUSBANDS TO ALIMONY CELLS

Fills Up Depleted "Club" at Jail.

Judge Joseph Sabath, who freed thirteen members of the alimony club from the county jail last week on their promise to try and make up their alimony arrears, sent four new members to the club yesterday. Three of the women on whose complaints the men were jailed are childless and one of them has a job of her own.

JUDGE SABATH.

Mrs. Blanche Ellis, who appeared to be 30 years old or less, complained that Martin W. Ellis, an automobile salesman living in Oak Park, is $656 in arrears on his payments of $15 a week he was ordered to make when she divorced him two years ago. Ellis said that he was working, but that he has remarried, and that his earnings are not sufficient to support his former wife and his present one.

First Wife Is First.

"Your first wife has the first lien," Judge Sabath told him in committing him to jail.

Oscar F. Nerz, 835 Leland avenue, an engraver, owes Mrs. Edna Nerz, who divorced him two years ago, $784, she complained.

"I'm only working four days a week," Nerz said. "She has a job, too, and I need the money more than she does."

"This woman has a claim against you," Sabath replied. "You are in special contempt because you have been working without paying. You should have paid something, if you couldn't pay all you owed."

Another Wife Complains.

Mrs. Pearl Nason, 5621 Winthrop avenue, complained that Edgar F. Nason, who now lives in Milwaukee, owes her $500 on an order granting her $10 a week temporary alimony, entered when she filed a bill for divorce nearly a year ago. She has a daughter, Phyllis, 16 years old, and she testified that she and her daughter are destitute. Nason, a salesman, said that he has a job in which he earns barely enough to buy his own food. He gets a free room with the job.

"I'm going to send you to jail," Judge Sabath told him, "to see if you can't raise the money to pay your wife through some of your friends."

Mr. Doris Graff married Otto Graff, 2512 Burling street, an engraver of precious metals, a year ago, and now has a bill for divorce pending. He owes her six weeks' temporary alimony at $8 a week, and in addition, she charged, she has never been able to obtain any repayment of $4,000 which she gave him when they married. Judge Sabath sent him to jail.

KILLED BY 100 FOOT FALL.

Otto Anderson, 28 years old, 1500 North Washtenaw avenue, was repairing a water tower on the roof of a building at 1351 West 37th place, occupied by the Kellogg-McCabe company, when his harness broke yesterday. He fell more than 100 feet to the ground and was killed.

ROOSEVELT WILL LAY DOWN HIS PROGRAM TO EASE DEPRESSION

Warm Springs, Ga., May 23.—(AP)—Pleased with the way his Atlanta speech on the economic condition was received, as indicated in telegrams of approval that reached him from a dozen states, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt awaited reaction today with some eagerness.

It became known he expects to elaborate on the Atlanta speech and lay down his program for easing the depression and meeting other problems affecting the national government in a supplemental address.

His advisers have suggested such a program should be outlined during the week preceding the opening of the Democratic convention at Chicago, June 27. He is the leading candidate for the presidential nomination.

Before he leaves here Wednesday the governor expects to clean up a mass of accumulated correspondence. He had no engagements today or are there any names on the visitors' book tomorrow.

Gov. Roosevelt will go directly to New York City and remain there until Saturday. The week-end will be spent at his home in Hyde Park and on Decoration day he will speak at the Washington bicentennial celebration at Kingston, N. Y.

HOAN DEFEATED FOR SOCIALIST PARTY CHAIRMAN

Milwaukee, Wis., May 23.—(AP)—Morris Hillquit of New York was re-elected chairman of the Socialist party's national executive committee tonight after four hours of turbulent dispute that shattered the harmony of the convention here.

Hillquit, who made a passionate plea for support, defeated Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee for the chairmanship.

Hillquit's victory was regarded as a triumph for the old guard in the Socialist movement. It was a repulse for a vigorous, midwestern movement. The vote on the floor was Hillquit 105, Hoan 80. But the decision rests on the number of party members represented by delegates, the count on this being Hillquit, 7,526; Hoan, 6,984.

The dispute at times became a disorderly wrangle featured by charges of racial discrimination, and it brought about a geographical schism of delegates.

Even the party's nominees for President and Vice President were at odds. Norman Thomas of New York, the nominee for President, tried to still the tempest by coming to the support of Hoan. James H. Maurer of Pennsylvania, for Vice President, placed Hillquit in nomination for the chairmanship.

WM. O. HARRIS, ROTARY CHIEF, IS GUEST HERE

William O. Harris of Los Angeles, president of Rotary International, was the principal speaker at a dinner in his honor last night at the Medinah Athletic club, given by the Illinois and Eastern Iowa district of Rotary. Among others at the speakers table were Fred C. W. Parker, international secretary; Jules F. Cornelius, lieut. gov. of Division 1, who acted as toast master, and Henry A. Dornmeyer.

BRITISH APPEAL IN FACTOR CASE SET FOR JUNE 1

Hearing of oral arguments in the appeal of Great Britain from the order dismissing extradition proceedings against John (Jake the Barber) Factor was set for June 1 yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Factor is alleged to have defrauded English investors of $7,000,000 in fraudulent stock deals.

Judge Samuel Alschuler set the hearing date with the provision that taking of depositions in the civil suit to break Factor's $3,000,000 Chicago trust fund be postponed until the arguments are made in the criminal case.

Attorneys Thomas C. McConnell and John H. S. Lee were to have sailed for Europe this week to take depositions. They are representing English investors who are trying to break the trust. Attorney McConnell agreed to the postponement in the taking of depositions and said that he believed the move would be approved by Attorney Lee.

Couple Ready to Retire; Thieves Steal Their $6,000

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—Rudolph Kohlhaas, 48, a machinist, planned to sail Wednesday for his old home in Germany with his wife and their adopted daughter Dorothy. The couple had $6,000, saved since they came to the United States nine years ago. They had paid $400 for their passage and promised to give away their furniture to neighbors and to the Salvation Army. But now they will have to start all over again in their four room $15 a month flat because pickpockets took all of their savings.

CHICAGO DEATHS PASS BIRTHS 2D TIME IN HISTORY

Bundesen Records Show Declining Baby Rate.

Fewer persons were born than died in Chicago last week, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, revealed yesterday. Deaths for the week numbered 708 and births 640.

"This is in the face of a decreasing death rate, too," said Dr. Bundesen. "It is significant of how rapidly our birth rate is declining, and brings nearer the danger point of a stationary or declining population."

The preponderance of deaths over births was noted once before, in the week ending last April 22, when births numbered 693 and deaths 714. These are the only two instances when the birth rate has been lower than the death rate in the experience of the registrar of vital statistics, Dr. M. O. Heckard, who has been in the city health department for thirty-nine years. The first birth recording was in 1898.

Births on Steady Decline.

The birth rate per 1,000 population has been decreasing steadily since 1900, Dr. Bundesen pointed out, but the downward curving has been more pronounced in the last two years. The birth rate in 1900 was 26.4 per 1,000 persons; in 1920 it was 20.9; and in 1931 it was 15.3. The total number of births in 1931 was 52,993, compared to 36,313 deaths.

This year the birth rate from Jan. 1 to May 20 was 12.45 per 1,000 population. For the same period last year it was 14.16 per 1,000. Meanwhile, Dr. Bundesen explained, the infant mortality rate is decreasing.

How much of the decrease in the number of babies born can be attributed to the depression is doubtful, said Dr. Bundesen. The swiftly declining marriage rate since the depression began is one factor, but the causes are more general and complex, he said. They are for sociologists to figure out, he indicated.

60,888 Births Is Record.

The largest number of births for one year in Chicago (not the highest birth rate, however) occurred in 1927, when 60,888 were recorded. The greatest number of marriages recently occurred in 1929, when 45,066 were registered, the highest number since 1923. In 1931 marriges totaled 32,064, and in 1930 there were 37,192.

In the five years ending in 1930 34 per cent of the average increase of Chicago's population was due to the excess of births over deaths, and 65½ per cent was attributed to immigration.

New Postoffice Corner Stone Laid by Postmaster General

While two mail planes soared overhead, symbolic of the progress made in postal service in recent years, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, in the presence of business, civic, and political leaders, yesterday laid the corner stone of the new $22,000,000 postoffice building at Canal and Van Buren streets.

"The laying of the corner stone of this magnificent building is an event of major importance to the postoffice department," he said. "This structure, designed chiefly to serve the postal needs of the Chicago area, will be the largest and most complete postoffice workshop in the world. Its total floor space will be about 2,300,000 square feet, or approximately 50 acres. The total cost of the building will be about $22,000,000, of which substantially two-thirds will go to labor."

Promises Great Saving.

The building, when officially placed in use in January, 1934, will mean a great saving in money and increased service to the public, Mr. Brown emphasized.

"When this building is placed in service," he said, "five postal stations now rented at a combined cost of a half million dollars will be abandoned.

"This large sum, plus the $1,000,000 which we estimate will be saved through the increased efficiency in handling the mail originating in and destined for Chicago, as well as the tremendous volume of transit mail, is interest at 3 per cent, the government's normal borrowing rate, on a sum double the cost of this improvement."

In describing the structure Mr. Brown said that 6,600 postal employés with a combined pay roll of more than $1,000,000 a month, will be housed in the postoffice. The peak performance in the past in Chicago has been 13,000,000 outgoing letters in a day, he pointed out, while the facilities of the new plant will accommodate 1,200,000 letters an hour, or more than twice the greatest previous volume.

Other Officials Speak.

Other speakers included United States Senator Otis F. Glenn, Mayor Cermak, Ferry K. Heath, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of the construction of public buildings, and Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder, who acted as master of ceremonies. Telegrams of regret from several senators and congressmen who were unable to be present were read.

A roar of laughter and loud cheers were the answer of the thousands of people crowding the street when a telegram from Congressman Edward A. Kelly was read. The message came from Washington. "The beer question is up today," it said, "and I want to be here to consider it."

A parade of army, navy, and American Legion units, led by the postoffice band, and with Maj. George N. Malstrom as marshal, inaugurated the ceremony. The parade started at Dearborn and Quincy streets, marched south to Jackson boulevard, west to Canal street, and south in Canal to Van Buren. A detail of sixty-five traffic policemen handled the throngs who pushed forward in every street adjacent to the postoffice building. Hundreds more watched the ceremony from the roofs of buildings and the elevated structure.

A momentary hitch developed when the postmaster general bent over the corner stone. The trowel had been mislaid but one was procured while motion picture cameramen and news photographers crowded around. Telephone directories, copies of Chicago newspapers, a history of Chicago, and a history of the postoffice department were included in the records placed in the corner stone.

BORAH WILL NOT SEE CONVENTION RENAME HOOVER

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—William E. Borah, who campaigned for Herbert Hoover back in 1928, won't even go to Chicago this June to hear the Republican convention renominate President Hoover. The Idaho senator, chairman of the powerful foreign affairs committee, tossed that announcement dramatically into political circles here today, but refused to make any comment on it.

An ardent dry, he had been heralded as the leader of the dry forces at the coming convention.

FIND 10 MILLION SPENT ON IDLE SCHOOLROOMS

While 67,000 Pupils Lack Proper Space for Study.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school board admittedly has 186 vacant schoolrooms, while 67,000 pupils are being denied proper school facilities. These idle rooms are valued, by the board's own specialists, at $55,000 each. So the board has $10,230,000 worth of idle schoolrooms, while claiming a shortage of 67,000 school seats.

This information comes from public officials and has not been verified. According to the gossip, the number of vacant rooms is low. Information was sought from the newly appointed business manager of the board, Howard P. Savage. He was asked:

"How many vacant rooms are there in the used schools of the city?"

"I'm new," said Mr. Savage, who has been in the service only two months. "I'll find out for you. Let me ask why you ask that question of me?"

Two Other Questions Ready.

"Because," he was told, "the next question is: How many vacant schoolrooms are your janitors cleaning? And the third question is: How many are you buying coal for and hiring engineers and firemen to heat?"

Later, after gathering his information, Mr. Savage said: "There are 186 vacant rooms."

"Who says there are only 186?" he was asked.

"I obtained that information from the superintendent's office," replied Mr. Savage, who added that there was one school with 14 vacant rooms. He explained that when the vacant rooms in any school number six a janitor is withdrawn from service in that school. He said the heating plants in a school are such that they heat the entire building.

Shortage of 67,506 Seats.

The last official statement of the board said there is a shortage of 67,506 seats. The board then represented that "14 out of every 100 children have irregular accommodations due to this seat shortage." The statements continued:

"Approximately 20,000 Chicago children attend half day sessions of school on this account. Approximately 19,000 children go to school and are seated in inadequate basement rooms or house in rented quarters, and 28,000 children go to school in what is known as 'portables.'"

The excuse given for the admitted 186 vacant schoolrooms is that the buildings are not situated where the children are. That is true in some instances, but it can be shown to be untrue in many others. The office of the superintendent of schools is the dominating influence in the location of schools and in deciding on the number of rooms and other facilities.

Add to Operating Cost.

Under the present system vacant rooms in school buildings add to the cost of operating. Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia university has said there is an unnecessary annual expense of $1,775,000 in the operation of the schools.

At the board's own estimate of the value of a schoolroom the taxpayers have paid $10,230,00 to build 186 idle schoolrooms and are now paying taxes to buy coal to heat them and more taxes to pay for janitors to clean them occasionally and still more taxes to replace broken windows.

The taxpayers also pay about two million dollars a year for educational and business administration for the school system.

Both in Europe

New York, May 23.—(AP)—The Daily News says an annulment of the surprise marriage of Preston Sturges, playwright, and Eleanor Post Hutton, society heiress, is being sought by the latter, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton.

The couple eloped and were married April 12, 1930, despite the objections of the elder Huttons, who were reported to have cut their daughter out of a $50,000,000 fortune provided in their wills. However, she received last year on her 21st birthday a direct inheritance of $1,500,000, left by her grandparents.

The grounds on which the annulment is sought are said to be that Sturges never was divorced properly from his first wife, Estelle Mudge Sturges.

Notice of the annulment action was served on Sturges April 27 in Paris, where he now is residing. Mrs. Sturges also is in Europe at present.

'BLOODY ANGLE,' OF BATTLEFIELD FAME' GIVEN U. S.

Fredericksburg, Va., May 23.—(AP)—"Bloody Angle," a four acre area in the Spottsylvania Courthouse battle field, has been given to the United States by Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stuart of Philadelphia.

The gift was announced here today. It includes trench lines of fierce battles fought in May, 1864.

Maj. Arthur E. Wilbourne, secretary of the Battlefield Memorial commission, said Mr. Stuart bought "Bloody Angle" to preserve it. The gift was dated May 12, 1932, the sixty-eighth anniversary of the day on which union troops, under the command of Gen. Hancock, surged over the confederate salient.

M'GURN CARRIES APPEAL TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

Jack Gebardi, alias "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn, Capone gangster, yesterday carried to the United States Supreme court his fight to evade a two year prison term for violation of the Mann act. A petition for a writ of certiorari was filed with the court on behalf of McGurn and the former Louise Rolfe, now his wife.

McGurn was sentenced a year ago by Judge Walter C. Lindley, and his wife was sentenced to six months in jail, when they were found guilty of making interstate trips as man and wife before they were married. The judgment of the District court was upheld by the Circuit Court of Appeals and a petition for a rehearing denied. A twenty day stay was granted on May 4 to allow filing of the petition with the Supreme court.

RAP JUDGES FOR NOT FOLLOWING CITY IN PAY CUTS

Aldermen Are Forced to O. K. Appropriations.

In approving the appropriations for the Muncipal court last night members of the city council finance committee criticised the judges, who have authority to fix their own budget, for not applying the city's salary reductions to court employes. The committee is preparing the city's 1932 budget.

City employes will be docked a total of 78 days' pay this year, which is a reduction of approximately 21 per cent. The appropriations demanded by the judges for the court provide for 11¾ months pay, a reduction of approximately 6 per cent.

"That isn't fair to city employes," said Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th]. "Why can't the courts compel their employes to take the same reduction that the city employes are getting?

Calls City Helpless.

"The court has the power to fix its own appropriations," replied Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th]. "In other years when we tried to force the courts to save we were forced by court actions to give the judges what they asked for. We are helpless."

Chief justice	$ 519,767	$ 511,880
Clerk	1,115,390	1,968,070
Bailiff	878,927	938,250

As approved last night the appropriations for this year are $203,504 less than those for last year, or a reduction of a little over 7 per cent. The city contemplates a reduction of over 30 per cent in its corporate budget. One new item in the court's appropriations is $3,020 for a pension for Harry Olson, former chief justice.

The aldermen solved one of the problems presented in its budget making—the organization of a new city bureau of central purchasing—earlier in the session by accepting a compromise offered by Ald. James B. Bowler [25th].

Some months ago the council passed an ordinance establishing a bureau of central purchasing to make all city purchases, as well as those of the school board, Municipal court, and other allied bodies, providing those organizations agreed. No appropriation was made for the bureau, however, and its actual establishment awaited action in the 1932 budget now being drafted.

Commissioner Sprague Objects.

Commissioner of Public Works Sprague yesterday objected to the separate department set up in the ordinance, which had been drafted by Mayor Cermak's advisory committee and J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert for the city. He pointed out that the department of public works makes large purchases of supplies and materials, and that if he was to be responsible for the conduct of the department, he objected to loss of control over such purchases.

Ald. Bowler's compromise proposal, adopted by the committee, met these objections by setting up a bureau of central purchasing in Col. Sprague's own department, under his supervision. The committee recommended that the bureau make purchases for all city departments, whereas the previous ordinance had made it mandatory that it do so.

It was pointed out, however, that the department heads are all appointees of Mayor Cermak, and thus bound to observe his wishes in the matter, which will make the central purchasing plan just as mandatory as if it were provided by law. Mr. Jacobs said that he was satisfied with the changes made in his original plan by the aldermen.

TON AND A QUARTER OF DYNAMITE USED IN STARVED ROCK BLAST

Marseilles, Ill., May 23.—[Special.]—A ton and a quarter of dynamite was exploded in a single charge four miles west of here this afternoon to blast 140,000 cubic feet of solid rock in the Starved Rock pool of the Illinois waterway.

The blast sent great sprays of water fifty feet in the air and as the water fell it spread out over the banks like small tidal waves. A network of electrically charged wire had been spread over an area 200 feet across the river and 200 feet upstream, with two sticks of dynamite held down by rocks placed at distances of six feet in each direction. The dynamite was set off with a single cap and battery by Worth German, blasting expert of the Clark Dredging company of Miami, Fla.

The gradual development of the waterway here includes the filling of the Marseilles canal to a depth of six feet to permit construction equipment to get through into the Marseilles pool above, a 300 foot cutoff having to be opened to connect the canal with the main stream.

OPEN SESSION OF STATE K. OF C. IN AURORA TODAY

The thirty-fifth annual convention of the Illinois state council, Knights of Columbus, will begin at Aurora today. More than 1,000 delegates are expected to attend.

A special train on the Burlington railroad will take the Chicago knights to Aurora this morning. Many of them will remain for the convention sessions tomorrow and Thursday.

The exercises will begin with a parade at 10 a. m. today. At 10:30 a. m. there will be a solemn high mass at St. Mary's church, with the Rt. Rev. Msgr. F. F. O'Connor officiating. The sermon will be delivered by the Most Rev. James A. Griffin, bishop of Springfield. Several of the visiting clergy will leave at the end of the convention for Dublin, where the 31st Eucharistic congress will be held in June.

LIBRARY BOARD CUTS $1,410,485 OFF TAX LEVIES

The Chicago public library board last night cut $1,410,485 from its 1931 and 1932 tax levies. The 1932 budget and financial statement of the library will be placed in the hands of the city council finance committee today.

The reduced levy for 1931 will total $1,800,000, while the levy for 1932 will be $1,900,000. By their action, the library directors met the requirements of the D. F. Kelly committee, which has made recommendations for reductions in the expenses of county and municipal taxing bodies.

A. J. Kolar, president, said the library board had started reducing expenditures two and a half years ago. "Our cash position is good," he said.

The largest item in the cut was the building levy, which was wiped off the slate. This represented a saving of $365,032 for each year, or a total for the two years of $730,064.

In the levy for maintenance and operation the board approved a reduction of $390,210 for 1931, and $390,210 for 1932.

Turkey Orders 34 Kurd Rebels to Die on Gallows

ADANA, Turkey, May 23.—(AP)—The Criminal court today sentenced 34 Kurds to be hanged for participating in the Ararat revolt which swept the eastern provinces of Turkey in the summer of 1930. Five hundred others are still to be tried. The 1930 revolt centered around Mount Ararat, on which Noah's ark landed after the flood.

GIRL'S DEFEAT IN LOVE TOLD IN DEATH INQUEST

Student Tells of Meeting Before Her Fatal Leap.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Heart trouble of the physical type, a coroner's jury decided yesterday, was the cause for the suicide on Sunday night of Miss Ethel Sahalnick, who plunged to death from the twenty-fifth floor of the Stevens hotel. Heart trouble of a different type was indicated in a farewell note addressed to her chum, Sadie Kirschner, 1014 North Springfield avenue. Miss Kirschner identified the body.

SADIE KIRSCHNER.

Testifying before a jury at the inquest at 425 Plymouth court, Miss Kirschner declared her friend had been in love for years with a childhood sweetheart, David Mandelbaum. It was apparently after a long talk on Sunday afternoon with Mandelbaum, who is a scholarship student at Northwestern university, that the dead girl made her decision to end her life.

Leaves Note to Friend.

"My dear Sadie," she wrote to Miss Kirschner. "Believe me, only this way is there peace for me. I must have a complete change, a little rest. Explain to my mother, for I cannot tell her. I'm trying to be as happy as I can. Stay with her perhaps for a few days.

"David will have everything else to fill his life. I know I shall never love any one but him in my heart all my life. And you, my dear, be wise, and be comforted and keep happy.

Ethel.

"P. S.—Try every way you can to tell every one I am only gone to the country for a short time. You see, the people at the office mustn't think anything has happened—such savage gossips—like vultures over carrion. Call as early as you can and explain to my boss I am only staying away until I'm fit to work again."

As told to Coroner Frank Walsh, who conducted the inquest, and the jury, the childhood friendship of Mandelbaum and Miss Sahalnick, beginning in grammar school, had its romantic glow during their high school days and through Mandelbaum's first year at college. Then it faded.

Mandelbaum, a slender, studious type of young man, with blonde hair and wearing glasses, was under a constant effort to keep his voice steady as he testified.

"She was a puzzle to me," he summed up his attitude toward the girl, who was 21 years old. "We had seen little of each other since about four years ago. But occasionally she would write a note or telephone me that she wanted to see me. Our talk Sunday was most pleasant. We discussed my studies and my future and I told her I was going away this summer and might not see her before I got back. She asked me to come sooner. She did not seem desperate, but had talked in a depressed way about her poor health and her work, which she hated."

"Had she ever told you she was in love with you? asked Coroner Walsh.

"Yes," replied the witness. "She did once, about four years ago, but for the last two years I had no reason to suspect that she hadn't changed."

As young Mandelbaum sat with his face hidden in his hands in an anteroom at the inquest, the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Work, passed him.

"No good days to you!" called Work. His wife sobbed, "He did it. He did it."

Woman Ends Her Life.

Mrs. Leo Karlsberg, 42 years old, a widow, of 5130 Kimbark avenue, was killed yesterday morning in a fall from the sixth floor of the Hyde Park-Kenwood National bank at 1525 East 53d street. An inquest in the undertaking rooms at 936 East 47th street, resulted in a verdict of suicide. Mrs. Carrie Tiefenthal, her sister, who lived with her, could give police no motive for the act.

Witnesses said Mrs. Karlsberg's cork flooring business had been poor recently and that she had lost heavily in investments. Her sister had suffered a nervous breakdown, and Mrs. Karlsberg herself was believed to be in poor health, it was said.

CRUSADERS PLAN FOR PARADE ON CONVENTION EVE

Leaders Confer Here on Dry Repeal Drive.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The Crusaders, militant anti-prohibitionists—with more than a million members — declared yesterday there is no item in their platform to which the W. C. T. U. or even the Anti-Saloon league could not subscribe, if real temperance were considered.

FRED CLARK.

Fred G. Clark of Cleveland, commander in chief of the Crusaders, came to Chicago to perfect with Col. Ira L. Reeves, midwest director, the plans for a two days' land-water-sky anti-prohibition demonstration June 12 and 13. It is to be a curtain raiser for the Republican national convention, which opens on June 14.

Crusaders State Principles.

The two anti-prohibition leaders gave out the new statement of principles, a recasting that saves words and space without changing the subject matter of the old platform, as follows:

"1. We want temperance.

"2. We want such public confidence in all laws that they can be easily and effectively enforced.

"3. We oppose the restoration of the saloon.

"4. We demand suppression of the bootlegger and the speakeasy.

"5. We support the right of every state desiring prohibition within that state to be protected in that right.

"6. We favor laws restricting to a minimum opportunities for profit in the liquor traffic.

"We accordingly demand such action in regard to the prohibition laws as will make possible the achievement of the foregoing purposes."

Will Argue for Repeal.

The Crusaders plan to have a large delegation of celebrities appear before the resolutions committee of the Republican convention with arguments for a repeal plank in the national platform.

"We are for action by the shortest route," said Mr. Clark. "The Crusaders is not a wet organization; our statement shows that. We are called wet by the opposition because we are against prohibition, but there is nothing in our statement of principles to which the W. C. T. U. or the Anti-Saloon league could not subscribe.

"They are against the saloon. We are against the saloon and against the speakeasy as well. The United States now has an estimated 400,000 speakeasies, as against some 160,000 licensed saloons before national prohibition."

The parade is to start at the Michigan avenue bridge at 6 p. m., and is to wind up at the Coliseum.

SWINDLERS GET LIFE'S SAVINGS; MAN GOES INSANE

Canton, Ill., May 23.—[Special.]—John Hrisic of Norris has been committed to the state hospital at Bartonville, having lost his mind as a result of losing his life savings of $900 to two swindlers who inveigled him into a deal to make a large profit in a short time.

The men displayed a large roll of bills after a round or two of drinks and told him that one of them was wealthy. He said he had a deal in mind in which he expected to make several thousand dollars, and because of Hrisic's need of money would let him in on it.

Supposedly placing a sum of money in a box with Hrisic's money the men left, saying they would return in a couple of days. The box was found to contain wadded paper, and worry over the loss caused Hrisic to go insane.

DELAY RETRIAL OF DR. YARROW IN SHAVER CASE

The rehearing of the suit for malicious prosecution brought against the Rev. Philip Yarrow, head of the Illinois Vigilance association, by Walter L. Shaver, a bookseller, was continued yesterday. Attorneys for both sides indicated they were ready to proceed before Judge Michael L. McKinley in Superior court, but the court was busy with another case and a delay was ordered until tomorrow. It is possible that another delay may be necessary if the pending case is not completed.

A jury in the Superior court awarded the bookseller a $5,000 verdict against the reformer, who refused to pay and was released on a supersedeas from the Appellate court, after several days in jail. The higher court then reversed the decision and remanded the case.

Aviation Notes

Chicago chapter of the National Aeronautic association met yesterday and sent a cable to Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam congratulating her and inviting her to visit Chicago and be their guest at a dinner. A committee of the chapter was appointed to cooperate with the Century of Progress, Chicago's World Fair of 1933, on aviation matters. The committee includes Maj. Lafeton Whitney [chairman], Frederick J. Greenebaum, Owen B. Jones, Robert A. Carr, Barney Hogle, and Dr. William P. MacCracken. William C. Bausch, president of the Air Corps Reserve Officers' Association of Chicago, was elected to the board of directors to succeed the late Lee Hammond.

A new night mail schedule will be inaugurated between Washington and Cleveland on June 6 by Pennsylvania Air lines, the postoffice department announced yesterday. The new schedule will permit mail leaving Washington at 10 p. m. to arrive in Chicago at 5:12 a. m. the next morning. Leaving Chicago at 8:30 p. m., the mail will reach Washington at 4:40 a. m. the next day.

CUBA IMPRISONS TWO AS HEADS OF ASSASSIN PLOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, May 23.—Carlos Mendieta, president of the Union Nacconalista party, and Col. Alberto Mendez Penate, former governor of Santa Clara province, both leaders in last August's ill fated revolt, were arrested and confined incommunicado in the Cabanas fortress today.

Cuba's entire police force is hunting former President Mario G. Menocal and Col. Aurelio Hevia, former secretary of the interior under Menocal's régime, for having taken part in a terrorist plot in which it was intended to assassinate all prominent government and army executives.

Today's arrests followed the uncovering of an extensive and mysterious secret organization, known only as "A. B. C." Maj. Santiago Trujillo, chief of the secret police, today said that the organization included foreign communists and Cuban revolutionists.

He also announced that its leaders are former President Menocal, Carlos Mendieta, accused leader of the August revolt, Mendez Penate, Guillermo Portela, professor of law at the National university, and Col. Miguel Tarafa, prominent sugarman.

According to the police, the organization had marked for death President Gerardo Machado, members of his cabinet, Capt. Miguel Angel Calvo, chief expert of the bureau of national police, Maj. Trujillo and others.

Police say that investigations have revealed that bombs, concealed in small perfumed boxes, were addressed to many government leaders and were deposited in the postoffices at Havana, Matazas and Santa Clara. Several arrived at their destinations before they were confiscated.

Telegrams of warning to all government and army executives averted nation-wide assassinations, it is stated. Army experts destroyed the bombs late this afternoon. Thus far only one death has marked the terrorist campaign. Lieut. Diego Diaz was killed by a bomb Saturday.

DRYS WHO TOOK 9 DRINKS HELD UNFIT TO TESTIFY

U. S. Judge Prefers to Believe Defendant.

A prohibition agent who admits taking nine drinks of liquor which he himself describes as intoxicating, is in no position to testify at a later date regarding his purchases, Federal Judge George A. Carpenter ruled yesterday.

It was disclosed by the testimony of John Schafer and George R. Whitlock, the two agents whom Judge Carpenter criticised, that they took two women with them when they went into an Aurora saloon and bought liquor. They made their "buys," they testified, on Nov. 14 last year. This was nearly three months after Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition director, had forbidden the use of women as informers or companions in gathering prohibition evidence.

Owner Absent; Seize Porter.

The defendant in the case was Benjamin Tiffany of Aurora. Tiffany testified he was a painter, out of work for months, and at the time of his arrest was working as a porter for his board and room in a saloon at 458 High street, Aurora, of which Lester Allen was alleged to be the owner.

He left before there was any sale, he testified, but the agents asserted that Allen was not present and that they made their purchases from Tiffany.

"I regret very much," said Judge Carpenter, "that these women who were so willing to accept free drinks are not here. They might have been in a condition to testify."

More Drinks Elsewhere.

He recalled that Whitlock and Schafer, in addition to describing their alleged purchase of four rounds of drinks from Tiffany, had admitted that they had had "three or four" drinks before that in another place.

"This would put a normal man in a doubtful mental state," Judge Carpenter said. "I don't care how guilty the defendant may be. The preponderance of evidence is not with the government. The agents' testimony goes like a rubber stamp, although I have believed it in many cases."

When Lloyd Moody, the prosecutor, informed him that Allen, the reputed owner of the place, has since been arrested and held to the federal grand jury, Judge Carpenter continued disposition of Tiffany's case until June 17.

Rule Barring Women Ignored.

Judge Carpenter commented on the fact that he had reprimanded a prohibition agent for buying 14 drinks in one place, at a time when the government is trying to economize. The charge that orders against the use of women for purposes of entrapping prohibition violators have been disregarded before by Chicago agents was also made two weeks ago.

ROB STORE OF $2,000 DRESSES.

Three gunmen yesterday took the entire stock of dresses valued at $2,000 from the Alamo Smart Shop, 3742 Chicago avenue. Mrs. Jack Wishengrod, 622 North St. Louis avenue, the owner, was forced to stand in the rear while the store was looted.

MEAT DEALER EXPLAINS TRICK SCALES IN VAIN

Abe Hartenstein, owner of a meat market at 4230 West Roosevelt road, offered two explanations yesterday of why an ingenious short weighting device was found attached to the scale in his market. But after hearing both City Sealer Grein ordered a short weight suit filed against him.

The device consisted of a 10 ounce lamb rib which dropped at the pull of a string and added that much extra weight to every parcel of meat weighed on the scale.

Hartenstein first asserted that one of his children may have tied the rib to the scale while playing in the shop. The sealer objected that the slipknot by which the weight was released at an opportune time was the work of an expert.

Then Hartenstein's attorney charged that his client's competitors had broken into the shop at night, attached the rib, and filed a complaint with the sealer. The suit was ordered started anyway.

NEW WAUKEGAN BANK RECEIVER IS APPOINTED

Trial of Miller and Bains Is Postponed.

L. Elmer Hulse, a Waukegan real estate dealer, was appointed receiver of the closed Waukegan State bank yesterday as the trial of William H. Miller, a former director of the bank, was postponed. In Chicago the trial of John Bain, head of a chain of twelve banks now closed, also was postponed.

Circuit Judges Edward D. Shurtleff and Ralph Dady, sitting at Waukegan, came to an agreement on the appointment of Hulse as receiver. Previously Judge Shurtleff had removed Fred W. Whitney as receiver and appointed John R. Fulton, but Judge Dady, claiming jurisdiction, ordered Whitney to continue. State Auditor Nelson, refusing to recognize either, appointed a custodian to take charge of the bank's affairs.

Attorney Albert L. Hall, acting as a friend of the court and in behalf of a committee seeking to organize a new bank to replace the closed one, submitted the plan to the judges through which both Whitney and Fulton were asked to resign. He said the appointment of Hulse would be satisfactory to the state auditor.

In dismissing a jury which had been selected to try Miller on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the public through the issuance of false statements about the bank's financial condition, Judge Shurtleff said that owing to the receivership disagreement the custodian recently appointed by State Auditor Nelson had sealed records that would be needed in the trial.

State's Attorney Smith said that a new bank probably would be organized by the time Miller's case is called, and he indicated that the charge against Miller and other officials of the bank would then be dropped.

The Bain trial was continued because of a recent decision by the Illinois Supreme court that no judge could sit in the Criminal court without being specifically assigned there. Judge John M. O'Conner of the Appellate court had agreed to preside at the trial, but decided he had better wait until he is duly assigned.

The Douglas National bank, 3621 South State street, was closed yesterday by the board of directors. It has deposit liabilities of approximately $400,000 and a capital of $250,000. The directors said the bank is solvent but further operation would be difficult because of steady withdrawals.

Even Sea Lions Hitch Hike in That Glorious Climate

San Diego, Cal., May 23.—(AP)—A husky young sea lion found hiking in the dust of a highway five miles from the Pacific ocean revelled tonight in a bath at the San Diego zoo.

"That," said Richard M. Allen, motorist who saw the seal waddling along on its short flippers," was the strangest hitch hiker I ever saw."

Heat Wave in Los Angeles Sets Vacant Lots Afire

Los Angeles, Cal., May 23.—[Special.]—Today was the hottest day thus far this year in Los Angeles with an official reading of 93 degrees. One hundred and twenty-three fire alarms were turned in, the great majority of them being grass fires started by the heat on weed covered vacant lots.

White, Twice Convicted as Police Killer, Freed

The state yesterday freed William [Three Fingered Jack] White, labor racketeer, of the necessity of standing trial for the third time on a charge of murdering Policeman Edward Pflaume of Forest Park in 1925. The charge was nol prossed by Prosecutor Harry B. Ditchburne, who admitted there was no new evidence in the case. Twice convicted in previous trials, White both times won reversals in the Illinois Supreme court on the ground that there was reasonable doubt as to his guilt.

No More Piles

You Can End Your Awful Misery Quick Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it sitmulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about any operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

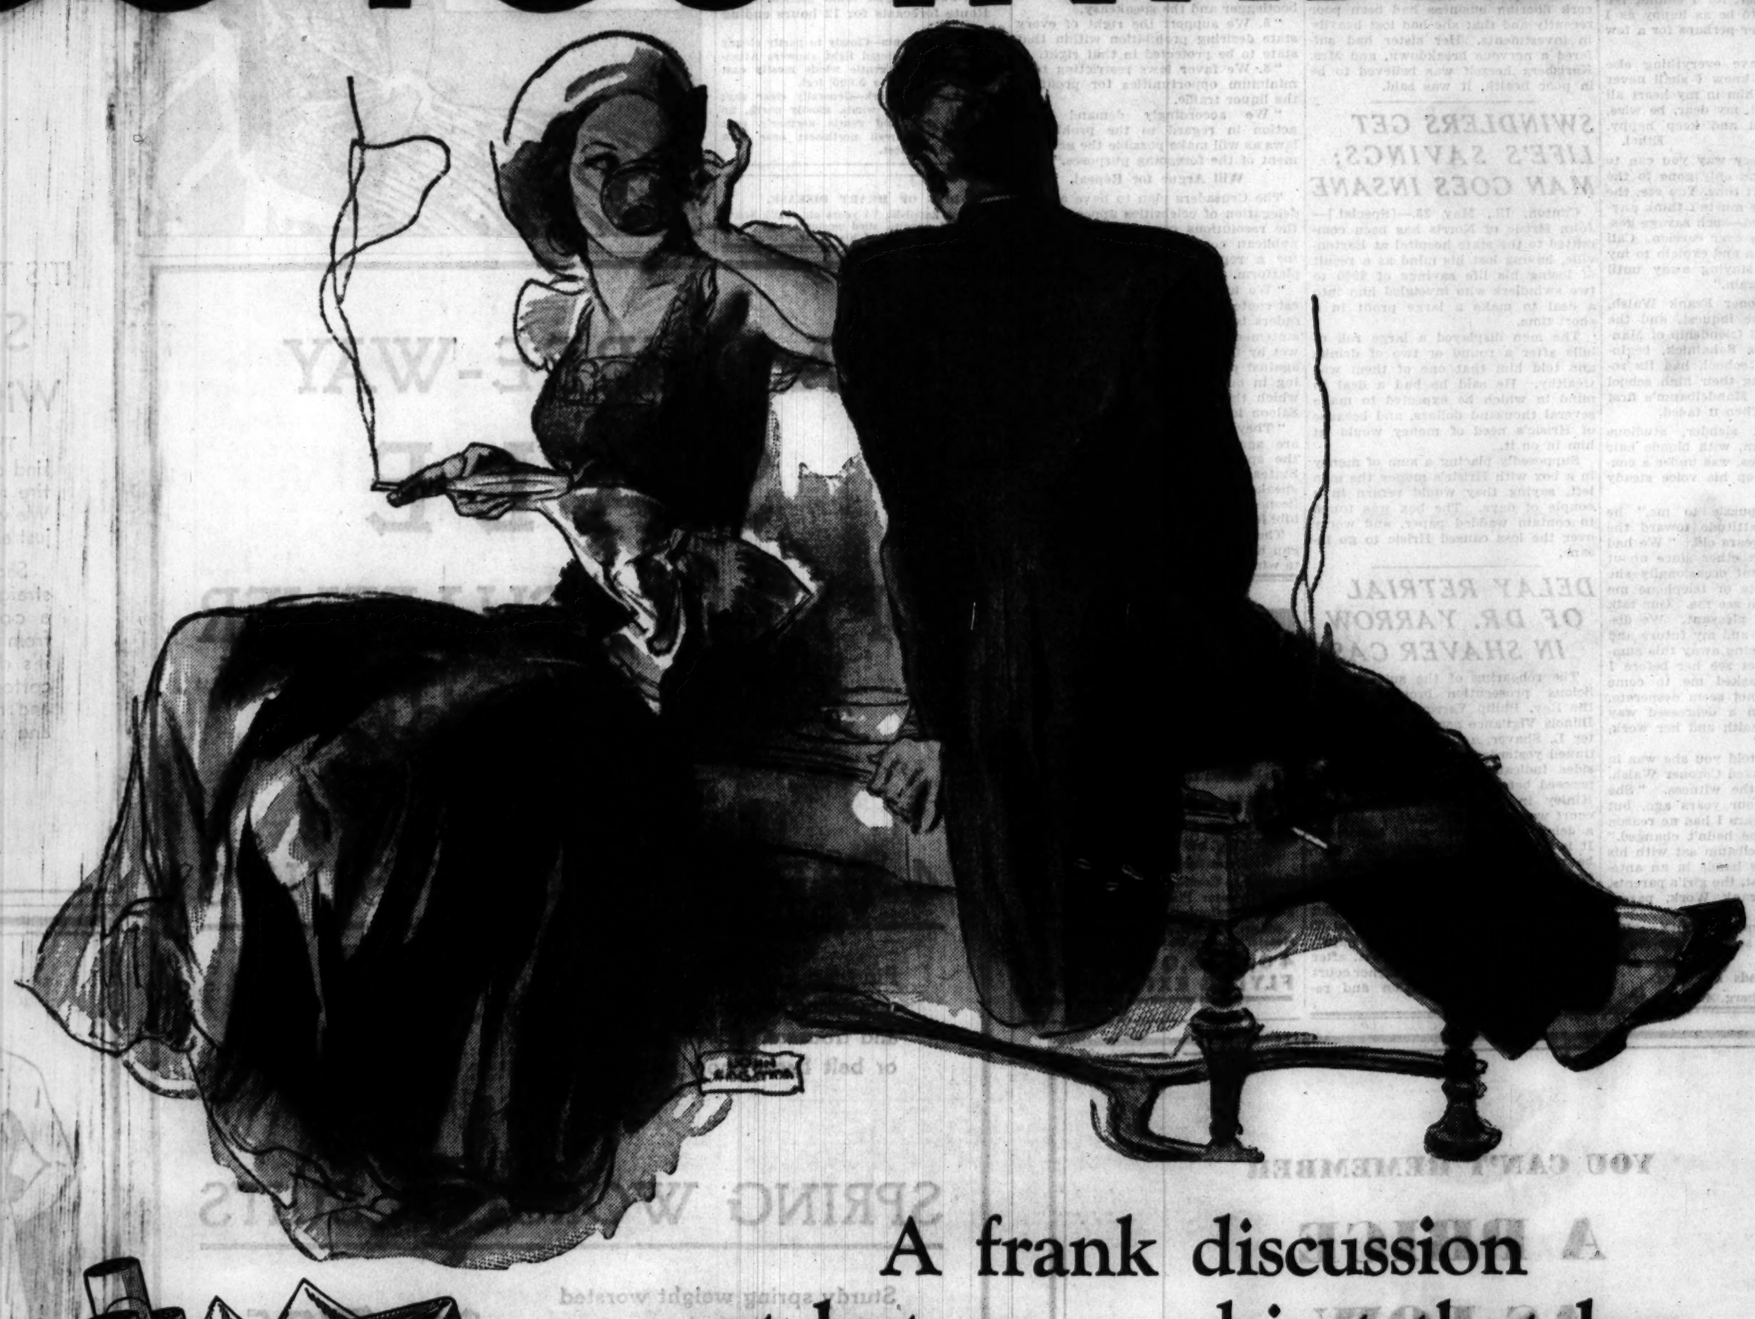
DO YOU INHALE?



O. K. AMERICA
TUNE IN ON LUCKY STRIKE—60 modern minutes with the world's finest dance orchestras, and famous Lucky Strike news features, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening over N. B. C. networks.

A frank discussion at last on a subject that has long been "taboo"

"LET sleeping dogs lie!" So said the cigarette trade when first we raised the subject of inhaling. But dodging an important issue is not Lucky Strike's policy!

Do you inhale? That question is vitally important . . . for every smoker inhales—knowingly or unknowingly. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette! And the delicate membranes of your throat demand that your smoke be pure, clean—free of certain impurities!

No wonder Lucky Strike dares to raise this vital question! For Luckies bring you the protection you want... because Luckies' famous purifying process removes certain impurities concealed in every tobacco leaf. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

So, whether you inhale knowingly or unknowingly, safeguard those delicate membranes!

WITNESSES TELL ILL EFFECTS OF TILTON'S SALVES

Accuse 'Old Doc' as Trial Is Resumed.

The corrosive action of the medicines and salves prescribed for cancer patients by Old Doc Lester Tilton, self-styled medical genius, were vividly described for a Criminal court jury yesterday by three state witnesses as Tilton's trial was resumed before Judge Rudolph F. Desort. Tilton and two associates, Harry De Joannis, professional promoter, and Dr. Joseph Duffy, licensed physician, are charged with conspiracy to violate the medical practice act.

Mrs. Mary Zebroski, a housewise of 1214 North Damen avenue, testified that a salve applied upon her chest by Tilton "burned a hole in the flesh an inch deep and the size of the palm of the hand." The state contends that the principal ingredient of the Tilton medicines was a distillate of peat, containing enough zinc salts to cause death if administered by a layman.

Woman Tells of Salve.

"I had an operation for cancer at St. Elizabeth's hospital," Mrs. Zebroski said, "and was afterwards troubled by an irritation on the scar. A friend sent me to Dr. Tilton, who made an examination and applied a plaster to be kept on 48 hours. The pain was unendurable and I soon removed the plaster. The salve burned a hole an inch deep, for which I am still taking treatments."

Another witness, Fred F. Bittner, 2343 Manitou place, told of the treatment Tilton gave his wife, Hilda. He said his wife had been referred to Tilton by Dr. Otto Holinger, named in the indictment as a confederate of Tilton's, and now dead.

"Dr. Holinger took my wife to the Felician convent, where Tilton had a clinic," the witness said. "Dr. Tilton gave her an injection of his cancer specific and Dr. Holinger told her to hurry right home, saying she would be sick. His prediction came true.

Doctor Can Do Nothing.

"She became so ill that I got frightened and telephoned Dr. Holinger. He said he could do nothing and advised calling another doctor. Then I telephoned Tilton, who said my wife would come along fine if I gave her another dose."

"What happened to your wife?" inquired Assistant State's Attorney Charles A. Bellows.

The third witness, Mrs. Amelia Clifton, 5651 Parkside avenue, rounded out testimony in which she was interrupted at a recess last Friday. After several months' treatment by Tilton Mrs. Clifton consulted a surgeon who, she believes, saved her life.

Kept Getting Worse.

"The doctor treated me twice a day for over a month," she said, referring to Tilton. "I kept getting worse and asked him if the cancer specific was hurting me. He said there was nothing to do but to take more doses. He said no other doctor could do me any good, but that he was a great chemist and a graduate of several medical schools and would give me some of the best blood purifier he ever heard of."

Mrs. Clifton finally despaired of getting real aid from Tilton, she said. Consulting a licensed physician, she was advised to have an operation and discontinue the Tilton treatments, she said. On an objection from defense counsel, she was not permitted to tell the jury what the licensed physician told her of Tilton's medicine.

AUTOIST IS HELD FOR GIRL HIKER'S DEATH IN CRASH

Hits Pole While Talking to 3 in Rear Seat.

Hammond police yesterday held Nick Paulos, 1340 East 55th street, on a charge of manslaughter, pending the inquest into the death of a girl hitchhiker who was killed Sunday when Paulos' automobile ran over a curb and struck a telephone pole.

The girl was Dorothy Smith, 19 years old, 1358½ Elston avenue. Her sister, Josephine, 22 years old, was injured. Paulos and two other girls, companions of the Smith sisters, escaped injuries. Police say the accident resulted from Paulos' turning to talk to the girls in the rear seat while he was driving.

County Toll for Year 424.

Five fatalities in Cook county yesterday raised the county's motor death toll for 1932 to 425. The victims:

John Barker, 18 years old, 1735 String street, died at the county hospital last night of injuries suffered on Sunday in a collision at Harrison and Laflin streets.

Leroy Snedden, 24 years old, of Lemont, died shortly after he had been struck by a hit and run driver on a bridge on McCarthy road a half mile north of his home.

Miss Esther Bernstein, 41 years old, 1142 South Ashland avenue, died in Mount Sinati hospital of injuries received March 1, when she was struck bya truck.

Max Taproff, 66 years old, 2647 Iowa street, died in the County hospital. He was struck May 9 at Western avenue and Taylor street.

Matthew Chrevinko of Cicero, died yesterday in a hospital at Pana, Ill., of injuries received early Sunday in an automobile crash near Nokomis. Chrevinko was the father of nine children. Mrs. Mabel Turhan of Detroit was instantly killed and George Kish, also of Detroit, died of injuries. Martin Turhan, 30, fourth occupant of the car, was reported in a dying condition tonight.

Joseph R. Lewis, 68 years old, a resident of the Jewish Old People's home, 6211 Drexel avenue, died in the Woodlawn hospital of injuries received May 19 when he was struck by an automobile driven by Dr. Louis Novak, 6027 Rhodes avenue.

HURLS DAUGHTER AND SELF TO DEATH FROM MANHATTAN BRIDGE

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—Hundreds of motorists and pedestrians this afternoon saw Roy O. Emery, 35, a disabled veteran, hurl his 3 year old daughter, Jean, over the railing of the south walk of Manhattan bridge, near the Manhattan shore of the East river, and then leap after the child.

Both father and daughter were killed when they landed on the concrete paving of South street, just a short distance away from a group of men who were working on pier 21.

Emery, who was identified through papers in his pockets, lived in Brooklyn. Police found United States veterans' administration compensation checks for $19 and $27 in his wallet.

The ex-soldier's appearance indicated that he had been in ill health.

Extra police were summoned to handle the crowds that gathered at the scene and traffic on the bridge was disrupted for some time.

Emery is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Emery, who identified the bodies. She declared they had no financial difficulties and could advance no reason for her husband's act.

PASCHEN SHOWS HIS BUSINESS COSTS AT TRIAL

Chris Paschen's business expenses were brought into his trial for income tax evasion before Federal Judge Barnes yesterday and the indications were that this laborious process of showing his legitimate expenditures during 1927 and 1928 would consume the greater part of the week. The trial is entering its fourth week and may extend two weeks longer.

Cassius Poust, chief defense counsel, spent most of the day calling business heads whose concerns sold Paschen supplies used during 1927 and 1928 in the former building commissioner's building cleaning and tuckpointing business. At the close of the day about $50,000 spent for these supplies had been disclosed.

At the beginning of the morning session Assistant United States Attorney Sam Clawson suggested that Poust would shorten the time of the trial if he would leave out of the record testimony concerning the operation of the Paschen company which, Clawson claimed, had nothing to do with the case on trial. The government refrained from introducing these records and the defense should do the same, Clawson argued. Poust refused and suggested to Clawson that the government dismiss the criminal case against Paschen and attempt to settle his tax in a civil suit. Judge Barnes ruled that Poust could proceed with the Paschen company evidence.

TWO ROBBERS PUT IN JAIL.

Edward Redfern, 25 years old, 5017 North Lincoln street, and Lawrence Zeller, 26, of 4533 North Racine avenue, were sentenced yesterday to a year in the Bridewell by Judge Frederick W. Elliott. They were captured when they tried to rob Ragnell Somberg, 921 Windsor avenue.

HUSBAND ADMITS HE BURIED WIFE ALIVE IN HEN COOP

Grave Is Covered with Cement Floor.

Muskegon, Mich., May 23.—[Special.]—John Kuzon, 41, his mind apparently unbalanced from months of remorse, sits in the county jail tonight awaiting a life sentence for striking his wife on the head with a hammer and burying her alive in a sandy grave under his hen coop. Kuzon today described how he carand pleaded guilty to a first degree murder charge.

Early the morning of Oct. 30, 1931, Mrs. Kuzon, 37, accused her husband of killing her pet lamb. He denied it and during the fight which followed he struck her with a hammer.

"Later, I went to the basement to sleep and she crawled over to me and put her head on my chest and said, 'O, daddy, love me.' I told her to get away," the confession read.

Then Kuzon described how he went out in the darkness and dug a five foot grave under the hen coop.

"I went back to the house and got my wife. She wanted to know where I was taking her. I told her I was going to carry her to an ambulance and she replied, 'I know what you are going to do,' the confession continues.

"I carried her out and put her in the hole. I placed some quilts, a blanket and her coat in the hole and put a dish pan over her head. Then I filled the hole up with dirt and the next day I put a concrete floor in the chicken coop over the body."

PICKPOCKET HAS MOUTH PICKED; ROBBED OF TEETH

Paul Preacher, 57 years old, who has been a pickpocket almost since he cut his eye teeth, complained in the detective bureau yesterday that he had been robbed by his cellmates.

"What?" demanded Lockup Keeper Michael Phelan. "You, the leading pickpocket of the loop, have had your pocket picked?"

"No," said Preacher; "my faith teeth were pickth right out of my mouth by thome one."

After a brief search Phelan discovered that the teeth thief had tossed his loot into a refuse box. The two plantes, upper and lower, were returned to Preacher and he was advised to sleep with his mouth closed in the future.

Girls! DON'T REDUCE

Until I tell you of the wonderful new way I discovered in

BATTLE CREEK

YOU eat all you want of delicious foods—take no harmful drugs like thyroid—no nauseating "salts"; no back-breaking exercises—Yet you lose excess fat so fast you can hardly believe the scales—you wear clothes sizes smaller as inches peel off bust, hips, limb, neck, arms and face—Oh! it's so wonderful—you'll never realize how thrilled you are going to be until you actually see what it does for you. You feel so peppy—and you look years younger. If you don't win love after this—you are just hopeless, girls.

Here's the recipe—and be sure to cut it out of the paper—You just get yourself a big bottle of Bon-Kora—enough for a month or six weeks. It never costs over a dollar. Eat three square meals a day—four if you prefer—but cut out the starches and fats and eat more of the good strength and tonic foods that the directions in the package tell about.

This BonKora is different from every other treatment you ever heard of. Doctors tell us fat is 66 per cent water anyhow, and this treatment simply makes the fatty parts of your figure throw off enough of the heavy water to make you more nearly NORMAL in weight.

Now let me warn you—when you have reduced your weight and measurements to normal, be satisfied and quit taking BonKora, except occasionally as a conditioner. Don't let yourself become too thin.

BonKora is free from any harmful drugs, is not habit-forming and may be taken by any one according to directions. Remember the name, BONKORA—Beware of imitations! Big bottle of BonKora only 98c at all on May 15, 1930, when they were worth approximately $29,000 or $30,000. The time when Sherwood received about $22,000 more than the market price for his holdings, Mr. Ungerleider's company was as interested as J. A. Sisto & Co. in preserving the market and price for securities of Parmelee Transportation company, Mr. Seabury sought to show.

Under an agreement with Sisto & Co., whose head made the mayor a present of the $26,500 worth of bonds, the Ungerleider company held a substantial interest in the Parmelee Transportation company as security for loans totaling between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000.

Guaranteed Against Loss.

Mr. Ungerleider explained that Louis R. Stark, an official of his company had given Sherwood a verbal guarantee against loss when he bought the stock about a year before it was repurchased at the original price as a favor to John J. McKeon, a friend of Mr. Walker. Mr. McKeon had been helpful in bringing in accounts, the witness explained.

Of even greater potential interest, however, was the identity of the mysterious individual who contributed $23,000 to the Equitable Coach company's $282,000 "trustee fund," with which it waged its winning campaign for a franchise from the city. The key witness, in this transaction, a city official, was reported out of town, when members of Mr. Seabury's staff telephoned his office to tell him his presence as a witness was required.

Walker Friend Acted as Dummy.

Park Commissioner Walter R. Herrick appeared as the dummy in the transaction as far as Mr. Seabury was able to develop his evidence. Herrick accompanied Mayor Walker on a trip to Europe in 1927, when the mayor used a $10,000 letter of credit which had been purchased by J. Allan Smith, an employé of one of the equitable's backers, who later made good a $3,000 overdraft.

But a moment later Mr. McKeon took the stand and testified that he had not introduced Sherwood at the Ungerleider company's office and knew nothing about any repurchase agreement or guaranty against loss until about the time the mayor's agent unloaded his holdings at the price he had paid for them a year before with cash.

Mr. McKeon Bore Gift to Mayor.

It was an odd coincident that Mr. McKeon's name should have figured in the transaction at all for it was he who introduced Mr. Sisto to Mayor Walker and it was he whom the banker selected to take his $26,500 gift of bonds to city hall after realizing an $87,000 profit on a deal in Cosden oil, in which the mayor had not invested.

Paul C. Beardslee, transfer attorney for the Interstate Trust company, testified that a certificate for 350 shares of stock held by Commissioner Herrick was taken up and reissued in several certificates for smaller lots. On Nov. 4, 1926, two of the certificates for 100 shares each were reissued to Mr. Smith.

$23,000 Borrowed on Stock.

On the day before this transaction took place, the two certificates, then in Mr. Herrick's name had been hypothecated as collateral for a $23,000 loan to Smith from the Empire Trust company, according to Henry P. Brunges, assistant secretary of that company. The proceeds of the loan were deposited by Smith in the Equitable Coach company's fund of which he was trustee, the endorsement on the check disclosed.

At the end of a series of involved transactions Mr. Seabury disclosed the Empire Trust company made out a check for $9,194.17 to Smith and that check was shown to bear the endorsement of Senator Hastings.

Emmerson at Mayo Clinic for Treatment to Foot

Rochester, Minn., May 23.—[Special.]—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois will be given an examination at the Mayo clinic tomorrow for a foot ailment. The governor arrived today and probably will be here ten days.

JUST A FEW THINGS MAYOR WALKER WILL BE ASKED TO EXPLAIN

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—When James J. Walker, Tammany hall mayor, takes the witness stand on Wednesday before the state legislative committee investigating the conduct of the city government, he will be asked to explain:

His acceptance of $26,535.51 worth of bonds, for which he had not paid, from J. A. Sisto, when the latter's company was seeking stricter municipal control of taxicabs.

How he happened to take with him to Europe in 1927 a $10,000 letter of credit which had been purchased for cash by J. Allan Smith, a promoter of the Equitable Coach company, who later made good a $3,000 overdraft.

Why William J. Scanlan's payments to Dr. William Walker, the mayor's brother, for medical services were usually 50 per cent of the commissions Scanlan received for sales of equipment to the street cleaning department and the department of sanitation.

Why Scanlan's check for $6,000, part of a commission paid on the sale of material to the city, was found in the bank account of his missing fiscal agent, Russell T. Sherwood.

What steps, if any, he had taken to bring about Sherwood's return to the jurisdiction of the committee?

To explain the $15,000 in fees paid him through Sherwood for "legal fees" by a corporation which had its own regular attorneys.

The relationship between himself and Senator John A. Hastings of Brooklyn, who it has been indicated, was interested in the Equitable Coach company and the application of a Queens Bus company that was a more recent applicant for a franchise.

His financial transactions, his bank deposits and expenditures.

It is understood that Mr. Seabury has not yet presented his entire case but is holding some important evidence in reserve.

WOMEN GREETERS TO MEET CITY'S FEMININE GUESTS

When women guests come to Chicago in the future for such occasions as the national political conventions next month and the Century of Progress exposition next year, they will receive a special welcome from a committee of civic hostesses. At the first annual luncheon yesterday at the Hotel Sherman, members of the Chicago Daughters disclosed their plans to act as women greeters to women visitors.

Mrs. Donald I. Graham, president of the club, announced that the members will have a permanent headquarters in the loop and will coöperate with hotels for tours, shopping trips, provide chaperones for young girls visiting here alone, and will be of general assistance to visitors at the two political conventions.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan of the Circuit court, a guest speaker, urged the women "to do bigger and better things for Chicago and do your best to make the national conventions and the world's fair successful."

Capt. Brock Putnam, representing Maj. Gen. Frank Parker of the Sixth Corps area, detailed the plans of the charity military tournament at Soldiers' field next month. Another speaker was Mrs. William F. Farrell, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

FRANCO-GERMAN LEADERS TO HOLD PARLEY ON DEBTS

BERLIN, May 23.—(AP)—Nationalist spokesmen reported today that German political and industrial leaders planned to meet friends of Edouard Herriot of France and certain French financiers at Luxembourg next week in an attempt to devise an immediate solution of the reparations problem on neutral soil. Herriot was mentioned as he is expected to be the principal member of the new French government that will be formed when the chamber of deputies has reconvened.

FORMER PREMIER INVITED TO JOIN NEW JAP CABINET

Admiral Begins Forming Bipartisan Regime.

TOKIO, May 23.—(AP)—Admiral Makoto Saito, 75 year old nonpartisan Liberal commissioned by Emperor Hirohito to head a new government, began the task today of forming a national emergency cabinet to succeed that of the slain Premier Inukai.

Former Premier Wakatsuki, who headed the Minseito party cabinet that fell last December when Mr. Inukai came to power at the head of a Seiyukai government, was invited by the admiral to join his cabinet. Outstanding leaders of the Seiyukai party and of the house of peers also were expected to be invited into the new ministry.

Wakatsuki Ponders Bid.

After his interview with Admiral Saito, Baron Wakatsuki consulted Baron Yamamoto, adviser of the Minseito party, whom he expected to recommend for a portfolio. Selection of the cabinet is likely to take several days.

Parliamnt convened today in extraordinary session. It was summoned a month ago by the late Premier Inukai to consider raising further funds for the Manchurian campaign, higher tariffs, and control of foreign exchange now that Japan is off the gold standard. After a perfunctory meeting it adjourned until the new cabinet is installed.

The title of baron was conferred on Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa, high commander of the Japanese army in the battle of Shanghai, by Emperor Hirohito today when he learned that the general was dying in Shanghai of wounds received on April 29 when a bomb was hurled at high Japanese officials during a celebration of the birthday of the emperor. Reports that the general had already died were denied, but physicians said that, due to internal hemorrhages, there was little hope of recovery.

Socialists Demand Sanctions.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

ZURICH, Switzerland, May 23.—The executive body of the Socialist Internationale concluded a week-end meeting here by demanding all its national sections to urge their governments to apply sanctions against Japan if she continues to refuse to keep her treaty engagements with the world.

Another resolution said that if Japan continues to "prepare and threaten" aggression against Russia, the Socialists will appeal to the trade unions to oppose with all their force the production and shipment of munitions and other war materials for Japan and to boycott every ship coming from or going to Japan. It asserts a Japanese attack on Russia would serve the cause of counter revolution everywhere and would be liable to lead to world war.

Einstein Launches Anti-War Drive; Drop All Arms, His Plea

GENEVA, May 23.—(AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein expressed the impatience of anti-war leaders with the international disarmament conference by urging today that pacifist peoples of the world demand direct and total disarmament within five years.

Lord Arthur Ponsonby of Great Britain joined the eminent German physicist in condemning to a gathering of newspapermen from all nations the current debates here of so-called experts.

They agreed with the recent statement of Viscount Cecil, British delegate, that disarmament never would be realized through the discussions of generals and admirals.

"Little Evidence of Character."

"There is plenty of intelligence at the arms conference, but little evidence of character," Prof. Einstein said.

The famous scientist and his companion came to Geneva, they explained, because of anxiety over the prospect that the disarmament conference might fail. They said they hoped to stir the peoples of all lands to demand total disarmament within five years.

"We think we represent a very large body of impatient public opinion," Prof. Einstein said. "The methods used at Geneva would be amusing if they were not so tragic. No technical method evolved by experts can prevent war, but only the will of people not to have more war.

"Intelligence is not so important as character and will. There is plenty of intelligence at the arms conference but little evidence of character."

Urge Campaign Against War.

Both urged that men and women enlist to resist war, refusing either to participate in or to support it. International arbitration was advocated for the settlement of all disputes.

Expressing sympathy for the soviet proposals for complete and general disarmament, he and his fellow pacifist said they believed the application of all nations of restrictions now imposed on some, such as Germany, by the Versailles treaty would be a valuable advance.

They regarded the present effort at qualitative disarmament, by eradicating or reducing certain classes of weapons, as futile.

Prof. Piccard Plans New Flight to Stratosphere

BRUSSELS, Belgium, May 23.—(AP)—Having obtained the consent of his wife, Prof. Emile Piccard, who made a flight into the stratosphere last May in a sealed sphere attached to a free balloon, will do it over again next month. He will pilot himself.

Jules Renkin Picks New Government for Belgium

BRUSSELS, Belgium, May 23.—(AP)—Jules Renkin, who resigned as premier Wednesday and was asked by King Albert the following day to constitute a new ministry, succeeded in doing so today. Renkin took the finance portfolio in addition to the premiership. Foreign affairs remain in the hands of Paul Hymans. The cabinet crisis came as a result of a controversy over recognition to be accorded languages used by minority groups.

CHICAGO WAITER ADMITS WRITING EXTORTION NOTES

Taylorville, Ill., May 23.—[Special.]—Peter Ferrarini, 18 years old, who was until recently a waiter in the Casa Lago café at 213 East Superior street, Chicago, confessed to State's Attorney Harry B. Grundy today that he was the author of six extortion letters which have been received by prominent Taylorville residents.

The sums asked ranged from $500 to $50,000, the latter amount having been demanded from Maj. William R. Vandeveer, wealthy retired banker.

Handwriting Traps Him.

Ferrarini, who is the son of Giacomo Ferrarini of Taylorville, was arrested last Friday. The attention of the authorities was directed to him when they learned that he had boasted, while under the influence of liquor, of a close connection with the Capone gang in Chicago. He also told drinking companions that he expected to get a fortune from Maj. Vandeveer.

For more than forty-eight hours he maintained his innocence. Today, however, when the state's attorney showed him that samples of his handwriting were identical with the script of the extortion notes he weakened and signed a confession.

Two Robbers Sentenced.

Several attempts to trap the writer had failed previously.

Two men who pleaded guilty to assaulting Grover Hoover in an attempt to rob him on April 20 were sentenced to one to fourteen years in the Chester penitentiary today by Circuit Judge Jett. They are Patrick Thomas, 33 years old, and William Hertig, 41 years old, both of Girard, Ill.

DROP FORGERY CASE AGAINST LINK SECRETARY

Forgery charges against Miss Agnes Callahan, former secretary to Frank Link, sanitary district trustee during the whoopee era, were nol prossed yesterday by the state in the Criminal court of Judge John Prystalski. She was charged with placing a fictitious name on the pay roll and appropriating $500 in salary checks.

Link is under sentence to serve one to five years following his conviction in the sanitary district conspiracy case. The forgery charge was placed against Miss Callahan, a reluctant witness, to insure her testimony in the conspiracy case.

PLAN NATIONAL SELLING WEEK TO BOOST TRADE

10,000 Legion Posts Take Up Chicago Idea.

Plans for a campaign to stimulate business throughout the nation during National Clearance week, beginning June 27, were announced yesterday by the Merchandise Mart Chamber of Commerce. A concerted buying drive is the nucleus of the plan.

The idea was born within the Merchandise Mart commerce body, but was taken over by the national employment commission of the American Legion, and the 10,000 Legion posts all over the United States, with a total membership of 1,100,000, will coöperate.

As announced yesterday, the purpose of the drive is to clear retailers' shelves of surplus merchandise, so that they may go to the wholesaler for more goods. The wholesaler may then buy more from the manufacturer and the manufacturer would be called upon to produce more goods, which would involve additional use of labor.

Dains Originates Idea.

I. F. Dains of the Western Stoneware company, Monmouth, Ill., who has his Chicago office in the Merchandise Mart, was given credit for the first thought which evolved into the week campaign. His idea involved asking every person in the country to spend at least one dollar during "national dollar week." The Mart Chamber of Commerce worked upon the plan, changing the name of the campaign to that which it now bears. During the discussions Mark T. McKee, executive director of the Legion national employment drive, was called in.

Mr. McKee talked the plan over with several business heads and Legion executives and eventually accepted the chairmanship of the campaign, promising Legion coöperation. All Legion posts throughout the nation were immediately advised of the project and asked to arrange with civic bodies in their communities for coöperation in the drive.

Will Use Extra Clerks.

Chicago business men said yesterday that additional clerks would be put to work in stores for the selling drive, which begins the day the Democratic national convention opens at the Chicago Stadium.

Included in a list of Chicagoans who participated in the conferences which led to the establishment of National Clearance week were: Daniel J. O'Grady, Marshall Field & Co.; C. S. Maginnis, The Fair; Max Harrelson, Illinois Agricultural association; James E. Burk, Stewart-Warner corporation; Paul Schulze, biscuit manufacturer; David Burnstein, Alfred, Decker & Cohn; A. E. Webster, Universal-Atlas Cement company; Paul Kunning, Chicago Association of Commerce, and Sanford B. White, International Harvester company.

Estimate on Extra Labor.

No accurate estimate could be given yesterday as to the probable number of jobs which would be created by the hiring of extra clerks, either in Chicago or throughout the nation. One estimate talked of put the figure at more than 500,000 for the nation. Another was twice that number. Businessmen agreed that it would be necessary to gauge this, to a considerable degree, by the results registered on the first day of the drive.

MADE KNIGHT

FREDERICK H. MASSMAN.

F. H. MASSMANN TO RECEIVE HIGH CATHOLIC HONOR

Frederick H. Massmann, vice president of the National Tea company, will be invested as a Knight of St. Gregory next Monday during the dedicatory services of the new Holy Name Technical school near Lockport, according to an announcement made yesterday by the Rt. Rev. B. J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago.

Mr. Massman's appointment to the order, one of the highest honors of the Catholic church, was made by Pope Pius in recognition of the chain store executive's work in promoting social, educational, and religious advancement of Catholic boys. Cardinal Mundelein will preside at the investment and will be assisted by D. F. Kelly and other knights of the order.

Mr. Massmann, who lives at 7000 Ridge avenue, is president of the Holy Name society, which has 150,000 members in the Chicago archdiocese. His business career began at 14, when he was a grocery clerk at $3.50 a week. He was active in the promotion of the building of the new technical school.

DRAFT PROGRAM OF NATIONAL TAX PROTEST RALLY

A. of C. Announces List of Speakers.

A complete list of speakers who will address the National Tax conference on extravagant governmental expenditures and high taxes was announced yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce, which organized the meeting. The conference, which is expected to attract several thousand business leaders from all parts of the country, will be held at the La Salle hotel on June 2 and 3.

Chambers of commerce, agricultural and civic organizations and industrial leaders are among the groups to be represented. The purpose of the conference is to demonstrate to the Republican and Democratic national conventions the popular demand for lower government costs and taxes.

Notables on Program.

Speakers who have agreed to lead the discussions include the following: Thomas R. Cain of Jacksonville, Ill., president of the National Farm Grain Dealers association, who will talk on "Agriculture's Interest in Tax Reduction;" Mark Graves, director of the budget for the state of New York, who will discuss "State and Local Taxation;" William T. Hamilton of Newark, vice president of the Prudential Life Insurance company, who will talk on "The Policy Holder's Interest in Taxation"; Felix M. McWhirter, Indianapolis banker, whose subject will be "Control of State and Local Expenditures," and W. F. Gephart, St. Louis banker, who will talk on "Economic Aspects of Private Business."

Among the others who will give talks are: D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair; Morris Edwards of Washington, D. C., who will tell "What Business Groups Can Do to Curtail Public Expenditures and Reduce Taxes"; Silas H. Strawn, past president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Bernard W. Snow, and Ernest R. Graham.

State Unites in Protest.

Then the following business men yesterday signified their intention of participating: Cardes E. Snyder, representing Pittsburgh commercial groups; John G. Cox of St. Joseph, Mich.; Jacob M. Klein, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Perth Amboy, N. J.; Stanley C. Draper of Oklahoma City, Harry Heaslebein of Johnstown, Pa., and Conrad Mann of Kansas City, Mo.

Word was received by the association that business interests in Virginia are seeking to unite all groups participating in the campaign against high taxes through a state wide meeting to be held at Richmond.

RECTOR RECKONS HE 'SAVED' 1,000 GIRLS FROM SIN

Tells Court He Possesses List of 500.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—The Rev. Harold F. Davidson, rector of Stiffkey, today resumed his place in the witness box in the consistory court, where he is on trial under charges of having immoral relations with waitresses and show girls chiefly. The charges were brought against him by the bishop of Norwich.

The 62 year old rector carried several steps further the line of defense his counsel had taken previously, that in his many conversations with girls of all descriptions he was merely trying in his singular way to save them from lives of prostitution.

Paid Model's Rent.

His attorneys began by prying into his relations with Nellie Churchill, an artist's model, who was later sent to a "madhouse." The rector declared he paid her room rent and obtained ten or twelve jobs for her. After she was committed to an asylum he said he visited her there. The clergyman denied flatly he ever had immoral relations with her.

Questioned about his alleged invitation to a tea shop waitress to meet him on the street, the Rev. Mr. Davidson said he always approached girls in that manner, and that if he sought a rendezvous it was in order to help her.

"How many girls do you think you have spoken to in this way in the last ten years?" the rector was asked.

Has List of 500 Girls.

"I have a list of more than 500," he replied.

"And how many have you helped?"

"Perhaps 200," he said.

"I mean not only financially, but by advice or by endeavoring to help them morally?" his lawyer explained.

"I should say between 500 and 1,000," the preacher replied.

65 Women and Children Jailed for Nude Parade

NELSON, B. C., May 23.—(AP)—British Columbia's jailed Dukhobor population reached 745 today. Authorities yesterday arrested 65 women and children in a nude parade at Thrums. Of the 65, thirty-six are children ranging in age from 5 weeks to 17 years.

State Delays Bank Case Against Miss Lindgren

Miss Lavergne Lindgren, former cashier of the closed People's State bank of Maywood, will learn on Friday whether she will be freed or tried on a charge of accepting deposits while knowing the bank to be insolvent. Prosecutor Charles J. Mueller was granted a continuance by Judge John Prystalski yesterday to allow the state to decide whether to nol pros the charge or go to trial. Miss Lindgren was acquitted of a charge of making false statements to bank examiners.

"TOO FAR? NO! Only 146,000 miles to date"

An Interview by

ROBERT J. CASEY

Chicago Daily News Reporter

"I guess I've gone too far now not to know what is good for my motor," Hugh Orchard, Convention Manager of Chamber of Commerce at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, tells R. J. Casey, famous Chicago News reporter. "My first Willys-Knight went 85,000 miles. This one has gone 61,000 to date."

HUGH ORCHARD, Convention Manager of the Chamber of Commerce at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, has driven two Willys-Knight cars a total of 146,000 miles.

In front of the War Memorial on a day that was none too warm he pushed the starter to show that the motor was not congealed and directed the reporter to look at his speedometer.

"This is my second Willys-Knight car," he said. "And it has been run 61,000 miles. My other one had done 85,000 miles when I turned it in. It almost grieves me to think of what mileage I might have gotten if all the people who have given me good advice about oil had been earlier with it.

"I started to use Iso-Vis in my first car because it seemed to me that an oil that wouldn't thin out was just what a sleeve valve motor needed. I kept on using it because it did just what I expected of it. My oil consumption was lower, the engine ran more smoothly and the crankcase draining showed better body.

"I do a lot of motor vagabonding on all sorts of highways and country lanes when the weather is good. If I am going any distance I drive fairly fast. If I am just roaming around I go more slowly. I drive about 2,000 miles a month and my car is used under all sorts of conditions. My motor repair bill is nil. So I suppose that I'll go right on using Iso-Vis.

"After 146,000 miles of favorable experience with Iso-Vis, I guess I've gone too far not to know a good motor oil for my car."

Mr. Orchard's 146,000 trouble-free miles prove again what Iso-Vis has demonstrated in laboratory tests and in A.A.A. tests on the Indianapolis Speedway — Positive Lubrication Protection. Iso-Vis (a Standard Oil product) will not thin out from dilution. See the Ball and Bottle Test at Standard Oil service stations and dealers.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

The appeal of the eleven leaders, both Republican and Democratic, for a prompt balancing of the federal budget and an equitable tax bill is mild enough in tone but constitutes such a rebuke as self-seeking congressmen have seldom received. Every one of the eleven signers is a man of character and consequence. Eight of them have held high office and ten of them have for years been leaders of their parties. Partisan as they are by force of habit, they cannot stoop to play politics at a time of national peril. Their appeal for united action is all the proof the country requires that the bickering, the delay, and the eagerness to avoid the fundamental issue of the budget which have characterized this session of congress are as unnecessary as they are harmful. If party leaders, including two candidates for the presidency, can forego the temptation to turn the national misfortune to party advantage, the lesser men in congress can be expected to do as much.

There may be more than one explanation of the cause of the depression, but there is but one explanation of the headlong progress toward complete stagnation which has taken place since congress undertook the consideration of the revenue problem. That explanation is the fear felt throughout the country of what congress will not do by way of balancing the budget and of what congress will do by way of imposing impossibly burdensome taxes on industry. There can be no revival until the two problems are settled and settled aright.

Until men know that their capital will not be confiscated they will keep it in as liquid a form as possible. Fear of confiscatory taxation has served to intensify the mania for liquidation of debts which has driven commodity prices downward and destroyed credit despite all that has been done to turn the tide. If congressmen had the faintest perception of what the people of this country are thinking and feeling today they would not dare continue the shameful spectacle of recent months.

Appeals from business men and professional associations have had little effect on the congressional mind. It remains to be seen if congressmen can heed the advice of their own hitherto respected leaders. If not, it need scarcely be said, the next congress will find many a seat occupied by a strange face.

IT'S AGAIN.

J. L. Garvin, editor of the London Sunday Observer, appeals to America to wake up and to President Hoover to take world leadership; the United States must save the world. Jolly old Garvin, he has acquired a recognized place as mentor in chief to the United States, the voice of wisdom and the cry of conscience. There being so many things America can be expected to do, Mr. Garvin can have a full day any time he puts his mind to it.

Cabled extracts from the latest exhortation indicate that leadership means cancellation of debts. One would have suspected to find as much in a call to the United States to awake out of whatever it is in and save the world. The United States is peculiar in that it must ever look for its best guidance elsewhere than in itself and will find always that even its own advantage is to be procured by surrendering something of value which other people would give up as willingly as they would their right eyes.

America's position as the potential source of all the world's good and the probable source of all its evils is a creation of able foreign gentlemen who know exactly what they want. Uncle Sam seems to have married the rest of the world when he was a bit out of his head and to be now in for alimony in perpetuity.

SECOND CLASS RATES.

Congress is considering an increase in second class mailing rates. The principle which should govern the decision is a simple one: Each class of postal users should pay the costs of the service received. So far as THE TRIBUNE is concerned it wants no favors at the expense of other taxpayers and other users of the mails.

The question is one for accountants to decide. If present second class rates do not cover the costs of second class service the rates should be increased. All that any publication is justified in asking is that the decision be reached by careful and impartial accountants who are interested only in getting the facts and not in making a case either for or against the present rates.

One fact which must be given weight is the possible loss in total revenues resulting from an increase in rates. Publications which now send their papers by mail might be forced by higher postal rates to establish their own distribution services by truck or to intrust the distribution to some other agency than the postoffice. Or if either of these means proved too expensive the publications might find it in their interest to narrow their fields of distribution. The facts must be recognized that distribution costs, if too high, can kill business and that the possibilities of increasing revenues through increased rates are strictly limited.

On behalf of the second class users it is contended that the government is put to little or no added expense for mail cars to carry second class matter. Newspapers and periodicals are carried in the cars which would have to be provided for first class mail in any event. Moreover, the government has relatively small handling charges for second class mail. The papers are commonly carried in bags directly to the mail cars at the publishers' expense and a large proportion of the bags are hauled from the mail cars at the receiving end without expense to the postoffice. Even those papers which are distributed by postoffice employés cannot add much to postoffice costs because the distributing service has to be maintained in any event for first class mail. In this view, the money which the government obtains from its second class service is largely velvet.

So far as THE TRIBUNE is concerned the foregoing statement of the facts is an accurate one. Perhaps some of the other second class users place a heavier burden upon the mail service. If so, the facts ought to be obtainable. The second class users as a group ought to pay for what they get, neither more nor less. To charge them less than their service costs would be as unfair as to charge them more.

ROOSEVELT ON THE SOAP BOX.

Gov. Roosevelt seems to have convinced Deets Pickett of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals that he would be another dry triumph and he may soon convince Norman Thomas that the Socialist party will have two candidates for President if Mr. Roosevelt gets what he wants in the Democratic convention.

Mr. Pickett thinks the New York governor merely pretends that he is a liberal to hold his New York support, being in truth a dry. The deception which the moralist believes the candidate is practicing is not morally offensive to the dry promoter, who says that the deceit should be regarded as ending the governor's obligations to the people imposed upon. As Representative Tinkham has pointed out before, Mr. Pickett's ethics are peculiar.

If Mr. Thomas observes Gov. Roosevelt's competition with him he probably views the rivalry with more amusement than alarm. The governor as a candidate in what his party regards as a year of opportunity apparently seeks to become a great benevolence. The seeking appears to begin and end in loose talk, but it has much to do with "the forgotten man." Mr. Roosevelt in Georgia says there must be a wiser and more equitable distribution of wealth and sounded a warning that "millions in want will not stand by silently forever while the things to satisfy their needs are within easy reach."

The candidate has no specific plan for the more equitable distribution of wealth, but said he believed in bold and persistent experimentation. Stalin's experimentation has been what Roosevelt says the American should be, that of trying one thing and if it doesn't work trying another. The method is rather hard on the guinea pig.

The governor is not alone, even among political candidates, in being concerned for those people who have found the hard times the hardest. The concern is general. It is not an American theory that national well being emerges from widespread destitution or that poverty should prevail for the benefit of special classes. Mr. Roosevelt's effort to give his candidacy a humanitarianism peculiar to him questions his sincerity rather than demonstrates his qualification for the nomination he seeks.

It's a hot race for the prize the governor wants, and it tests the character of the men in it. The condition of the country is such as brings out the best and the worst in public life. The temptations of demagogy are in the times and a man's qualities come out in the pressure.

Editorial of the Day

THE MARRIED TEACHER.

[Omaha World-Herald.]

In times like these, when many deserving persons are in need of work, it is only natural that those who do not have jobs should seek the posts of those who are employed. That natural desire is at the bottom of the present agitation to displace married women teaching in the Omaha schools with unmarried women.

Nevertheless the board of education is impressed with the necessity of maintaining the continued efficiency of the public schools. It feels keenly that with the enforced economy under which the schools are operating, and with the additional loads that are being placed upon the teaching staff, the success and efficiency of our school system depends primarily upon an alert, trained, experienced, and sympathetic teaching force.

The long battle women have been making for equal rights, their plea for recognition as individuals, not as members of a frail and weaker sex, and the long struggle they have been engaged in to be judged upon their own abilities, falls when the fact of marriage is set up as the basis of judging their fitness for any position.

Our teachers, too, have certain rights of privacy that should not be invaded. Those who are seeking the discharge of the married women fully admit that some of them need the work and the salary that goes with it. But who could set himself up as a judge as to the relative needs of one wife as compared to another? There are cases of dependencies, of private demands, of financial obligations, not apparent to the casual observer, that should be taken into consideration. But it would be extremely unpleasant to force the teachers to tear aside the veil of their intimate needs while an examining board sought to determine whether each of them required a salary more than some other deserving person.

The law, by established custom, protects the rights of property. The attempt to oust married teachers closely resembles an invasion of property rights. It attacks the years of preparation they have given in training for their task. It attacks the funds they have invested in normal school and college work. It attacks the property they have purchased because they have been given the right to believe their positions depended only upon their ability and fidelity.

In this respect it would be as grossly unfair to take away from married women their teaching jobs in order to help the unemployed as it would be unfair to take away from Mr. Peter Mehrens and his fellow agitators their property to give to the unemployed.

If public jobs are to be awarded according to the need, in all fairness it would be necessary to investigate the private means and incomes of the unmarried teachers as well as the married ones. The Omaha school board cannot embark upon such an adventure. The problem of unemployment cannot be solved by such minor and temporary measures. With all due respect to the sincerity of purpose of those who demand the married women's discharge, it must be urged that they are mistaken.

GERMAN JAKE PARALYSIS.

JAKE paralysis has been causing trouble in various parts of Europe. A letter written to the Journal of the American Medical Association from Berlin last February said it had been known to occur in Holland, Jugo-Slavia, France and Germany. It is reasonable to expect that other peoples have suffered from it, perhaps without knowing the nature of their trouble. With them the trouble did not result from drinking poisonous booze labeled Jamaica ginger, or other names used in the bootleg trade. However, the cause in each of the countries is using something or other in which there is triorthocresolphosphate.

It will be remembered that it was finally discovered that it was this chemical, mixed and sold as Jamaica ginger, that caused jake paralysis in this country. This substance is used in varnishes in Europe and perhaps in this country. Those persons who drank liquor that may have been recovered from varnish might do well to bear this in mind. If it can be used in so-called Jamaica ginger and in varnishes there is a possibility that it has been used, or may come to be used, in some other of the commercial products which bootleggers sometimes use as a source of alcohol.

However, the principal source of harm in these European countries is a medicine called apiol, or parsley camphor. In Germany this medicine is often found in household medicine cabinets. In other Europeans countries apiol is prescribed more frequently by physicians and it is found in the family medicine chests as well.

Analyses show the presence of this cresyl phosphate in some of the apiol on the market. Just how it got there has not been discovered, but probably some manufacturer used it because it was cheap, without making an effort to find out whether it was poisonous.

One case of jake paralysis developed and was diagnosed in a suburb of Hamburg. The authorities traced the disease to the use of apiol. They found that the medicine was purchased in a drug store in Hamburg. They seized the supply. Every drug store in the city was required to report how much apiol it had on hand and when it had been purchased. Meanwhile the investigation was extended to the wholesale trade, and the manufacturers and their supplies and processes came under investigation.

The symptoms of the disorder are similar to those noted in America. Now that publicity has been given doubtless many people will suspect the nature of their muscle and nerve troubles, and doctors will diagnose some cases that have perplexed them.

LEARN THE WAY FIRST.

Dr. C. warns against the indiscriminate use of light and heat therapy. He tells of a young lady who hurt her instep and had a mild inflammation of the muscles and tendons. She used an infrared light. She overdosed herself and got an extensive inflammation of her foot, ankle, and leg which required six months' treatment to cure. There were several months' invalidism.

He supplements with another story—one illustrating the folly of treating oneself unless one knows just what he is treating, just what to do, and just how to do it. A man was told that a peppermint solution was good for hemorrhoids. This informant had used it externally for external hemorrhoids. The man used it as an enema. He paid a great penalty for daring to go ahead without knowing what he was about.

FATIGUE OR EYESTRAIN.

Miss E. S. writes:

1. What causes the eye to twitch and flutter at various times during the day, even when not under any extra amount of eyestrain. Is this a sign the nerves are "all shot"?
2. Please give a remedy.

REPLY.

1. Fatigue of any kind. However, eyestrain ranks first, mental strain second. Physical fatigue is low on the list.
2. Rest.

RAPID HEART.

A reader writes:

1. What is tachycardia?
2. Is it dangerous?
3. I had a basal metabolism test and it registered minus 20. Is this serious?

REPLY.

1. Rapid, irritable heart or pulse beat.
2. It may be, but in many cases it is not.
3. If this report is correct it means that you have myxedema, or a deficiency of thyroid secretion.

MAY NEED OPERATION.

S. H. writes:

1. I am troubled with a fistula. Can it be cured without operation?
2. What causes it?

REPLY.

1. Probably not.
2. It is due to a local infection. In some cases the infecting microbe is the tubercle bacillus.

RETAINS CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, May 15.—[Friend of the People.]—1. If an American girl marries a British subject, does she become a British citizen? 2. What is the naturalization fee? E. W.

1. No. The act of Sept. 22, 1922, provides that women citizens marrying aliens shall not lose their citizenship unless they appear in court and formally renounce it.
2. Five dollars for a certificate of arrival, five dollars for a declaration of intention [first paper], and ten dollars for a petition for naturalization.

MUST BE A RESIDENT.

Chicago, May 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it necessary when making a will to have two executors? 2. The one is a lawyer living in Illinois, the other an heir in a distant state. The estate is small, consisting of stocks in one company and an apartment in a coöperative building. 3. What amount is the executor paid? C. D. M.

1. No.
2. A nonresident is ineligible under Illinois law. Hence it is necessary to name a resident. Your lawyer is in a better position to advise you than we are.
3. You are in a position to specify this compensation if you are preparing the will. There is no absolute rule.

MR. FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT (gosh, they can't stop him!) says that part of the responsibility for the present w. k. situation is due to the Coolidge and Hoover administrations. And no matter even if this makes Cal just as mad as all git out he won't sass back at Franklin unless he gets his regular syndicate rates of two dollars a word, by gum!

TURN OUT the Anti-Saloon league! Mobilize the W. C. T. U. girls! News of a luncheon given to Flying Amelia in London says that when a toast to the king was proposed "Mr. Mellon performed that ceremony with the aid of whisky and soda." Uncle Andy had better watch out. He'll be yanked back across the seas charged with sedition, lese majesty, defiance of Bishop Cannon, conspiracy, and high treason. Whisky and soda! Horrible. Oh, Uncle Andy, drink another toast to the king. We love to read about it, anyhow.

"4,000 FOREIGN STAMPS and Rare Coins Stolen."—Headline. Just what is a rare coin nowadays, anyway? From what we hear on all sides dimes, quarters, half dollars, and dollars would be considered by a great many of us as rare coins. And a five buck bill or a ten spot! Oh, those are so exceedingly rare that whenever we get hold of one of 'em we go out behind the garage at night and bury it in a deep hole.

AUNTY: A MEMORY.

The firelight flickered, the house cat purred,
The wind swept wailing over the hill;
There came the startled cry of a bird,
And in my heart it is crying still;
And even now I can see her there,
Close by the worn old mantel shelf,
Reading . . . The Cat Who Walked by Himself . . .
Sindbad the Sailor . . . Prester John . . .
Aladdin's jewels . . . The Golden Bough . . .
Ducats, parades, and a Sacred Cow . . .
Little by little I sank to sleep,
Fighting it off with might and main
Lest the Sandman carry me down too deep
Little by little the mimes would fade
And though I knelt by the bed and prayed,
What need of an angel? Aunty was there.

The snow fell soft on meadow and tree;
Beautiful things she said to me,
Laying her hand on my hand, to show
The delicate rings of the flying snow;
Building me up with a wish for a wall
A city of frost and gossamer, tall
As the spires of heaven; I laid my hand
On the crystal beaches of wonderland;
I set my feet on a shining shore
Where never a child had been before;
Homesick I am to this very day,
But Aunty alone could have made it stay.

The stars grew thick in the summer sky;
We stood on the hilltop, Aunty and I,
Watching the lift of the Pleiades,
A silver fleet upon stormy seas;
Never a word we spoke, and yet
I shall be dust when I forget;
I shall be dust when my heart is dead
To the wind in the star-heaps overhead,
And the long pale slope of a midnight hill,
And the thought of Aunty beside me still.

Now, in the calm of the twilight hour,
Children I love are waiting for me;
Would that my love could give me power
To show them the things I used to see;
Infinite wonders, strangely sweet,
Miracles hidden where Aunty lies
With the small wild blossoms about her feet

Write to Your Congressman Today.

Sir: Will you write in an' ask how many mosquitoes there is an' help me get a job? Maybe it don't seem clear to you so I'll explain all about it. Me an' Gert an' the Rolphs was playing Black-Jack last night an' about twelve o'clock Gert says for me to take a walk on account of me not being able to see the cards no more an' the Rolphs wantin' to take our silverware for my I. O. Us. so I walks down to the corner an' meets a fella in about the same condition as me only he can't stand up so I sets down on the curb with him and he tells me about this job. He says that the government has got a lot of bureaus just for countin' an' figurin' out things that people ought to know. F'instance there's one that counts the fish in the Mississippi River an' another'n' counts the nuts in the Yellowrock Valley an' then there's another'n' that figures out how much love bull frogs has got for each other an' one that finds out where bed sheets wear out first an' such like. This guy says it'll be a snap to get a mosquito bureau on account of so many congressmen wantin' to spend money so all we got to do is get our friends to write in and ask how many mosquitoes there is an' then we'll get the job of countin' em. Will you, huh? Will you? THAT OTTAWA FELLA.

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor, Arthur Pearson Scott, associate professor of history.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

What writers illustrate the romantic movement in literature?

[This question will be repeated and answered in this space tomorrow.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

What American contribution to literature and art have Europeans taken most seriously?

ANSWER:

Edgar Allan Poe has probably been the most influential American writer, while Walt Whitman and Mark Twain have been regarded as expressing in different ways something characteristically American. In music, Negro spirituals and jazz rhythm have attracted attention. In architecture the skeleton steel construction of the skyscraper and the architectural theories of Louis Sullivan and Frank Lloyd Wright have had a marked influence in Europe.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

REPUBLICAN—1904.

Chicago, June 24.—The Republican national convention, which began in the Coliseum on June 21, nominated President Theodore Roosevelt to succeed himself and named Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana for Vice President. Scenes of wild enthusiasm followed the placing of the name of Roosevelt in nomination by ex-Gov. Frank S. Black of New York. Even Cornelius Bliss, treasurer of the national committee, carried a flag and showed symptoms of being about to yell if sufficiently provoked. It was 20 minutes before Chairman Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois was able to restore order.

The nomination was seconded by Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana in a finished oration which was almost too good, too classic for mere politics—and which again worked the delegates up to a condition of political ecstasy.

DEMOCRATIC—1904.

St. Louis, Mo., July 9.—Alton B. Parker of New York was nominated for President at 5:42 o'clock this [Saturday] morning by the Democratic national convention at the Coliseum on St. Charles street on the first ballot after a night of the most sensational demonstrations of enthusiasm ever witnessed in a national convention. It was a night of impassioned oratory, taunting invective, and fervid pleas for harmony.

The ballot came after William J. Bryan made a final plea in a vain attempt to swing the delegates to Senator Francis M. Cockrell of Missouri and resulted: Parker, 658; William Randolph Hearst, 200; Cockrell, 42; Richard Olney of Massachusetts, 38, and Edward C. Wall of Wisconsin, 27, with the rest of the 1,006 votes scattering.

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—Henry G. Davis, 80 years old, of West Virginia, was nominated for Vice President by the Democratic convention at 1:16 o'clock this [Sunday] morning.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 24, 1916.

LONDON.—Today has witnessed the bloodiest fighting in the whole battle of Verdun. The struggle of the first days of the German assault or of the second mighty effort to overwhelm the fortress are outdone by the titanic force of today's blows. Thousands of Germans fell in the attacks and their net result as far as the Germans were concerned was to leave the battle lines where the French had left them after the successful attacks of the day before. Only about the Thiaumont farm, east of the Meuse, does Paris admit the loss of a foot of ground. Berlin contents itself with reporting the repulse of French attacks. The Germans made a supreme effort to recapture Fort Douaumont, but the French grip on their old fortifications was too strong.

THE LONE EAGLE'S DUTY.

New York, May 16.—It is time for Col. Lindbergh to come off his perch as the Lone Eagle and do his duty as a citizen to other parents and to children by going before grand juries in New Jersey inquiring into the kidnaping and murder of his son and the Bronx grand jury inquiring into the swindle perpetrated upon him through the gullibility of the inept Dr. John F. Condon, better known as Jafsie.

So far as I can learn, Col. Lindbergh has never made a formal, full, detailed and official statement for the record about what took place at his house on March 1 when his son was kidnaped, nor has he made such a statement in regard to the swindles of which he was a victim, or the intended victim. Thousands of other fathers have lost children through the machinations of criminals and have not been thought immune to legal processes or newspaper interviews. The father of the little girl murdered by Hickman in Los Angeles in 1924 went through a more horrifying experience than Col. Lindbergh when his dismembered child was tossed to him from a motor car. That father promptly helped the newspapers and the grand jury, which were doing their utmost to aid him. We compel little girls raped by brutes to tell the sordid details to police, prosecutors, grand jury and petit jury. Col. Lindbergh, because of his exceptional position in the public eye, is doubly bound to do all he can to aid the newspapers, officials and grand jury working not only in his behalf but in behalf of the entire country in the determination of whether crime shall acknowledgedly gain the upper hand over the forces of decency. MAIL BOXES.

Chicago, May 16. — In most modern buildings there are handsome mail boxes with rectangular orifices and flaps. On these flaps is printed "Letters," for fear, I presume, that some one might think that they are for pies.

These inscriptions, "Letters," rising at a right angle from the flap, form a good primary line of obstruction to the free passage of mail matter through the orifice aforesaid. The secondary line of obstruction is the raised edge, also rising from the flap at a right angle thereto—and ornamenting, or otherwise, said flap on top, bottom, and sides.

It is innocuous except at the bottom, where it freely engages the edge of any envelope which one may endeavor to thrust past its very obstructive surface without bimanual effort or the exercise of much wiliness and dexterity.

These extremely irritating and inefficient devices should be made so that mail may pass into the box unobstructed by them or, preferably, they should be removed, for the postoffice does not allow time for dust to collect within them.

I am afraid that this great inspiration is not patentable, so I am presenting it to the public, the irritated stenographers, who now throw half their mail on the floor, and the inefficient people who, in 1932, produce such funny things. P. A. VAILE.

FROM A STUDENT PICKET.

Evanston, Ill., May 21.—I was one of the student pickets criticized in the editorial entitled, "Youth and Agitators," for protesting Kentucky mine conditions.

I agree with you that the case is not a proper one for the police court, for a dignified and peaceful demonstration, when other means fail to secure either action or attention, is surely no crime. I object to the statement that the affair was one of "youthful and imitative egotism."

The group which I represent is a group of men of the average age of 25. They are not "schoolboys." All have degrees from first class universities, with either two or three years of post-graduate work. Most have had several years of practical experience. Their actions were fully premeditated, and were a definite and concerted attempt to arouse people to the fact injustice is being done to people who have no means of making their own protests felt. They are men who are going into social work, who desire to depart from the accepted custom of making grandiose but idle preachments, and then winking at chief offenders because they move in high financial or social circles.

I do not know how much experience the editorial writer has had in the mines, but I have lived in the soft coal region. I have worked under ground myself, I know the conditions of which I speak. If the editorial writer had worked himself through almost four years of college and graduate work, and had seen his family sacrifice that he might have an education that the sons of moneyed magnates may have for the asking, and if he had seen his family suffer from need when these same superwealthy men are grinding profits out of the lives of workers, perhaps he himself would have been seen on the Gold Coast that morning with a sandwich sign bearing the simple inscription, "Give Justice to the Kentucky Miners."

NO THANKS.

Chicago, May 13.—C. M. W. complains of losing his bill fold containing $50. He bemoans the fact that the finder did not have the courtesy to return even the bill fold and personal cards. I once found a pay check and as soon as possible called at the bank on which it was drawn, thinking I would do the loser and payee a good turn. The bank was not interested and suggested I phone the payee. I did this. They acknowledged the loss and asked me to mail it to them. No thanks or a word of appreciation. Perhaps the finder of C. M. W.'s bill fold returned one before.

OTTO A. RUPPRECHT.

T. R.'S MANTLE.

South Bend, Ind., May 19.—Congratulations on the front page cartoon of this morning featuring T. R. We certainly could use T. R. again. There is one man, however, who is fearless and would come close as an equal to Roosevelt. That man is former Gov. Chase Osborn of Michigan. Wish he would accept the Republican nomination. Any chance?

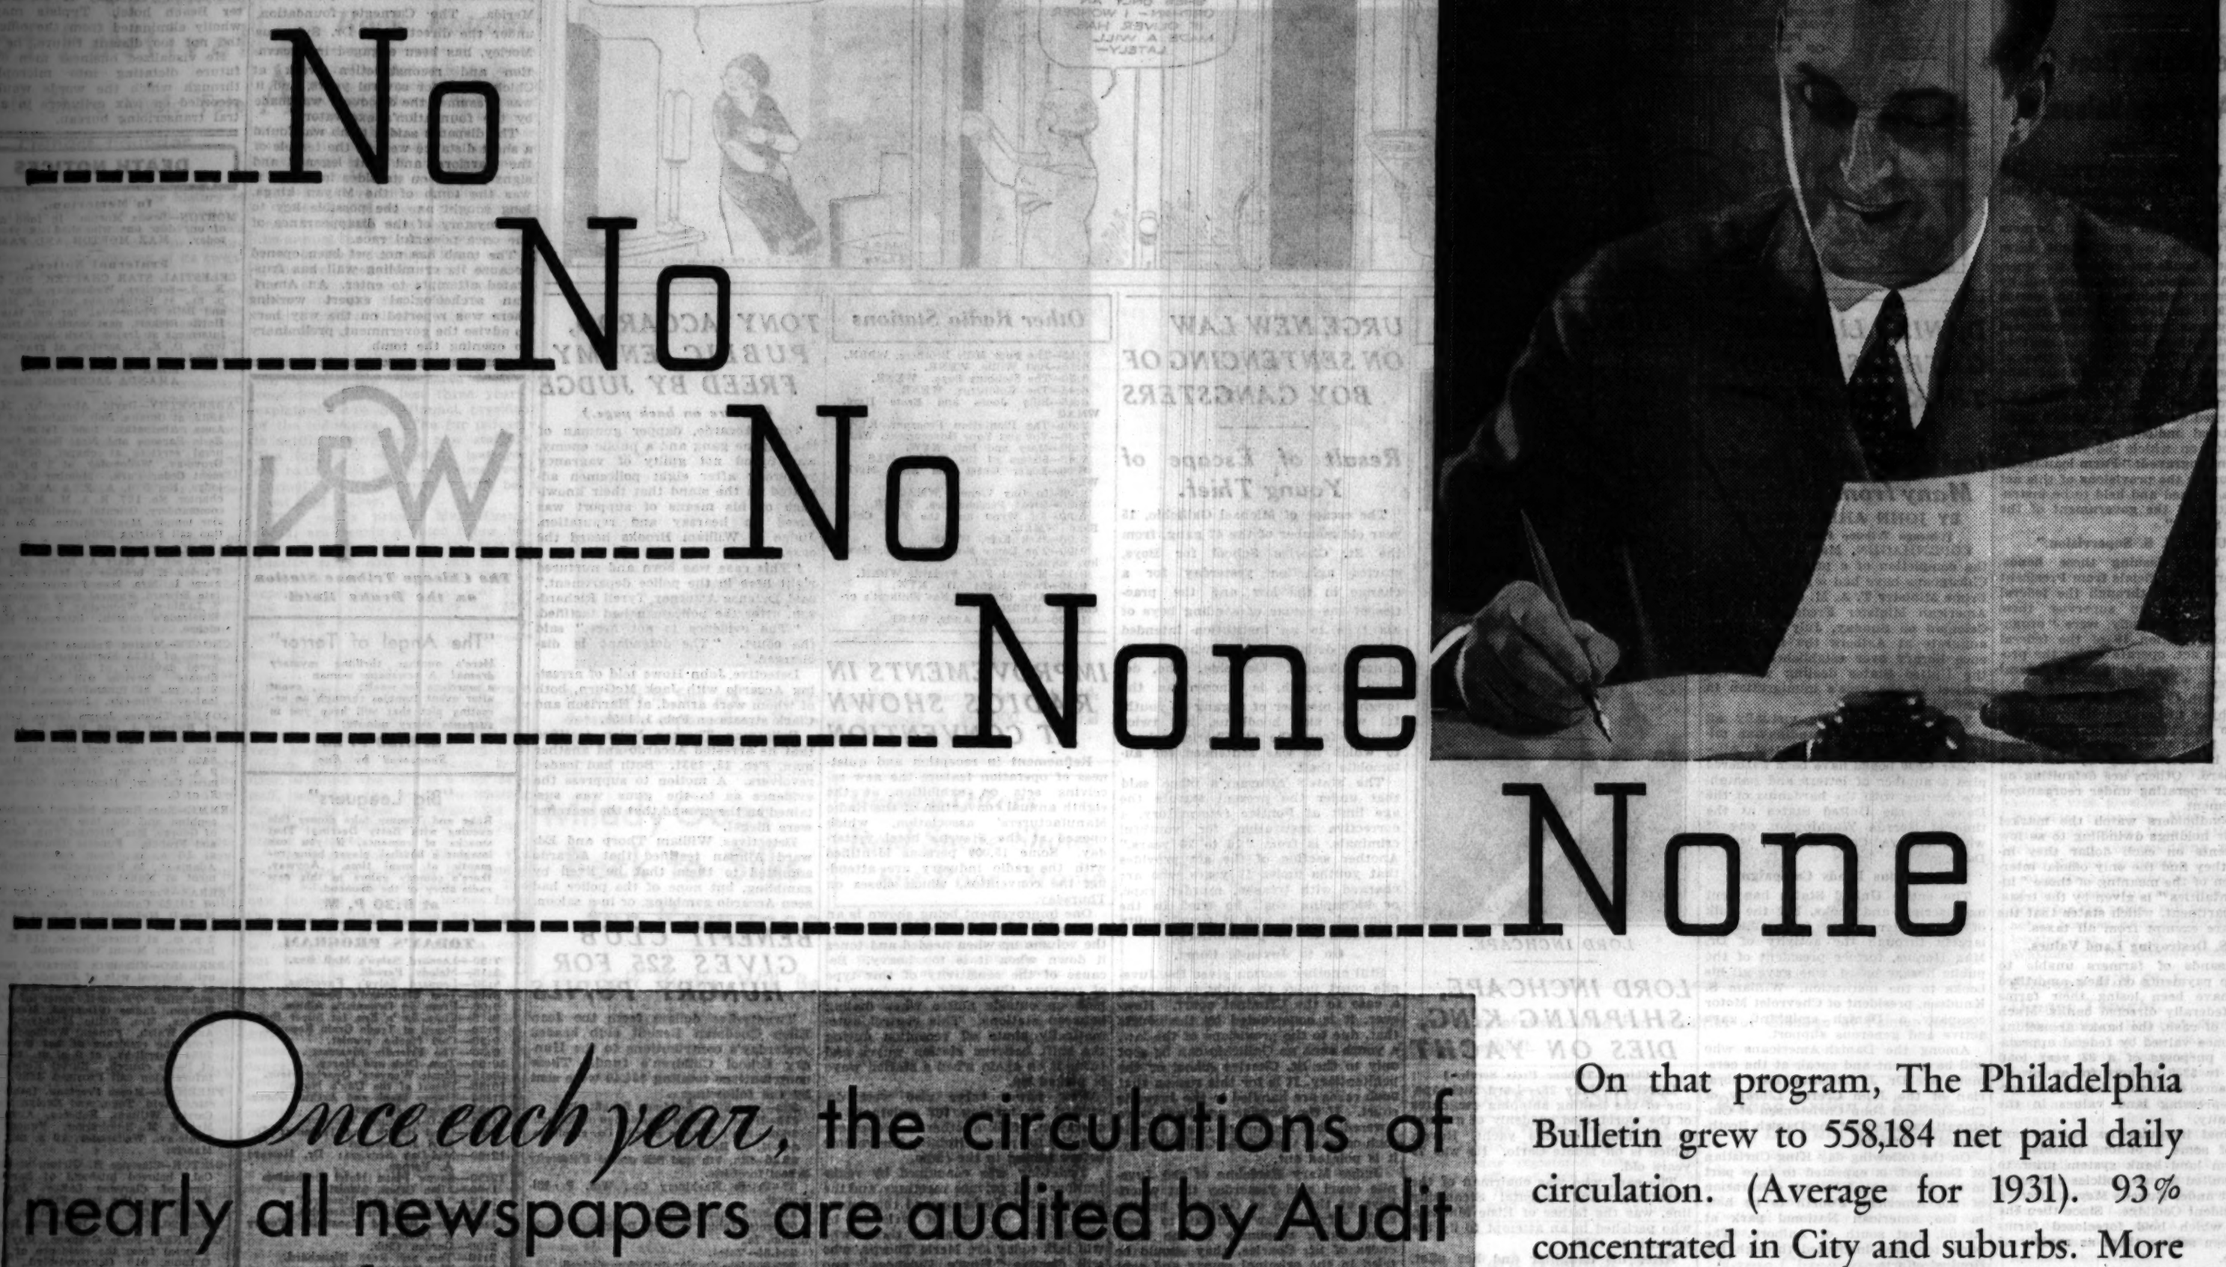
A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE



Once each year, the circulations of nearly all newspapers are audited by Audit Bureau of Circulations, Inc., of Chicago.

Expert auditors determine the total number of copies a newspaper sells, where the circulation goes, and—more important—how it was secured.

Page 3 of their report covers how it was obtained: Were premiums or contests used? Were subscription salesmen employed? Were subscriptions received through group organizers? Were combination offers made with other publications? And so on.

The Philadelphia Bulletin's audits, year after year, reveal the same answer to these questions:

"No . . . No . . . No . . . None . . . None!"

The Bulletin's circulation reflects the normal, natural demand of Philadelphia for this newspaper.

It has grown solidly and substantially through thirty-six years, just as this great City of Homes has grown . . . until, today, nearly everybody reads The Philadelphia Bulletin.

There were no short cuts to circulation peaks, but a day-after-day task of presenting news in a way that won confidence, of being accurate . . . timely . . . entertaining.

On that program, The Philadelphia Bulletin grew to 558,184 net paid daily circulation. (Average for 1931). 93% concentrated in City and suburbs. More than two and one-half times the circulation of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper; greater than the sale of all Philadelphia morning newspapers combined.

If you have a product that will sell with advertising, The Bulletin will give you an audience of more than 500,000 families—almost the entire Philadelphia market.

A market where 85% of the people live in individual homes, and 55% own their own; where more than one billion dollars yearly are spent in retail stores.

And the advertising cost of The Bulletin is the lowest of any newspaper in America.

LAND BANK BOND BUYERS FIND U. S. PLEDGES HOLLOW

Forced Sales Beat Down All Farm Values.

BY PAUL POTTER.

What is an "instrumentality of the United States government?"

Several hundred thousand farmers and investors in government farm land bank bonds are raising the question. As farmers, they were told by government officials in the period from 1916 to 1926 that the federal treasury was authorized by congress to provide them long term credit to buy farms through the printing of tax exempt bonds for joint stock land banks and federal land banks.

As investors, thousands of persons were urged to aid the nation's basic agricultural industry by purchasing the bonds on which the treasury department engraved: "Farm loan bonds issued under the provisions of this act shall be deemed and held to be instrumentalities of the government of the United States."

"Under U. S. Supervision."

The banks issuing these bonds, as government officials from President Wilson on down through the federal bureau created to supervise them pointed out repeatedly, were "organized under section 16 of the federal farm loan act, operate under the provisions thereof and are under federal supervision."

Now, with 49 joint stock land banks still subject to bureaucratic red tape, even to the approval of the banks' clerical help, three banks have been placed in receivership by the farm loan board. Others are defaulting on bonds or operating under reorganized management.

As bondholders watch the market for their holdings dwindling to as low as 6 cents on each dollar they invested they find the only official interpretation of the meaning of those "instrumentalities" is given by the treasury department, which states that the bonds are exempt from all taxes.

U. S. Destroying Land Values.

Thousands of farmers unable to keep up payments on their amortized loans have been losing their farms to the federally directed banks. Much in need of cash, the banks are selling farms once valued by federal appraisers for purposes of a 33 year loan at $175 to $250 an acre for as low as $5 an acre, each such forced sale further depressing land values in the community.

Criminal irregularities in the handling of some 2 billions invested in the farm land bank system prior to 1929 resulted in new policies and management under Eugene Meyer, directed by President Coolidge. Since then the banks which hold foreclosed farms have been selling them as rapidly as possible.

Buy Bonds; Deny Farmers' Aid.

If they should realize $6,000 on a mortgage of $10,000 which the government had approved, the land bank directors buy bonds they previously issued, on a market which at present quotes these securities at from $6 to $63 per hundred. By purchasing bonds with par value of $10,000 at about $3,200, as has happened in recent weeks, the bank is keeping liquid while forcing down land and bond values.

In a period when good farmers with lands clear of indebtedness seek much needed credit that the farm loan system was created to provide, none is available from the joint stock land banks. Insurance companies are in no position to provide farm loans, no matter how good the farm.

The farmers who were aided in the boom days of the government's land loan business face loss of their entire properties and past payments, while the bondholders who were told by the government that they were getting gilt edged investments, "instrumentalities of the United States," find their only security has been the red tape of "federal supervision."

DANISH LIBRARY GATHERS EPIC OF TREK TO AMERICA

Includes 4,000 Books, Many from Chicago.

BY JOHN AHL-NIELSEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, May 23.—Marking the completion of a project in which Chicagoans have had a generous part, Prime Minister T. A. M. Stauning and American Minister Frederick W. B. Coleman on Sunday, July 3, will inaugurate at Aalberg the first reference library ever established outside the United States dealing with the subject of one race's immigration in America.

The archives include virtually all available matter on Scandinavian migration to the United states. Altogether 4,000 books have been gathered plus a number of letters and pamphlets dealing with the hardships of the Danes in the United States at the time of George Washington, one of whose officers, Capt. Markoe, was a Dane.

Dr. Henius Leads Campaign.

The entire United States has sent manuscripts and books, but the bulk of the matter comes from Chicago, largely through the activity of Dr. Max Henius, former president of the public library board, who gave all his books to the institution. William S. Knudsen, president of Chevrolet Motor company, a Danish emigrant, gave active and generous support.

Among the Danish-Americans who will be present and speak at the ceremony are Dr. J. Christian Bay, librarian of the John Crerar Library of Chicago, and John Christensen of Cincinnati, president of the Danish Brotherhood of America.

On the following day King Christian of Denmark is expected to take part in the 20th annual Danish celebration of the American Fourth to be held in the American National park at Rebild, just south of Aalborg. The park, too, was instituted through Dr. Henius' efforts.

Town Gives Castle, Estate.

The city council of the 1,000 year old town of Aalborg on Jan. 23, 1930, gave its approval to establishing the American-Danish archives, and placed an old castle and estate for this purpose at the disposition of Dr. Henius, a native son of the town. He was authorized to launch a campaign in America to collect books, letters, and antiques related to the history of Danish emigration to America from 1650 to the present day.

The town's gift was made to the Danish-American committee which first envisaged the scheme under the leadership of Mr. Knudsen. The present collection comprises the most complete source of material on the subject and is expected to draw numerous students and writers to Aalborg in future years.

FOSSIL OF "FIRST ELEPHANT" FOUND BY ROMAN DIGGER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 23.—Two excavators digging a ditch between the Colosseum and the Temple of Peace standing near the banks of the Tiber river today discovered fossil remains of a colossal prehistoric elephant which had teeth nine feet long.

According to Prof. de Angelis d'Ossat, the elephant died some 20,000 or 30,000 years ago and was already an aged fossil when Rome was founded. The fossil remains lay under five varying strata about fifty feet deep. A workman's pick first struck into an enormous tooth. Then part of the elephant's crenium was uncovered in a sandy deposit of the fifth stratum.

Prof. d'Ossat said tonight that this species of elephant was a progenitor of the present race of African and Indian elephants.

COURT ORDERS SIMPSON-CHURCH VOTE RECOUNT

Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch yesterday ordered a recount of the 85,000 Republican votes cast in the 10th [Evanston] district for nomination for congress. His order was given orally after a six hour hearing on the petition of James Simpson Jr., who was nosed out of the nomination by Ralph E. Church of Evanston by a plurality of only 73.

The order was opposed by Attorney John F. Tyrell, counsel for Church. Attorney Tyrell contended that Judge Lynch lacked jurisdiction, since a part of the district is in Lake county, where Simpson lives, and that the petition did not state specific instances of alleged carelessness and fraud upon which it was based.

The contest in the 10th district was between Church, Simpson, and Congressman Carl R. Chindblom, and was the liveliest of the campaign. The district extends from North avenue to the Wisconsin state line, including 344 Chicago precincts, Evanston, Niles, New Trier, and Northfield, and the entire Lake county.

Attorney Urban A. Lavery, who filed the petition for Simpson, charged that in 10 districts the tallying was careless and such errors might easily have upset the real results.

ROB MIAMI HOME OF CHICAGOAN OF $10,000 IN GEMS

Miami, Fla., May 23.—[Special.]—Jewels valued at more than $10,000 were stolen early today from the palatial Star island residence of Webb Jay, Chicago capitalist and inventor. The burglar entered an unlocked door, taking a purse containing jewels which lay on the kitchen table. The Jays were out of the city and how Mrs. Jay's purse with valuables came to be on the table still is a mystery to police.

The valuables included a $3,700 diamond platinum bracelet and 176 round diamonds valued at $3,500; a $1,000 wedding ring and two other rings valued at more than $2,000.

Jay is vice president of the committee of 100 and president of the exclusive Cocolobo Cay club, Miami Beach. Police still are without a clew to the identity of the burglar.

SHIP OWNER DIES

LORD INCHCAPE.

LORD INCHCAPE, SHIPPING KING, DIES ON YACHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—Lord Inchcape, one of the leading shipping magnates of the world, died suddenly of a heart attack today on his yacht, Rover, which is off Monte Carlo. He was 79 years old.

The earl, who was chairman of the Pensinular and Oriental Steamship line, was the father of Elsie Mackay, who perished in an attempt to fly the Atlantic in 1928.

After his daughter and her pilot, Capt. Walter G. R. Hinchcliffe, vanished at sea on the ocean flight, Lord and Lady Inchcape gave to the British treasury the sum of $2,500,000 to accumulate for fifty years at compound interest and then be used to reduce the national debt.

Born in poverty, James Lyle Mackay, the first earl of Inchcape, rose to a high place in business and in the British government. He was born in Scotland and went to India as a youth of 22 years where he made his fortune. At 40 he was a rich man. He was created a baron in 1911 and elevated to viscount in 1928. A year later he became the earl of Inchcape.

During the war, he served the British government in the chartering of vessels. After the war he disposed of fleets of government ships, including 418 former enemy vessels awarded to Great Britain by the treaty of Versailles. The disposal of the ships netted the government $275,000,000.

AUSTIN O'MALLEY, FIELD VETERAN, IS DEAD AT 84

Austin O'Malley Sr., 824 Lafayette parkway, who was for fifty-two years connected with Marshall Field & Co.'s wholesale department, died late last night at the Columbus Memorial hospital. He had been ill only a week. Death was due to a hemorrhage of the brain.

Mr. O'Malley, who was 84 years old, was a native of Ireland. He came to Chicago when he was 12 years old. He was active in the merchantile business until seven years ago, when he retired.

Surviving are Mr. O'Malley's wife, one daughter, Sister Mary Paulina of the Order of the B. V. M., and seven sons, John and Frank, who are physicians; Austin Jr., for many years a Chicago newspaper man; Charles, an attorney; and the Rev. Paul, the Rev. George, and the Rev. Comerford O'Malley.

Senator McKellar Visits Office After Week's Illness

Washington, D. C., May 23.—(AP)—Senator McKellar of Tennessee returned to his office today after a week's illness. "I'm just down for a few minutes to see how it goes," he said, adding that he feels "A heap better."

URGE NEW LAW ON SENTENCING OF BOY GANGSTERS

Result of Escape of Young Thief.

The escape of Michael Gallichio, 15 year old member of the 42 gang, from the St. Charles School for Boys, started agitation yesterday for a change in the law and the practice of the courts of sending boys of his type to an institution intended only for delinquent boys who commit minor offenses. Gallichio, who, despite his youth, is known as the toughest member of a gang of youthful west side hoodlums, has twice escaped from the St. Charles school, to which he was sentenced for automobile theft.

The state's attorney's office said that under the present statute the age limit at Pontiac reformatory, a corrective institution for youthful criminals, is from "16 to 26 years." Another section of the act provides that youths under 16 years who are charged with treason, murder, rape, or kidnaping shall be tried in the Criminal courts and if found guilty sentenced to the penitentiary.

Go to Juvenile Court.

Still another section gives the Juvenile court judge the right to transfer a case to the Criminal court. However, it is constructed by the courts that, due to the provisions of the law, a youth such as Gallichio can be sent only to the St. Charles school or the penitentiary. It is for this reason that such cases are handled in the Juvenile court. If the Pontiac age limit were lowered, this institution could handle such cases as that of the Gallichio boy, it is pointed out.

Judge Mary Bartelme of the Juvenile court said yesterday that where boys of the age of Gallichio persistently defy the law and fail to show encouraging responses to the influences of St. Charles, they should be tried in the criminal courts and sent to Pontiac.

Bad for Others, Says Official.

Robert F. Havlick, managing officer at St. Charles, said his institution is no place for boys like Gallichio.

"It is a waste of time to send such youths here," he said. "They only make our problems more difficult because they exercise the wrong influence over the boys who are making progress and will eventually be returned to their homes rehabilitated."

Gallichio, who was aided in his escape Sunday by some of his companions who had an automobile nearby, was sent to St. Charles by Judge David, acting temporarily in place of Judge Bartelme. His first offense was in July, 1930, when he was caught in a robbery and shot by the police.

CARL LAEMMLE IS OPERATED ON AT JOHNS HOPKINS

Baltimore, Md., May 23.—[Special.]—Carl Laemmle, 65, president of the Universal Pictures corporation, underwent an operation today at the Brady clinic of Johns Hopkins hospital. The operation was performed by Dr. Hugh S. Young, urologist in chief of the hospital, who after the operation issued this statement:

"The operation on Mr. Laemmle was under spinal anesthetisia and was entirely successful. He is in excellent condition of the operation. His prospects are splendid."

Rancher and Sister Killed by Bomb Put in Their Auto

Yakima, Wash., May 23.—(AP)—William Silliman and his sister, Mrs. Rose Auritt, were killed today when a bomb placed in their automobile exploded just as they were turning into a ranch they own two miles east of Prosser. Silliman and his sister apparently have had some unidentified enemy since they came to Prosser two years ago. Last June their barn was burned and in August they lost their home and its contents.

IMPROVEMENTS IN RADIOS SHOWN AT CONVENTION

Refinement in reception and quietness of operation feature the new receiving sets on exhibition at the eighth annual convention of the Radio Manufacturers' association, which opened at the Stevens hotel yesterday. Some 15,000 persons identified with the radio industry are attending the convention, which closes on Thursday.

One improvement being shown is an automatic volume control which builds the volume up when needed and tones it down when it is too heavy. Because of the sensitivity of this type of receiver there was a tendency to pick up outside noises when dialing between stations. This control automatically shuts off reception during the shift between station waves and turns it on again when a station wave is picked up.

New power tubes also were described as making for quietness in operation. Still another improvement is a dial for predetermining the volume before tuning in the radio.

Yesterday was consumed by registrations and private meetings, and the convention is to be opened this morning by an address of welcome by Mayor Cermak. Among those who will talk today are Merle Thorpe, who will discuss "How's Business," and Harold A. Lafount, federal radio commissioner, who will speak on "Television in Its Present Development."

CARRIE COLBURN, ONCE PROMINENT ON STAGE, DIES

New York, May 23.—(AP)—Carrie Colburn, 73, actress who played with Trixie Friganza in the latter's heyday, died today in a little three room flat she shared in West 44th street with another aged actress, Sarah Bird.

Miss Colburn's stage career included rôles in "Over the Hill" and Barrie's "Little Minister." She also was the author of numerous playlets and skits.

She will be buried on Wednesday by the Actors Fund of America, of which she was one of the most ardent supporters ten years ago.

BISHOP HUGHES IS ASSIGNED TO WASHINGTON, D. C.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, head of the Methodist Episcopal area of Chicago for the last eight years, has been appointed head of the Washington, D. C., area of the church. This was announced last night by the Rev. Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago temple. The appointment carries with it the title and function of senior presiding bishop.

Dr. Thompson stated that a telegram from Atlantic City where the general conference of the church is in session also said that Bishop Ernest L. Waldorf, who has been head of the Kansas City area for the last 12 years, has been assigned to Chicago.

TONY ACCARDO, PUBLIC ENEMY, FREED BY JUDGE

Tony Accardo, dapper gunman of the Capone gang and a public enemy, was found not guilty of vagrancy yesterday after eight policemen admitted on the stand that their knowledge of his means of support was based on hearsay and reputation. Judge J. William Brooks heard the case.

"This case was born and nurtured right here in the police department," said Defense Attorney Tyrell Richardson, after the policemen had testified.

"The evidence is not here," said the court. "The defendant is discharged."

Detective John Howe told of arresting Accardo with Jack McGurn, both of whom were armed, at Harrison and Clark streets on Feb. 1, 1930.

Policeman Thomas Nolan testified that he arrested Accardo and another man, Feb. 15, 1931. Both had loaded revolvers. A motion to suppress the evidence as to the guns was sustained on the ground that the searches were illegal.

Detectives William Thorp and Edward Allman testified that Accardo admitted to them that he lived by gambling, but none of the police had seen Accardo gambling, or in a saloon.

TOMB OF ANCIENT MAYAN KINGS IS FOUND IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, May 23.—(AP)—Discovery of a tomb believed to be that of the ancient Mayan kings at Chichen-itza, state of Yucatan, was reported today in a short dispatch from Merida. The Carnegie foundation, under the direction of Dr. Sylvanus Morley, has been engaged in excavation and reconstruction work at Chichen-itza for several years, and it was presumed the discovery was made by the foundation's excavators.

The dispatch said a tomb was found a short distance west of the temple of the warriors, and that legends and signs painted on its sides indicated it was the tomb of the Mayan kings, long sought as the possible key to the mystery of the disappearance of the once powerful race.

The tomb has not yet been opened because its crumbling wall has frustrated attempts to enter. An American archeological expert working there was reported on the way here to advise the government, preliminary to opening the tomb.

PREDICTS DEVICE WILL SUPPLANT STENOGRAPHERS

Stenographers are in danger of going the way of organ pumpers, in the opinion of F. L. Rowland, secretary of the Life Office Management association, which opened a two day convention yesterday at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Typists may be wholly eliminated from the offices of the not too distant future, he said.

He visualized business men of the future dictating into microphones through which the words would be recorded on wax cylinders in a central transcribing bureau.

Great Chorus Marks Opening of Festival

North Shore Music Fete Honors Founder.

THE best chorus in the history of the North Shore Music Festival was the comment of Frederick Stock, musical director, before the Monday night opening of its twenty-fourth season.

Mr. Stock is not given to unduly lavish praise. He was unquestionably right in this instance. Only a chorus of uncommon merit could have made the success that it did in the way it did. For instead of starting the series of concerts in the mood of exuberant high spirits and with the implication of festival celebration, the first number was a grave, even solemn memorial, Brahms' German requiem, sung to the memory of the founder and first musical director of the North Shore Music Festival, Peter Christian Lutkin.

This is a great work, a giant of its kind, and like other giants in the field of musical composition, it calls for more than usual ability on the part of its interpreters. Wherefore Mr. Stock conducted the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the two soloists, Jeannette Vreeland, soprano, and John Charles Thomas, baritone, and this rather superlative chorus in a performance that not only did high honor to the memory of Mr. Lutkin, but would have gladdened the heart of Brahms himself could he have come back to earth to hear it.

The chorus, numbering nearly six hundred, has become touched with the voice of youth, with warmth and responsiveness; in fact, with most of the virtues of ideal choral organizations. So what under other circumstances might have been merely the slow moving music of Brahms became solemnly impressive, what might have been involved and thick in the way he built up his tonal masses became vast and spacious.

It was a touching performance, and none the less so because Miss Vreeland and Mr. Thomas pointed it with solos of almost operatic brilliancy. Their singing gave the needed contrast to the solemn gravity of the chorus. Such interpretations are rare. As Mr. Stock slowly brought the work to a close and still more slowly laid down his baton, there was a breathless hush over the vast gymnasium now turned concert hall, and a perceptible interval before the audience broke out into applause. Once started, it ran high and long.

This was the first half of the program. The second was lighter in character, though by no means less enjoyable. Mr. Stock and the orchestra played the Bach-Bert chorale and fugue, and Mr. Thomas returned to arouse a stormy torrent of approbation by singing songs by Joseph Marx and Richard Strauss and the aria "Eri Tu" from Verdi's opera, "A Masked Ball." Finally the chorus again took its stellar position with the "Gloria in Excelsis" from Cesar Franck's mass in A major.

The hall was not completely filled, although enough of an attendance had been anticipated for the traffic and parking regulations to become more complicated and difficult of comprehension than ever before. But a famous star of the Metropolitan Opera company is announced for tonight in the person of the soprano, Goeta Ljungberg, and it is told that the increased patronage to greet her will extend over the rest of the week.

Mme. Ljungberg will not make her appearance until the second part of the program, at that time singing arias from "The Force of Destiny," "La Boheme," and "Tristan and Isolde." The first part of the program will be another memorial, Haydn's oratorio, "The Seasons," sung for the composer's bicentennial. The soloists will be Miss Vreeland, Edward Molitore, tenor, and Chase Baromeo, bass. The fine festival chorus will sing again and, as before, Mr. Stock will conduct.

Lee Shubert Hits Equity for Rule on Sunday Shows

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—Lee Shubert, theatrical producer and co-receiver with the Irving Trust company for the Shubert Theater corporation, made a bitter attack today against the council of the Actors' Equity association for its refusal to sanction Sunday night performances in legitimate theaters.

According to Mr. Shubert's statement, "a few members of the Equity council," had taken a stand which "kills off each season from twenty-five to thirty productions which, if allowed to play on Sunday, would with the increased revenue resulting from such performances enable them to continue their runs from six to ten and twenty weeks, with more profitable engagements out of town."

Not only actors but stagehands, musicians and theater attaches are the victims of a situation for which "Equity, and Equity alone, is responsible," according to Mr. Shubert.

Episcopal Women to Make Thank Gift Today

The annual united thank offering of the women's auxiliary of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago will be presented at a special service this morning at Grace church, Oak Park. More than 700 women of the diocese will be present, according to Mrs. Charles Spencer Williamson, president of the auxiliary.

Fur Industry Finds Prices at Rock Bottom

As a million dollars in fur coats, wraps, and neck pieces went on promenade down a flood lighted runway in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house last night members of the Associated Fur Industries of Chicago revealed that the fur industry is becoming more stable and fur prices have hit rock bottom.

Close to 1,500 buyers from Chicago and the middle west were guests at the annual fur style show and banquet given by the industries. Forty mannequins exhibited the very latest in fur fashions, stressing the departures from the old fur styles in cuffs, length, collars, sleeves, and combinations of furs.

"The demand for furs is encouraging despite the disordered business conditions of the last three years," explained Louis E. Himmel, president of the industries. "The fur industry is settling down to a new stability. The fur catch was short last year due to the mild winter. If times were normal the prices now would be a great deal higher."

This year's prices, Mr. Himmel added, are nearly a third below last year. Take, for example, the $145,000 Russian sable coat that can be had these days for only $65,000. The inexpensive Hudson seal that cost $350 last year can be purchased for $250 now. The same coat would have been priced at around $600 four or five years ago, with less material.

Fur stylists say the coats and wraps this year are snappier than ever before. The old idea that a fur coat doesn't need to follow the fashions very closely has been replaced with minute scrutiny as to length from floor, whether the cuff is a cuff or a puff, whether the right contrasting fur has been used for trimming or whether the waistline is a half inch higher or lower.

"The styles for 1932-'33 show the waistline to be raised an inch and a half," Mr. Himmel explained. "The new fur coat is 10 to 11 inches from the floor, is fitted at the waist, and has less flare in the skirt. The cuff is ordinarily not a detachable cuff, but forming a part of the sleeve, puffed just below the elbow. Some of the collars are detachable, others are roll collar or shawl effects."

The mannequins displayed these differences to the buyers as they passed in revue to the music of a dance orchestra. The furs shown were principally black and brown Hudson seal, black Persian lamb, black caracul, mink, leopard, and muskrat. There was a noticable attempt to combine different furs. For instance, a Russian caracul was trimmed with a natural blue fox collar and the sleeve pouched just below the elbow.

A black Hudson seal used brown mink for a collar fulled at the elbow, the mink forming a cuff effect. Another Hudson seal used a silver fox collar with paws hanging off the left shoulder. A leopard, always a popular fur, used fitch trimming, while another, brown seal.

A black seal was trimmed in summer ermine with a cape front and cuff trim. A sport muskrat was combined with leopard in narrow bands at collar and sleeve and trim for a suede belt.

There was in the style show an abundance of mink coats in warm brown, richly striped, and beautifully tailored. A deep yoke on one formed a part of the sleeve, and the hem of the coat dipped to a point in the back.

Black Lace Over Flesh Chiffon Is Shown in Paris

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The lace evening frock, while it isn't a screaming headliner of Paris fashions, is one of the important units of the style parade here. Black lace is the most fashionable, and when it is worn over flesh colored chiffon slips it gets the okay of the most exclusive Paris dressmakers.

The Jenny frock, sketched today, has all the ingredients of Paris chic, for it is made of black shadow lace over flesh pink chiffon, and it is well endowed with velvet details.

This frock is extremely simple and correspondingly smart. The blouse has an invisible yoke of flesh colored chiffon from which the amusing velvet ribbon decorations begin.

New Styles in Fur Displayed at Million Dollar Show

Price cuts in furs are illustrated by this Russian sable coat with detachable cape collar. This wrap is priced at $65,000. Several years ago it would have been marked at $145,000.

Milady Goes Back to Silks for Romance

Old Soft Rustle Will Be Heard Again.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

AFTER practically every kind of fabric has been used for every sort of frock in all our wardrobes we are going back to the rustle of silk for romance, glamor, or whatever it is that we strive for, for truly feminine atmosphere, or mystery.

The swish of soft, whispering silks still remains the most provocative sound in the world, especially to masculine listeners. There's something about rustling silk that spells charm and loveliness . . . when you wear silk you become another personality . . . when you swish in and out of a room you don't dash madly about, but you go slowly as if to savor the delightful extravagance of that most feminine of fabrics. So clever French designers have revived the crisp, sibilant taffeta, and their newest creations are arriving daily.

You'll wear taffeta silk costume slips under all your sheerest frocks of thin dark woolens for street wear, under new sheer georgettes and pebbly silk crepes for hot summer days; under your organdy dresses and other shadow-sheer party frocks.

Under nearly every new embroidered organdy dress you will hear the swish of the harmonizing taffeta slip, and every one will wear them, from the sub-deb to the sophisticated lady of fashion who gladly welcomes back an old friend and charming ally.

You will find taffeta silk costumes of every color, for every occasion . . . charming Scotch plaids with wide swirling skirts and slender bodices, just the thing for smart luncheons and bridge teas . . . mysterious black affairs, persuasively French and very chic, made with a long, slim fitting silhouette as far as the knees and then bursting into flares. Some of these black costumes have tiny little bolero jackets of coffee colored eyelet batiste for contrast . . . almost demanding one of the new leghorn burnt-brown hats to complete its smartness.

Did you know that tailored taffeta suits are particularly practical for summer time . . . you can have them made in black, brown, navy blue, or be different and decide to wear a perky little model of deep purple . . . these severely simple suits can be worn everywhere and there are always countless ways to change your ensemble with colored costume accessories.

Nothing in the fashion world is so seductive as the delicate rustling of taffeta evening gowns . . . you will look, and find them of luscious pastel colors, or brilliant shades for startling contrast and always the two opposites, black and white. This summer taffetas are trimmed most appropriately with quaint old fashionable double and single ruchings, fringed pleatings and fluted edgings . . . most of them have all the charm and elegance of romantic tales of past decades of beauty and glory, brought gracefully up to modernism.

Short new evening coats are also of this newly accepted fashionable silk . . . stunning new models to wear over your chiffon frocks are usually sold right with the particular dress you decide you must have . . . new coin dotted chiffon evening dresses all have their contrasting colored taffeta jacket . . . these jackets have huge puffed sleeves that you can do so much with as a frame for your face and to widen your shoulders, and they tie smoothly high at the waistline.

New taffeta silk hats make all the headlines . . . these are wide floppy brimmed models to wear, of course, for gala events with soft summer chiffons. Some of the newest arrivals have engagingly prim little bows of sheer white organdy as a subtle contrast and to mark them as a smart, fashion-wise hat of summer 1932.

Good morning!

The stage show at the Palace this week ought to tickle everybody. Moran and Mack [The Two Black Crows], Singer's Midgets, and "The Biggest Little Show On Earth"—with all sorts of animals are there. No doubt about it, the layout was making O. B. H., on Saturday.

If "Man Wanted" proves "good box office," credit will be due director and players for the attractive manner in which they serve one of the most ordinary and tasteless messes of movie hash to be dished up in a long time.

Kay Francis, as an attractive young society working woman—editor of the "400" magazine, David Manners as a boo koo college graduate who becomes her secretary, Kenneth Thompson as the former's husband, Una Merkel as the latter's fiancée, and Andy Devine as the good-natured hapless friend of the secretary, pull smoothly together. I have no especial fondness for Mr. Thompson and Andy Devine's adenoidal voice always makes me feel as if I need a handkerchief, but they are certainly more than adequate to the parts wished upon them in this venture.

The beautiful Miss Francis invests the character she portrays with just the right shrewd, sophisticated, human, philosophical edge. Mr. Manners is warm, up-to-date, canny. Miss Merkel talks herself in and out of situations with her usual facility, while the man at the megaphone kept the platter as hot as possible and distributed garnishments with accustomed hand, and eye for effect.

We won't go into the surpriseless story ingredients of the hash.

Charity Chief Topic for Conference of U. S. Junior Leagues

Los Angeles, Cal., May 23.—[Special.]—Efforts to lessen the economic distress of the needy will be the major topic at the annual conference of the Association of Junior Leagues of America opening here tomorrow morning and continuing until Friday.

Alumnae Party to Mark 35th Anniversary

University School to Hold Gay Affair.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALL the alumnae of the University School for Girls are planning to be present at the school's 35th birthday party which the alumnae association is giving on Thursday at Miss Henrietta Countiss' residence, 1524 Lake Shore drive, for Miss Anna Haire, the founder and principal of the school, who is dearly beloved by all "her girls."

Mrs. Robert M. Curtis [Doris Russell], the newly elected president of the association, is chairman of the committee planning the party, and she and her co-workers have planned what promises to be a delightful program of entertainment.

Tableaux and lantern slides of "Way Back When" the social leaders of today were little schoolgirls with pigtails or curls down their backs, will be shown. The pictures will date from the beginning of the school where so many well known Chicago girls have started their education. Assisting Mrs. Curtis are Mrs. Howard Linn [Lucy Blair], Miss Alice Barler, Mrs. Cecil Barnes [Margaret Ayer], Mrs. John T. McCutcheon [Evelyn Shaw], Mrs. Graham Aldis [Dorothy Keeley], Mrs. Helen Rosenfield Walton, Mrs. Charles True Adams [Marion Mahin], Mrs. Gerhard Foreman [Mary Lasker], Miss Kathryn Nelson and Miss Countiss.

The other new officers of the association are: First vice president, Mrs. Joseph E. Schreiner [Lura Phillips]; second vice president, Miss Winifred Wheeler; treasurer, Miss Barler; recording secretary, Miss Charlotte Robertson, and corresponding secretary, Miss Eunice Eastman.

Miss Countiss, who is giving the use of her beautiful residence on the drive for the party, will not be here to act as hostess, however, for she is prolonging her stay in New York and Washington for another week or so.

Chicago Hill Club Dinner Tonight.

The Chicago Hill club dinner to be held tonight at the Casino will be "quite a party," for most of the alumni are taking their wives, and A. Kingman Douglass and John R. Winterbotham, who are in charge of arrangements, have planned to make this "get together" a memorable one.

Headmaster and Mrs. James I. Wendell have come from the school in Pottstown, Pa., for the dinner, along with Dr. Alfred G. Rolfe, senior master, Charles Lowe Swift of the English department and A. Merrill Allyn, executive secretary of the Hill School Alumni association.

Mr. Winterbotham is president of the Chicago club, Mr. Douglass vice president, and John J. Mitchell is secretary and treasurer. Some of those who have planned to be at the party tonight are Mr. and Mrs. Douglass, Mr. and Mrs. Winterbotham, Mr. and

Sudden Love

By ELISABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.

Esmee Sully spends her forlorn young life between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. Mrs Sully loves her three children blindly, but doesn't know how to take care of their spiritual or physical needs. Cynthia, the oldest, has been deserted by her husband. Lew, a year older than Esmee, has gotten into serious trouble. Esmee can barely remember the days before her father's death when they had had a cheerful home. Jimmy Considine forces Lew to introduce him to Esmee. Lew warns Esmee she'll make trouble unless she keeps away from Jimmy. She is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him an unreasonable lover. Lew gets in a jam and asks Esmee to get him money. She's afraid to ask Jimmy. She meets Arthur Twining at the home of a former woman employer. He is attentive to Esmee, impressed by her beauty and guilelessness. In her anguish she tells him her troubles and he offers to help. Arthur's roommate is Michael Marriott, a dissipated young playwright imbued with the futility of life. When Esmee meets him it's love at first sight. Esmee understands his need of her is real. Jimmy finds the money which Twining has loaned Esmee in her possession and threatens trouble.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

FACING SERIOUS TROUBLE.

"And Esmee, even while I was asleep, I was thinking of you . . . You mean you'll really come, won't you? You won't go away, Esmee?"

"I'll come Michael."

"You'll be here at half past five?"

"Unless there's a traffic jam or something."

"And Esmee—this time I won't be drunk."

"I know you won't, Michael."

"It's going to be a—gentle evening," he said. "I'll order up a good, dear little dinner. Everything you like. Fried chicken and mushrooms, green salad, chocolate meringue glace. That's what you like."

"Yes, it is!" she said, delighted.

"I know everything you like," he said. "You like phonograph records of 'Trees' and that thing—you know—' Pale hands beside the Shalimar——'"

"Yes, I do. But—that's awfully ordinary, isn't it, Michael?"

"No!" he said. "It's young. It's sweet and dear and blessed."

"You're young yourself, Michael."

"Like Faust. Fake youth. I——"

"Michael, the time's up."

"Drop in another nickel and go on."

"I'm sorry but I've got to get back to the office, Michael."

"Half past five, then."

She was strangely consoled by this talk with Marriott, even her grief for Lew assumed a different aspect. The world into which he had gone seemed to her less sinister and cruel, and more pitiful. And where there was pity, there was beauty and the grace of heaven.

"Can you get him out of it, Jimmie?"

She longed so to see Michael. She knew, she had known at the first glance, that this was the beginning of her life.

"Some day I'll tell him about Lew," she thought.

Not this evening. If she were dazed, a little lost in the world, the voice of her heart had an infallible wisdom; she knew that this evening she must give comfort, not ask for it.

She made a valiant effort not to be that clock watcher that Miss Bartram scorned. She stayed at her desk until five minutes after. Then left in a rush. She could not afford a taxi, but she would, anyhow. She signaled to one. As the man approached the curb, a hand fell on her shoulder.

"I'm here, waiting for you, baby," said Jimmy.

She was afraid of Jimmy, but he must not see that.

"I'm sorry, Jimmy," she said, "but I've got a date for dinner."

"Sure!" he said. "With me."

"No. I've——"

"Get in, baby," he said. "I've got to talk to you."

"I haven't any time, now."

"Listen," he said. "Lew's going to be pinched tonight."

"Pinched?" she repeated.

"Pardon me!" he said. "Maybe I should have said that Lew's going to be arrested by a police officer."

"He's not!" she said, with mechanical defiance.

"Now, look here!" said Jimmy. "I'm not talking just to hear myself talk. I don't do that—and you know it. Lew's a fool. The cops want him, and they know where to get him. And he'll take the rap. He's in bad. He's been playing around with another fellow's girl. God! If you knew the crowd he thought he could play with . . . . ! Poor little sucker! Well, he's finished. Give him a year or so up the river, and when he comes out—you won't know him."

"You're a lawyer!" she cried. "You can—do something——"

"Well, why would I? Lew's nothing to me. I could help him all right—but if you want to talk it over, get in the taxi, baby."

Instantly her mind recognized with singular clarity all the implications of this moment. She was being offered a definite choice; to abandon Lew or to abandon Michael. She saw, too, that whichever course she took she was going to have serious trouble with Jimmy.

She got into the taxi.

"I'm not going down to your place," she said, briefly.

"I didn't ask you to," he said, and to the driver, "Drive uptown, will you? Anywhere."

Then he lit a cigaret and sat back in his corner of the lighted cab.

"Yes, you've given me a damned raw deal," he said, a little unsteadily.

She admitted that so entirely in her heart that she could find nothing to say. She had believed that she loved him, and now all that love was gone.

"You've cheated," he said.

"Not the way you think," she said.

He ignored that; it was, to him, no more than the inevitable lie for her to tell.

"When I first met you," he went on, "I thought you were—different. You didn't have any of these 'friends' then. Doing well for yourself, aren't you?"

He spoke with a sneer, but there was a look on his face that disarmed her of anger. He meant to hurt her, because he had been badly hurt himself.

"Jimmy," she said, "I just had to borrow that money—for a business reason. I haven't kept it. It wasn't for me."

"I know. It was for Lew. But what about it? If you wanted money, why didn't you come to me?"

She did not know how to answer that. She could not endure to tell him, without preparation, that she no longer cared for him; that she thought of him now only as a menace. She was afraid of him, because of Lew. And because of Michael.

"Jimmy," she said, "I told you once before that—that wasn't like you thought it was. It was just a loan——"

"O, yeah?" he said.

"Can't we talk about Lew now? It's all I can think of."

"First I want to know how we stand," he said. "And that's going to make a hell of a lot of difference to Lew."

"Jimmy, I haven't—cheated. You can't think horrible things about me——"

"See here!" he said. "What's the sense of this? I'm no fool."

"You are! With your cheap, cynical ideas——"

"I know too much about women."

"A certain kind of woman," she said, scornfully.

Then all his anger, his bitter disappointment in her was loosed. He knew so much about women, and his knowledge was of a sort unimaginable to her. He had wanted her to be innocent and tender as a little saint, and he had never quite been able to believe in her. For him, a good woman must be a woman like his worn and patient mother, with no interest beyond her home and her children and her church. Esmee was a mystery to him, as he was to her. He thought now that she was jeering at him for his humble origin, his inability to understand her sort.

"That's all right," he said. "You've got this—this refined way of talking . . . You've been to a private school, and you think that makes you superior. All right! What's your family, after all? Your brother's a thief, and your sister——"

"Stop!" she cried. "You stop it, this moment!"

"I saw your sister out with——"

She seized him by the shoulder and tried to shake him, in her gust of fury.

"Don't you dare!" she cried.

"Baby . . . All right . . . You poor little devil. I didn't mean . . . Love me, baby, don't you?"

"No!" she said, with a sob.

He put his arms about her shoulders, and held her close to him, in spite of her struggles.

"Listen, baby, I'll get Lew out of this——"

At the sound of that name she ceased to struggle. She leaned against him, limp and yielding.

"Can you get him out of it, Jimmy?"

"Can I? Watch me! You be good to me, baby, and Lew'll be O. K. He'll be home tonight, same as usual."

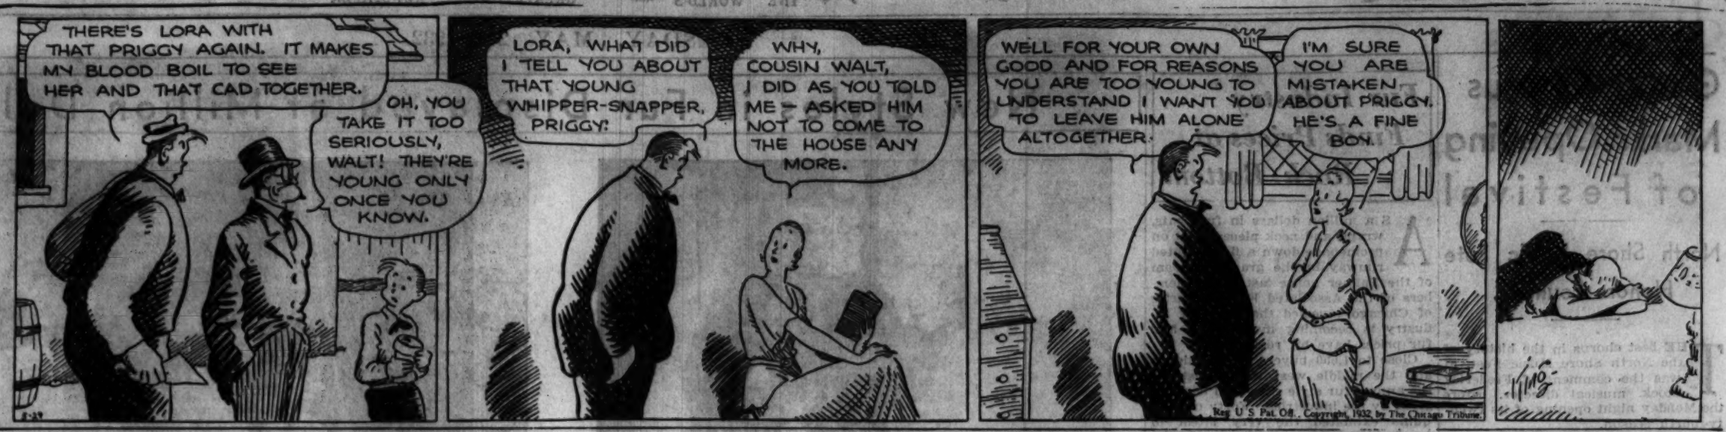
GASOLINE ALLEY—AN ULTIMATUM



THERE'S LORA WITH THAT PRIGGY AGAIN. IT MAKES MY BLOOD BOIL TO SEE HER AND THAT CAD TOGETHER.
OH, YOU TAKE IT TOO SERIOUSLY, WALT! THEY'RE YOUNG ONLY ONCE YOU KNOW.
LORA, WHAT DID I TELL YOU ABOUT THAT YOUNG WHIPPER-SNAPPER, PRIGGY!
WHY, COUSIN WALT, I DID AS YOU TOLD ME — ASKED HIM NOT TO COME TO THE HOUSE ANY MORE.
WELL FOR YOUR OWN GOOD AND FOR REASONS YOU ARE TOO YOUNG TO UNDERSTAND I WANT YOU TO LEAVE HIM ALONE ALTOGETHER.
I'M SURE YOU ARE MISTAKEN ABOUT PRIGGY. HE'S A FINE BOY.

Many Delicious Ways to Serve Canned Tomato

BY MARY MEADE.

First of all today we want to answer a tomato canning query from Mrs. W. J. K. She says: "I would appreciate receiving your opinion in regard to using salicylic acid for tomato canning in the proportion of one ounce of acid to forty quarts of tomatoes. As a preservative it is successful, but I am anxious to know the harmful results, if any."

And the answer—Mrs. K., don't use salicylic acid, either one ounce to forty quarts or in any other proportion. This acid is injurious to the system in the first place, and in the second place it is wholly unnecessary in the canning of tomatoes, which are among our most simple foods to preserve.

Tomatoes may be canned successfully by the open kettle method, providing special care is taken in sterilizing the jars, lids, and rubbers; in filling the jars, and in sealing afterward. Or they may be canned by packing the peeled raw tomatoes in jars with tested lids and rubbers, lightly screwing on the lids and processing the jars in a container of boiling water for between twenty and twenty-five minutes. Either of these methods, if rightly carried out, will guarantee first rate keeping qualities, and there will be no danger of injury from questionable preservatives.

Since it's a bit early to talk much now about tomato canning, and since fresh tomatoes are still too high priced for very frequent indulgence, let's set our imaginations to work on a few new ways of coaxing canned tomatoes into our family meals. The canned whole tomatoes as well as the more recent arrival, canned tomato juice, sometimes don't get as many innings as they deserve in canapes, cocktails, soups, main dishes, salads, and even desserts.

For instance, some day when your freezer or refrigerator freezing tray is not in use, decide upon a frosty tomato ice to go with your dinner meat course. You've made plenty of tomato juice cocktails. Well, simply mix your most popular variety [a bit of lemon juice, sugar, and a suggestion of spice will do the trick] and turn it into the freezer or tray. Just as the meat course goes on the table, dish up the ice into small sherbet cups and serve.

Or, as a first course, instead of the now so common tomato juice cocktail, plan a variation in the form of small mounds of riced tomato jelly served icy cold in glass cups with a dash of whipped cream and spangles of paprika to set them off. Here is a recipe for the jelly:

RICED TOMATO APPETIZER.

1 quart canned tomatoes
2 tablespoons sugar
2 whole cloves
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
½ tablespoon minced onion
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Gelatin

Cook together all ingredients except the lemon juice and gelatin for about fifteen minutes. Rub through a fine sieve and measure. To each cup of juice add one and one-half teaspoons gelatin which has been soaked five minutes in a little cold water. Stir until the gelatin is dissolved, and pour half into molds to be used for salad the following day. Allow the remainder to cool, and when quite stiff force through a ricer or a coarser sieve. Let the tomato filaments fall into the chilled glasses, decorate with whipped cream and serve at once.

EGGS IN TOMATO SAUCE.

1½ tablespoons flour
1½ tablespoons butter
2 cups cooked tomatoes
Salt and pepper to taste
6 eggs

Melt the butter in a large saucepan and blend the flour with it. Stir in the tomatoes slowly, season and cook until smooth and creamy. Break in the whole eggs as for poaching and baste with the tomato sauce, keeping the pan over a slow heat. Serve the eggs on a platter with the sauce around them. This tomato special makes a most tantalizing supper or luncheon dish.

Your Feet Will Carry You Farther If You're Kind to 'Em

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A few little foot helps might not be out of place these corn and callous-conscious days.

Hot weather sure does cut high jinks with toes and soles of feet that haven't been treated considerately. And what with this year's shoes showing more foot out of leather than behind it, we have a feeling that the chiropodist business is going to experience a boom.

If you have corns or callouses we recommend, by all means, a treatment from a chiropodist. These foot experts can give you the quickest known relief and can pretty nearly guarantee you a swell facelift along with the foot treatment. They massage the feet and they pare the nails with an electrically-run file which may save you a stocking run or two.

And they have the instruments to work with and see that such instruments are properly sterilized. If you want your nails tinted, they'll do that for you, too.

If the feet perspire freely wear the sandal type of shoe and have a dusting powder handy to dust into them just before you put in the shoe trees. And don't put these shoes into the closet before they've been thoroughly aired. Then bathe the feet frequently in a strong salt water solution. Morning and night this is recommended where there is trouble of the sort we mention. Change the stockings twice a day. Keep a deodorant talcum handy for dusting on the feet before putting on the stockings, too.

When you cut your nails cut them straight across and use a firm bit of emery board for smoothing off the edges. If the soles of the feet burn after removing callouses with some sharp instrument cut out and fit a patch of moleskin such as the chiropodist applies and wear this to offset friction. If you have a tender small toe put a bit of the moleskin pad on it. You can change these daily and extract quite a bit of comfort from their use.

Above all, don't be sparing on the size of your shoes if you want real walking comfort in warm weather. The constant wearing of pumps has a disadvantage for they must be tight fitting in order to hold on.

The Women's club of the North Town Jewish Community center will hold a dinner dance tomorrow evening at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Mrs. Peter Wall of 6136 Mozart street is president.

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

This smart coatlike dress for street wear is engaging the attention of many smartly dressed women this season. The wrapped arrangement of the front is slimming, while the rever collar ending in a scarf tie is made of a contrasting color—this color being used in the vestee, cuffs, and buttons. Black silk crêpe with a vivid green for contrast will be stunning.

The pattern, 3422, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with ⅞ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

Mary Spears Seeks Color in Family Town

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Mary Borden Spears, society's popular two day visitor, is going to spend this week in Borden, Ind., the little Hoosier town that bears her family's name, because it presents the curious anomaly of rural America with an English influence. And this is just the background she is ready for in the novel all of her friends here in town will be reading the first of next year.

"It's a pilgrimage, to be sure, this trip to America, for I'm only to be in the country for a fortnight in all," she said before leaving the city. Mrs. Spears, a native Chicagoan, is the wife of Gen. Edward Louis Spears of London, a member of the house of commons, and the sister of John Borden.

"But I've been working on this new book for three months now—it's woven around the depression, a man who loses all of his wealth and goes back to his birthplace to live—and I can't go [illegible] without refreshing my memories of Borden. Twenty years ago I spent every Thanksgiving and Easter holiday there, played around the old cider mill, and helped make johnnycake. I have a tremendous feeling for the little town."

Borden—and, by the way, the family did not give its name to the town, as the Monon railroad chose the appellation 50 years ago to replace the name New Providence—is unlike most Indiana hamlets, for, as Mrs. Spears explained, it still bears the trademarks of English ancestry.

The Borden family emigrated from England to America in 1630, but remained in New England until 1816, when John Borden, great-grandfather of Mrs. Spears, packed up and came west to make his home. He was traveling along the Indiana-Kentucky border line when he found the hilly site that embraces the present settlement.

"He was so much like the old English squire," Mrs. Spears went on to explain, "for he was not satisfied to build a home and let it rest at that. Like the squire, he recognized a duty to the people that came to settle around him."

The result of this "dutiful feeling" is Borden institute, functioning today in Borden to give young people of the neighboring countryside a liberal education at nominal expense. The yearly tuition about 1840 was $26 and from all reports it hasn't increased materially these last 80 or 90 years.

After founding the institute this pioneer member of the Borden family went even further and established a museum which houses one of the finest Indian collections to be found in this part of the country. It was exhibited here in Chicago during the fair of 1893. Perchance it may be loaned again next year!

Need Clothing and Furniture.

"I wonder if you can help me with clothing for myself and my daughter, sizes 16 and 18, and shoes sizes 3 and 4. We are badly in need of furniture, too, as we have almost nothing in the house. Perhaps some one moving at this time will be able to help us with the things no longer needed. MRS. M. K."

Here's a reader who can put to good use the articles of furniture and other household accessories you will be discarding at moving or housecleaning time. Perhaps some one will be able to help with the much needed clothing, too.

Election Year Offers Laughs in Many Books

Slump Has Silver Lining for Humorists.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

THIS is a popular year for skewerings of the past and future political figures of our vast and [once] prosperous country. Every presidential nomination year brings forth books on the candidates the way a good spring rain brings out the worms, and a good many of the published works of such years are, according to my humble notion, just about as exciting and attractive as those worms They are destined for bait, however, and not to be judged as examples of noble expression, perhaps.

MORRIS RYSKIND.

With the worms the presidential spring rains also bring forth a crop of literary nettles, satirical quips about the great and near-White Housers. Lately there have been published three funny books about our immediate political past and our possible future.

"The Diary of an Ex-President," by John P. Wintergreen [Minton Balch], published today, is one of them. If you wonder who Mr. Wintergreen is, and how he comes to be writing the diary of an ex-President, the fact that the book is "edited by Morrie Ryskind" will enlighten you.

The greatest musical comedy hit of the year, an opus proclaimed as the greatest satiric piece of its day, was "Of Thee I Sing." It was the joint work—so far as the book of the play was concerned—of George S. Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind.

Posterity Just Around the Corner.

In it the handsome John P. Wintergreen is elected to the presidency of the United States on a ticket of "Love for All" and "All for Love," and in it, incidentally, President Wintergreen makes the immortal observation [when he is announcing that he is about to become a father] that "posterity is just around the corner." Morrie Ryskind, being more intimately acquainted with President Wintergreen than any one else, was chosen to edit his diary.

President Wintergreen's diary is a skillful combination of actual fact and the wildest possible foolery. In it appear well known events garlanded with inchoate laughter. All of it is set down in the guffawing manner well known to readers of "Of Thee I Sing."

A book on "Your Next President" is the joint work of one of the widely known candidates for that job and David Freeman. Eddie Cantor has been carrying on his campaign for months—and how he has been carrying on! All of the best of the cracks which he has made over the air [hot as well as refrigerated] are gathered together in a companion volume to "Caught Short" and "Yoo Hoo Prosperity" which gave his fellow countrymen severe stitches in the side. Every sentence is a wise crack and if you like that sort of thing you like it!

Mr. Cantor's novel scheme for bringing back prosperity is to prohibit everything—food, clothing, furniture . . . you get the idea. Every one would soon become a food-legger, or dress-legger or furniture-legger, he says, and every one would thus automatically wax rich and prosperous.

Suggests Broadway Show Policies.

When he proclaims his candidacy he says: "My hat is in the ring, and whatever you throw into it will be appreciated." Another suggestion is, "Why not try running the country like a Broadway show?" "I'd put out bill posters and signboards announcing the special comedy acts at every senate meeting. Once in a while we'd have a dramatic bit, with Borah and Norris playing serious rôles and the rest of the senators clowning around. Our congressmen would be made up as the chorus in long stockings and ballet skirts, and break out into an Albertina Rasch."

A different type of humor is to be found in "White House Blues" [Vanguard] by Felix Ray [who is really Howard Brubaker]. In each of the eleven short chapters small town chatterers gather 'round and discuss the political situations of the past and the hopes for the future. There are keen observations in the book made in slangy and colorful phrases. About the possibility of the substitution of Charles G. Dawes for Charles Curtis as the vice presidential candidate Elmer [the village newsdealer] observes that they mustn't forget the grand old motto, "Never change charleyhorses in the middle of the stream." The language is "smarty," there is a good deal of punning [as there is in Mr. Cantor's and Mr. Ryskind's opera], but there is something a little more solid about "White House Blues" than there is about the two other books. They are pure hamstringing. "White House Blues" is rather lampooning. However, they all belong to the slapstick school.

Miss Collier Clever Star in Light Comedy

"HAY FEVER."

THE CAST.

Sandy Tyrell	Terence Neill
Myra Arundel	Julia Hoyt
Richard Greatham	Edward Cooper
Jackie Coryton	Valerie Cossart

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Constance Collier, veteran English actress whose summarized career covers two pages in "Who's Who in the Theater," has brought to the Adelphi an adroit and engaging interpretation of Noel Coward's week-end comedy called "Hay Fever." She has an admirable company, as British as the institution of week-ending in the country, and the performance runs off in a merry flutter of casual wit and light satire.

This play represents Mr. Coward, whose cleverness has become a tradition of modernism, in an utterly feather-headed mood. It deals with the harmless antics and minor eccentricities of a family of so-called "artists"—the mother, a retired actress; the father, an ink-stained novelist—during a characteristic Saturday-to-Monday in their somewhat frenzied establishment.

The Coward touch is here so light that he might have written the piece with his eyelashes. The manner is that of the young cosmopolites who dash off impertinent little articles for the worldly little magazines, diligently striving to hold the pose of nonchalance. Mr. Coward is the leader of this school of writing in the theater, and "Hay Fever" is a diverting illustration of his skill. He is a Bright Young Man who, apparently, cannot fail.

*

I prefer plays, even in the vein of artificial and farcical comedy, with more meat on their bones than "Hay Fever" possesses. Although I am sometimes accused of a tendency toward lightmindedness, I am not skittish and volatile enough to feel in complete accord with Mr. Coward on this occasion.

And yet this play has surprising stamina in the theater. It is several seasons old, but it gets itself acted with surprising frequency. Playgoers chuckle over it with abandon.

I am immune to "Hay Fever," even when acted with the skill of Miss Collier's company; while many others seem to be highly sensitized to its daffy and feminine sense of humor. Therefore my recommendation is: Take or leave it, according to your taste for eye-lash comedy. At any rate, it is acted well.

*

Miss Collier is picturesque and amusing as the ex-actress whose home was "a feather bed of false emotions." Eric Cowley, featured in the cast, makes a striking character study of the novel-writing husband. Betty Linley, decorative and animated, is the surprising daughter, and Anthony Kemble-Cooper is the embarrassing son—both of them excellent.

Terence Neil, remembered for his fine acting in "Michael and Mary," appears as the stalwart athlete; Julia Hoyt is picturesque as the week-end siren; Edward Cooper is good as the diplomatist; and Valerie Cossart is well cast as the speechless flapper. This is indeed a cast that deserves a full roll call—in the small rôle of a maid, one finds Louise Beaudet, whose golden years are a tradition among veteran playgoers.

Patient research has discovered no satisfactory explanation for the meaning of the title of "Hay Fever." But it is accepted as fact in stage circles that Mr. Coward wrote the play after spending a week-end in the English country home of Laurette Taylor and J. Hartley Manners.

HOSTESS

[Daguerre Photo.]

Mrs. Richardson Dunham as president of the Chicago branch of the Needlework Guild of America will be hostess at a luncheon for those who have contributed to the Chicago branch, members of the boards of the organizations to which the guild has contributed, and representatives from the 18 Illinois branches, tomorrow at the Ambassador East. The Needlework Guild is a charitable organization which collects new and appropriate garments and gives them to hospitals, day nurseries, etc. It is confused sometimes with the Needlework and Textile Guild of the Art institute of which Mrs. Potter Palmer is president, but the two are vastly different, for the Needlework Guild exists solely to clothe the needy, and the Needlework and Textile Guild is for the purpose of keeping alive the art of fine needlework and weaving.

Few Enter the Wedded State Minus Doubts

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Some girls meet a man about whose desirability as a husband there never enters a question. There just couldn't be any other man. On all points he is the perfect answer to prayer. Anyway, no question arises about the advisability of marrying him. And this, so far as we know, is the real thing in love.

Other girls meet a man to whom they are attracted strongly. The man returns the compliment. They go around together for months, or perhaps for a couple of years. At first there is no question about the wisdom of marrying this particular young man. Later on doubts begin to assail the young lady. She hasn't the same passionate eagerness to see the young man. She doesn't wait so breathlessly for his telephone calls.

He begins to take on the proportions of an ordinary being, one she feels permitted to criticize now and then.

She is held to the young man by some strong bond because she finds the idea of giving him up impossible.

It would be interesting to know just how many young women achieve marriage without a question, hesitation or doubt. My impression is that many have gone through the questioning period and come out pretty successfully in the end. There might even be advantages in stripping the young man of his unearthly halo and substituting frailities common to humans, thus entering marriage prepared against disillusions. It does not follow that love does not exist where the emotions run hot and cool and back again.

"Odette" is the girl whose letter inspires the above. She and her fiancé expect to marry this summer. At times she is madly in love; again, she is placid. Isn't it her own moods, her own temperament that should be questioned rather than the bigger question of love?

These Pointers Aid Parents of Adolescents

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

As a result of many requests on party giving, I have prepared a leaflet containing suggestions on parties for the younger children. And now for today's question:

Questions: "Can you give some signposts for us parents of high school boys and girls? Do you think adolescence needs to be a time of problems for all mothers and fathers?"

Answer to second question: No and yes. The change from childhood to maturity is, of course, a normal one, but also a more complex period than that of earlier growth. So if conditions aren't favorable in general there is apt to be more disturbance in the boy or girl. There are many things that work together to make up fairly favorable conditions for the children in their teens, but we usually need to be aware of them in order to provide them.

*

Answer to first question: Here are a few "signposts," as you call them, for parents of adolescent boys and girls—

1. Remember that they are a mixture of little girl and woman, little boy and man.

2. Physical growth is uneven at adolescence. You see it often in great height which is equal to an adult's, without the whole physical development of the adult being attained until years later.

3. Emotional development is also uneven, so we often find emotional instability in our boys and girls in the teens.

4. We want to cease treating them as little children, because they are that no longer.

5. But neither do we want to put them completely on their own. They need guidance for many years. They do not suddenly become adults in physique and experience and in understanding themselves in a few years.

6. Try to have an intelligent as well as a loving attitude toward them. Do this by learning about the general physical and other changes of the teens. If you do not know of good brief reading I shall be glad to make suggestions.

Contemporary Club Officers.

Miss Martha Sarver was reelected president of the Contemporary club at the annual meeting held not long ago and Mrs. Ruth Fuller Everett was elected first vice president. The other new officers are: Second vice president, Mrs. Harold Eldridge; recording secretary, Mrs. Ruth Virginia Lester; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Rebecca McDoel Wyman; treasurer, Mrs. Herbert W. Sanborn; directors, Mrs. Wesley Dixon, Miss Naomi Donnelley, Mrs. Chester D. Tripp, Mrs. Laurence O. Wilson, and Mrs. Florence White Gilman.

The following have been appointed chairmen of the various committees: Mrs. Edmund Andrews, literary; Mrs. Sidney Haskell, miscellaneous; Mrs. Francis Stanley Rickoords and Mrs. Bowman C. Lingle, social; Mrs. George J. Farnsworth, rooms and finance.

The Winnetka Garden club, of which Mrs. Langdon Pearse is president, announces a summer flower show to be held on July 9 in Matz Hall community house in Winnetka. Mrs. Robert H. Gardner of Indian Hill is chairman of the show committee.

One of the gayest of the early summer parties on the north shore will be a dance to be given for the benefit of the nursery school of Gads Hill Settlement of Chicago on Friday, June 3, at the Sunset Ridge Country club, west of Winnetka. Mrs. Tom E. Hough of Winnetka is in charge of the sale of tickets.

Critical Rehearsal by Playwrights.

The Playwrights theater will hold its sixth critical rehearsal of the season on Thursday evening at the Illinois Women's Athletic club. The players will read a play written by Melanie Koll [Mrs. Irvin], with Abbott Ross in the title part. Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw, Mrs. George W. Dulany Jr., Mrs. Edwin A. Seipp, Mrs. Adeline Atwater, Mrs. William A. Nitze, Miss Harriet Monroe, Miss Imogene Bucklin, and Mrs. Andrew R. Sherriff are the members of the Playwrights theater fostering the performances of original manuscripts.

Have you heard that youthful Janet Busby, daughter of Mrs. Leonard A. Busby, has two paintings hanging in the Salon du Printemps in the Grand palais in Paris, and that one of them was painted before she had gone to Paris to study art? I met Mrs. Busby yesterday and she told me the interesting news about Janet with pardonable pride and with regret, too, that she wasn't there to share Janet's first artistic honors.

Mrs. Busby came home, however, some weeks ago to attend to some necessary business and to take Jack back with her when Hotchkiss, where he is a student, is out for the summer vacation. They will sail late in June to join Janet in Paris.

Janet, by the way, was just 19 in March and one of the paintings accepted for the spring show was a portrait of Raymond Bauman, the pianist, which she painted in Nantucket early last summer. Mrs. Busby tells me it is a striking thing with Mr. Bauman wearing a red Russian outfit that belonged to Isadora Duncan's Russian husband. The other portrait, of David Nixon, well known American violinist and dilettante of Paris, was painted in Paris this last winter. Mrs. Busby is at the Pearson during her stay here.

Summer Plans of Mrs. McPherson.

Mrs. Donald McPherson of Winnetka is planning a summer holiday at the seashore with her children. Her older daughter, Miss Fanny McPherson, who attends Miss Hall's school at Pittsfield, Mass., is staying with her grandmother, Mrs. Frederick T. West, and her son, Donald Jr., will visit Mrs. West after he finishes his semester at prep school in Boston.

Mrs. McPherson and her younger daughter, Sally Ann, will motor to Pittsfield in late June or early July and then the family will go to Nantucket for the rest of the summer.

Miss Margaret Sinclair, member of the Junior league, who is the efficient executive secretary in charge of the league's office in the Italian Court, has departed for a three weeks' vacation in the east, now that the office is closed officially for the summer.

Mrs. Ernest Walker of 6 Scott street plans to leave for Geneva, N. Y., the middle of June, to spend the summer there. Her daughter, Mrs. Richard M. Walrath, will join her later in the season.

Ronald Tree of London, who managed to see a lot of his relatives and old friends when he was here on business for a few days last week, departed on Saturday for Charlottesburg, Va., to the property which he and his wife, the former Nancy Perkins, inherited from the Langhorne estate.

Among the Chicagoans sailing the end of last week for abroad were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Vaux, who are going to London to visit their daughter, Mrs. William de Burgh Whyte, and her family; Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, who is on her way to visit her son, Miller F. Callahan, and his wife and baby son in Haslemere, Surrey, England; Mrs. Alfred H. Granger who is going to Vienna for the summer; and Mr. and Mrs. Elisha E. Chandler who are going abroad for a three months' stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams will close their apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive on June 1 and move out to Lake Forest for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis Jr., and Miss Nancy Otis of 1415 Astor street returned yesterday from a brief visit to New York.

Engaged

[Schupak Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. William Frederick Schwarer of 7733 North Hermitage avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Muriel Katheryne, to Ervin Robert Barr, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Barr of California. The wedding will take place on June 23.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 23.—[Special.]—President Hoover was joined this afternoon by Mrs. Hoover, who remained at the Rapidan camp with Mrs. Edgar Rickard after President Hoover returned this morning.

Justice and Mrs. George Sutherland will sail Friday for a two months' stay in Italy. The Supreme court will adjourn May 31 and Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone will sail June 2 for a summer in Europe.

Col. and Mrs. William T. Wilder will leave tomorrow for their home in St. Paul, Minn., after visiting the former's son-in-law and daughter, Maj. and Mrs. C. K. King and his sister, Mrs. John S. Tomlinson.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—Miss Josephine Greve, who has been visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Greve of Monterey avenue, Pelham Manor, sailed on Friday for France and will go direct to Paris, where she will join her father, Joseph Greve. Later they will go to Biarritz, where they have taken a villa for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Elmo Calkins of 880 Park avenue have gone to their country home near Lakeville, Conn., for the summer.

'Best' Lincoln Portrait Put on Exhibition

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Three exhibitions are of importance this week. In the Ackermann gallery, 410 South Michigan avenue, Charles Sneed Williams is showing a group of portraits. The significant canvas in his exhibit, however, is the superb portrait of Abraham Lincoln, a commission from Kentucky which he recently finished. It is by all odds the most magnificent painting of Lincoln we have yet had, this because of its simplicity and sincerity. It is Lincoln, the man, and you feel his evident humanity and reality in every detail.

The Knoedler gallery, 622 South Michigan avenue, opened yesterday a one man show of water colors and oils by Louis Cheskin, a Chicago painter. Mr. Cheskin handles water color at lightning speed. His landscapes rush by you like fields from an express train window. His color rhythm keeps you charmed, but you gasp for an occasional anchor by which you might stabilize some of your swift impressions. The "Winter Road" gives the most foothold and possibly for that reason it seems the most powerful of these sketches.

In oils Mr. Cheskin is more static. The paintings are perhaps more commonplace than the water colors, but every gain must mean a sacrifice somewhere. He gains solidity and loses charm. "Mellon Arrangement" is by far the finest of the oils. His nude, painted with a brush, whereas his usual tool is the palette knife, is too smooth, too bisque, too red, to warrant great appreciation.

The third exhibition to have just opened is the tenth annual exhibit of the Chicago No Jury society. The exhibit is in the Gallery of Modern Life, Michigan Square building. It is better than last year's show and amusingly diverting in itself. There are paintings of all sizes, types, and schools present. The most exquisite is "White Bouquet," by Hazel Hannell; the most startling, "Black Venus," by Todros Geller; the most amusing, "Aw! What the Hell!" by Gilbert Rocke, and "Grandma," by Arthur Weiendorf.

The sculpture division is particularly fine, though small. Julie Manierre offers several delightful pieces and Maude Phelps Hutchins a reserved "Portrait" in bronze.

Tulip Blooms Give Chance to Pick Varieties

BY PAUL POTTER.

While the tulips are still in command of the color scheme in the garden it is desirable that selections be made for the coming season. With some 230 named varieties in bloom in various points within short driving distance of Chicago, there should be no concern next fall about getting "red and yellow ones" when they can be studied and selected by variety.

Most tulip enthusiasts are familiar with a few varieties of Darwins, Breeders or Cottage tulips. They may not be so well acquainted with the unusual developments in byblooms, bizarres, lily flowered, Rembrandt, and parrot tulips. The fact that with but few exceptions they are so economical this season makes a wider selection possible for the fall bulb planting.

While most home owners regard tulips as they do iris and gladioli—to be placed in formal rows or borders, a grouping of varieties or color harmonies adds skill to tulip raising for the amateur. Tucked between the peonies, iris or shrubs in informal borders, they make use of green backgrounds and the plants that bloom later become "frames" for the tulip pictures in the yard.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Milt Gaston, late of Boston and other points in the American league, yesterday confined the Cleveland Indians to two little singles. His gorgeous performance, of course, was the main works in a 4 to 0 victory which made it three straight for the White Sox in two days.

Moreover, Milt, who made six hits all last year, singled to drive in the first and winning run in the fourth inning.

The two hits were made by Vosmik and Cissell, and Joe got his after Grube had drawn an error for dropping his foul in the second. Cissell registered his after one was out in the eighth.

Great Month, Eh, Milt?

We don't know a thing about Milt's horoscope, but we are willing to place a small wager that it says something nice about May. Milt won two games last year and both of them were in May. On May 4 he beat the Athletics, 7 to 5 and came back May 9 to lick Cleveland, 5 to 1.

Gaston walked the first man up in the game and didn't pass another until he got a little fidgety after striking out Porter to start the ninth. Then he walked Averill. Vosmik forced Averill and Milt passed Morgan, after which Sewell ended the game with a fly to Seeds.

The day's hero didn't get the best support in the world, his mates making no fewer than four errors in the first five innings. But when the boys began to realize that Milt was up to something noble they bore down and helped in a big way. Appling, Kress, and Funk contributed especially good plays to the afternoon's success.

Batters Do Their Stuff.

Gaston's brilliant behavior rather eclipsed the activities of the batting fellows, naturally. But they did right well to establish the productive phase of the day's business. The first two runs came in the fourth on singles by Appling, Grube, and Gaston, a sacrifice by Funk, and a long fly by Selph which Vosmik grabbed with one hand at the scoreboard.

A single by Kress, the second of three walks to Blue, an infield out, and a fly gave the Sox their third run in the fifth inning, and in the seventh a walk to Blue with two out and Hodapp's double accounted for the final marker.

The first inning had a degree of activity, though there was no scoring. Burnett started the game by walking, but Porter filed to Funk. Funk then made a nice running catch of Averill's drive to right center and Burnett was doubled off first, Funk to Kress to Blue. In the Sox half Seeds singled and Kress walked, but the inning ended with Blue's fly to Porter.

Sox Pull Themselves Up.

The Sox had to tighten up like everything to keep the Indians from scoring in the second inning. The session started with Grube drawing an error for dropping Vosmik's foul. Joe responded to this generosity by singling to center and running on to second when Funk juggled the ball. He went to third while Appling was throwing out Morgan, was held there while Selph threw out Sewell, and perished when Kress threw out Kamm.

Some of that terrible Sox base running chilled Chicago chances in the second. Hodapp opened with a single to center and tried to reach second when the ball evaded Averill for an instant. Johnny was out by about fifteen feet. Appling then drove a long single to right and reached second while Grube was rolling out to Morgan. Gaston fanned.

Aha! Sox Get Some Runs!

The Sox again erred on the first man up in the third, but held the enemy away from the plate. Cissell was safe on Selph's fumble, moved to second on Hildebrand's sacrifice, to third on Burnett's grounder to Blue,

N. Y. GARDEN GOES A FISHING FOR TO CATCH A FAN

But Sharkey Bout at $23 Seems Wrong Bait.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—The Madison Square Garden film has dug a bowl or dish in the soil of Long Island City and paved the same with chewing gum or some other plastic substance as a site for the prizefight between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey on June 21. This fight is supposed to involve the heavyweight championship of the world, but there will still be a bar sinister on the title when the bout is done because Mickey Walker, a fat middleweight, gave Sharkey an impudent slapping one evening last fall in Brooklyn. A challenger for the heavyweight championship ought to be able to beat any and all fat middleweights whom the promoters toss into the ring with him.

The maximum price for tickets is $23 and one wonders just how the late Tex Rickard would have gone about creating a customer demand at that price in such a time for a prizefight between such fighters. There was plenty of money on the loose in Mr. Rickard's best days, and moreover prize fighting had just been made legal again after one of those long periodic spells of penance.

Rest Is Tonic for Fans.

It is a good thing for the prizefight business to be declared felonious every now and again. This gives the customers a rest, and after a time they begin to pine for the old sights, sounds, and smells. Mr. Rickard came back to New York for his great successes at a time when the law had been on the business for several years and the resumption was marked by many solemn pledges of the boys then active never to be guilty of any act, thought, or omission which might tend to reflect discredit on the grand old game.

Mr. Rickard was a bold man and never inclined to modesty in his rates of admission, so it would not be safe to say that he would have cut the price of this bout to $5 or $10 as a concession to the customers' present financial condition and their obvious disenchantment. But still it would be hard to imagine Rickard building a big plant within the metropolitan limits of New York to house a fight at $23 per head for the ringside seats with the patrons as apathetic as they are toward this one.

How About Elimination Series?

Probably Rickard would have preferred to conduct a series of elimination bouts as a preliminary to his main event and postpone the championship fight until some future time. He was very fond of his eliminations and, holding an ingenious monopoly on all heavyweights having and customer-appeal whatever, he was always reshuffling parties who had been eliminated one or more times.

His scheme was something like the seeding of players before a tennis tournament, although of course a tennis player who has been put out once cannot be put back by the promoting club merely because he or she happens to possess customer-appeal. This same Sharkey was eliminated at least three times under Rickard's conduct of the prizefight monopoly at the Garden and such fellows as Heeney, Uzcudun, Maloney, and Delaney were always disposing of one another back and forth, but never permanently.

Just a Warmed-Over Bout.

It is my guess that if Tex had been running eliminations last winter he would have filled Madison Square garden half a dozen times with pairings and crosspairings of Ernie Schaaf, Mickey Walker, Steve Hamas, King Levinsky, Sharkey and, possibly, even old Jack Dempsey. I think he would have saved a fight between Sharkey and Schaaf for the out-door season, but would have got them into a ring somehow because Schaaf used to be a sort of pupil of Sharkey and this pitting of the pupil against the master would have lent itself admirably to the purposes of the box office, which are not philanthropic.

But in the present case an attempt is being made to warm over a match

There was wailing and gnashing of teeth, to say nothing of tearing of mutuel tickets, yesterday when Ballygran, ridden by the veteran Jimmy Smith, captured the second race on the Washington Park opening program. The reason? Red Whisk, the favorite, whose price had been knocked down to almost 1 to 2, finished third. Miss Brilliant, which starred at Sportsman's Park, was second. Ballygran paid $14.86 for a $2 investment.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

TRACK MEETS.

THE WAKE often has tried to reason out why track and field meets do not draw larger crowds in Chicago. Take the Big Ten title affair at Evanston last Saturday, for example.

It is true not many dual rivalries existed, that between Jack Keller of Ohio State and George Saling of Iowa being most notable, but record breaking performances were promised in advance in several events. There also was eagerness on the part of enthusiasts to see just what Henry Brocksmith of Indiana would do to the mile and two mile marks. That he did nothing to these records was more the fault of a strong wind on the backstretch than of Brocksmith.

There was, in addition, that normally keen incentive to attendance, team rivalry. Michigan, Ohio State and Indiana all had chances for the championship, just as predicted, and it was a close contest all afternoon. Yet with so many favorable factors only a crowd pitifully small in comparison with the meet's importance and its bearing on Olympic selections was present. Of course, cold weather and a high wind may have affected the crowd somewhat, but we've seen thousands sit through pouring rain to watch football games.

Concede that all real track enthusiasts enjoyed the meet, and The Wake enrolls in that category, but what was there for a newcomer to induce him to come again? Probably not enough. Of the seven field events only one, the pole vault, was directly in front of the stand. The javelin throw, however, was clearly visible, although farther removed. The other five were too far away, necessarily, for the spectators to get much idea of what was going on except when Ted Canty, through the announcing amplifiers, was doing an exceptionally good job of furnishing information.

Then the track events. The 220 yard dash and high hurdles start beyond the view of a majority and the runners first come in sight about half way through their journey. The 100 yard dash and 120 high hurdles were thrilling but over in 10 and 14 seconds, respectively. To The Wake the quarter and half mile runs are favorites because you have time to know which competitors are which and watch their efforts.

In the mile and two mile Brocksmith outclassed his field, yet one knew he could not crack records against the prevailing wind. The mile relay was perhaps the most sensational event and a fitting finale to the afternoon. But were there enough thrills for two and one-half hours of time? Possibly more relay events would help, but relays are not the prime mission of a championship meet.

One concludes, therefore, there are not enough exciting moments for the time consumed except for enthusiasts, or not enough continuity of action, or something. Yet with the same conditions track events draw large crowds in Boston, and in New York indoor track games are extremely popular. Perhaps some one else can explain Chicago's apparent apathy.

JOCKEY KILLED, TWO INJURED IN RACE SPILL

Cleveland, O., May 23.—(AP)—One jockey was killed and two others hurt as five horses and their riders went down in a heap at the Edinbridge race track late today.

Jose Hernandez of New Orleans, up on Phi Delta and leading the field in the third race, was found to have received a fractured left arm as well as severe bruises. Both Carroll and Hernandez remained in the hospital tonight.

Two other jockeys, Lee Hardy and Tracy Reno, were involved in the pile-up, but escaped with a shaking up. Reno's mount, Erin Go Bragh, died on the track.

Spectators said that apparently Phi Delta cut out from the rail and with the next four horses went down in a struggling mass. None of the riders was able to give a clear account of what happened.

GATE SURPASSES 1931 OPENING; BETTING HEAVY

Gold Step, Plater, Wins $6,140 Feature.

BY FRENCH LANE.

[OTHER RACE NEWS ON PAGE 22]

Chicago racegoers, some 15,000 of them, made merry as they got their first taste of metropolitan racing when the Washington Park early summer season opened yesterday afternoon.

They had all the fun any opening crowd should have. They watched some mighty fine horses run, they basked in the warm sunshine of a May day at a beautiful race track, but not many of them were able to pick the winners.

The Washington Park handicap, with a gross value of $6,140 at six furlongs, proved to be the greatest puzzler. For at the finish Gold Step, racing for Mrs. S. H. Fairbanks of Maryland, turned up as the easiest sort of a winner by three lengths from Silverdale, with Ladder from the east and owned by Walter J. Salmon third. Gold Step had been a frequent failure at Aurora.

Gold Step Makes 'Em Like It.

Did this Aurora sprinter which won a $3,000 claiming race only the other day, make proud sprinters from Kentucky, California, Maryland, New York, and other points like it? He did, indeed, fairly ran their eyeballs out, and was never in danger when he had conquered Don Leon from Kentucky after the field had gone a furlong.

Gold Step was so lightly regarded that he was grouped in the field for the wagering. So it was only natural that only the habitual field players cashed tickets. But they did it with quite some hilarity, for Gold Step paid $32.74 to win, $12.14 to place, and $5.66 to show.

The field players were doubly happy, for just a short time earlier Sobieha had scored for them in a six furlong claiming race and rewarded them at $76.40 in the $2 market.

Crowd Larger Than in 1931.

There was no sign of depression as the season of 30 days got under way. The crowd was larger than it was a year ago and the betting was about the same, although final returns may show the wagering was off slightly, but, if so, by less than 10 per cent.

Many of Chicago's best people were in the opening day crowd and there were lots of folks there from Kentucky, California, and many other thoroughbred centers. They were all a bit cautious when it came to backing their judgment, for it is an old theory among racegoers to let the horses run a day or so before attempting to pick a winner.

It was this old custom or the depression that caused the falling off in the wagering, if the final returns show there was a falling off.

In the Washington handicap, which in the past has produced some thrilling contests and several times an unexpected winner, Silverdale and Tannery mustered the most backers, although it was a wide open betting affair with Ladder, Pansy Walker, and Prince Atheling having their supporters.

Forget Field Horses.

Hardly anyone mentioned the field horses and, as far as Gold Step was concerned, well how could anybody back that Aurora selling plater?

Only Don Leon was in front of Gold Step when Morrissey sent them away. It wasn't long until the rejuvenated Gold Step ran past Don Leon. He made the pace the rest of the way home.

Silverdale challenged desperately at the head of the stretch, then fell back and gave it up as a bad job. So did Ladder. But Silverdale had enough left to beat Ladder out of second money by a length. The others were thoroughly whipped, for Gold Step had wheeled around the six furlongs course in 1:12, within a second of a track record held by No More.

There also was an upset in the Blue Island purse for 2 year olds when Red Whisk, regarded as the best colt in the west, could do no better than third, back of Edward R. Bradley's Ballygran and Miss Brilliant, a 2 year old that has been running at the Sportsman's Park half mile track.

Ballygran Shows Speed.

This Ballygran, which like Burgoo King, is a son of Bubbling Over, turned it on and ran a marvelous five furlongs to win with Jockey Jimmy Smith looking back at those trailing him. His time for the five furlongs was :59 3-5 which was within a fifth of a second of the track record.

In the rush of support to Red Whisk, Ballygran was slightly overlooked and paid $14.46. He looks like one of the best 2 year olds to race in the Bradley silks in many seasons. He is a big, robust bay, and won the Blue Island with such ease most of the folks in the crowd believe he will go on to much greater things.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GARDONE, Italy, May 23.—Kaye Don of England today reached a speed of 110 miles an hour in a trial run over the rough water of Lake Garda. Don soon will attempt to break the world's record of 111.73 miles an hour, established by Gar Wood of Detroit, Mich.

AMERICAN BEATS BRITISH AMATEUR CHAMPION, 1 UP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, May 23.—On the brink of certain defeat, Leonard Martin, metropolitan champion of New York, today steadied on the last seven holes and eliminated the defending champion, Eric Martin Smith of London, in the first round of the British amateur golf championship tournament. The American's margin of victory was 1 up.

It was the young New Yorker's first start in the British title event and at the eleventh hole he was four down. Martin had seen his best efforts bring him no better than halves, but he regained form brilliantly and went on to win five of the last seven holes.

Congratulates Victor.

The defending champion conceded the match on the last hole when he muffed his chip shot. Martin was on the green with his second seven yards from the pin. Smith was the first to congratulate the victor, placing his arm over Martin's shoulders.

The first hole of the Martin-Smith match was halved in par, but Smith won the second with a birdie three when Martin was over the green. Martin holed a two yard putt for a half in birdie threes on the third and then holed a ten yarder for a birdie two on the short fourth for a half.

Englishman Goes Two Up.

The defending champion went two up on the long fifth with a birdie four when Martin was bunkered. The sixth and seventh were halved. On the seventh Martin lay the ball dead from a deep bunker to get his par three. The eighth was halved when both were bunkered and the ninth went the same way. Here both met trouble. Martin was bunkered and the Englishman went out of bounds. Smith made the turn two up.

The tenth and eleventh each cost the American a stroke and he was 4 down. Here he recovered his game and began the thrust which was to bring him victory. Martin won the 12th, halved the 13th and 14th, and then won the 15th when Smith missed a short putt. The champion also missed a short one at the 16th and put his second shot into a trap on the 17th.

The pair drove evenly on the 18th, but Smith flubbed his chip shot and conceded the match. The first round was not completed today and several matches were held over until tomorrow.

In the third Seeds again singled and went to third on a wild pitch. Kress again walked and so did Blue, filling the bases. Hodapp flied to Vosmik.

After being given life when Morgan dropped his foul, Appling led off the fourth with his second hit and went to third on Grube's single to center. Gaston singled to center, Appling scoring and Grube stopping at third. The runners moved up on Funk's sacrifice. It appeared that Selph had a triple in the making but Vosmik went to the score board in left center and pulled down his drive with one hand. However, Grube was able to walk home after the catch. Burnett threw out Seeds.

Kress opened the fifth with a single to right and Blue walked again, whereupon Hildebrand was yanked and Connally went in to pitch. The runners advanced while Kamm was throwing out Hodapp, and after Appling lined to Averill, Kress scored. Red barely had crossed the plate when Blue was doubled by Averill's throw to Kamm.

In the seventh Blue got his third successive walk after two were out and scored when Hodapp dropped a double between Vosmik and Averill.

Cissell registered the second hit off Gaston when he singled to center with one out in the eighth. Bill went to second while Gaston was throwing out Myatt, who batted for Connally, and died when Appling threw out Burnett.

FERRELL VS. FRASIER

Wes Ferrell will try to do something this afternoon in the case of the rampant White Sox. Wes has won six and lost three after getting a start of five wins in a row. Two of the first five were made at the expense of the Sox, who then were in no such frolicsome mood as they now are enjoying. Frasier will try again to do some pitching.

Since the Sox will hit the road again tomorrow night President J. Louis Comiskey will open the gates to the ladies this afternoon. No tickets necessary, says Lou. Just come out and start squealing to your heart's content.

The Sox now have won six out of nine games, quite some happy contrast with their record of two out of 18 registered between April 17 and May 16.

State's Best to Seek Golf Title June 13

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The second annual Illinois state amateur and professional golf championship tournaments are going to provide even a better show than the inaugural meets at Quincy last year, if advance entries for the meet at the Champaign County Country club June 13 to 18, inclusive, are any indication.

Among the professionals who already have signified their intentions of entering are Horton Smith of Oak Park, in his first year as a Chicago district pro; Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, a leader in international golf for the last six years; Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, George Smith of Onwentsia, John Drucker of Chicago Golf, and Al Bluhm of Big Oaks. They'll play on the 13th and 14th for the title now held by Abe Espinosa of Medinah.

The amateurs and pros will join up on the afternoon of the 14th for a pro-amateur event, the pairings for which they will make themselves. On the 15th the amateurs will begin play for the championship which young Warren Dawson of Green Valley won last year. Among those expected to compete are Warren, himself; his brother, George; Chick Evans, Johnny Lehman, Jack Westland, Jimmy Garard, Johnny Van Nortwick, Earl Jaeger, Gus Novotny, Bob Baldwin, Hank Bowbeer, and Frank Justin.

A 27 hole trial round for the amateurs will be held on the 15th, with 32 qualifying for the championship flight, which will be concluded on the 18th with a 36 hole final match.

The ninth annual spring tournament of the Illinois Seniors' Golf association will be played on June 15 at Olympia Fields Country club. The event will be at eighteen holes, and will be divided into four age classes: Class A, 70 years old and over; class B, 65 to 69, inclusive; class C, 60 to 64, inclusive; and class D, 55 to 59, inclusive. Prizes will be given for first and second low, first and second and third low net, and fewest putts in each class. Communications regarding the tournament should be sent to Charles B. Spaulding, secretary of the association, 3940 South Union avenue.

The North Shore Golf league, comprising eight leading north side clubs, will open its 1932 season at Sunset Ridge Thursday.

Homer Deane and Ethel Fisher, respective presidents of the Lincoln Park Golf club and the Lincoln Park Women's Golf club, announced yesterday that every member of the two clubs will compete in the tournament which will open on the new lake front park course on June 3. The clubs never have competed against each other before.

Among the Chicago district clubs which have reduced guest fees for the 1932 season are Butterfield and North Shore. The former has trimmed daily fees from $2.50 to $1.50; Sundays from $3.50 to $2.50, and holidays from $5 to $3.50. North Shore's 1932 scale on guest fees is $1.50 on week days and $3 on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays. Guest fees for women are now $1 on week days and $2 on Sunday afternoons, and for juniors the same as for women.

The Four Seasons club at Pembine, Wis., with a membership of 168 Chicagoans, will open its golf season Decoration day with a handicap event.

Who's Who in Women's Golf

By Betty Eckersall

MRS. EDGAR BOUTON.

One good championship deserves another is the opinion of Mrs. Edgar Bouton, women's champion of the Olympic Golf and Country club. Although she has been in competition for only four years, she defeated Mrs. Lucille Bordwell, the club's veteran star, for the title last year, one up in nineteen holes.

Mrs. Bouton displayed unusual recovery ability in winning the title. On the last nine holes Mrs. Bordwell had her four down and five to go. Mrs. Bouton won the next four holes, halved the eighteenth and outdrove and approached her opponent on the nineteenth.

MRS. EDGAR BOUTON.

Mrs. Bouton's championship possibilities lie in her tee shots, which she hits 225 to 250 yards consistently. Her fairway shots also are good, and at the present time she is practicing diligently to perfect her short game. She became interested in golf five years ago, while watching her husband play. After several lessons from Mr. Bouton she became a frequent victor in the family tournaments.

Mrs. Bouton believes the distance and accuracy of her drives are a result of having played baseball in high school. During the winter months she bowls twice a week. She finds the new ball a great aid in lowering her score.

Aside from her interest in golf, Mrs. Bouton is rearing three sons, the eldest of whom is developing into quite a golfer. She intends to enter all Chicago district events and all the western tournaments held in or near Chicago.

Mildred Hackl Keeps U. of C. Golf Crown

Mildred Hackl defended her title as the woman golf champion of the University of Chicago by scoring a 44—42—86 in a medal play tournament yesterday at Cog-Hill.

Betty Patterson was second with a 47—49—96, Lorraine Dankle was third with 48—58—106, and Mary Sheehan fourth with 57—50—107. Thirty competed.

Mildred Hackl, 44—42—86; Elice Weber, 55—59—114; Virginia Tilden, 59—56—115; Helen Taylor, 76—70—146; Wilma Kuehn, 67—59—126; Patricia Vail, 56—62—118; Agnes Adair, 72—68—140; Marguerite Chumley, 70—74—144.

Marian Gentz, 83—76—159; Florence Andrews, 68—73—141; Jane Somers, 70—70—140; Helen London, 79—79—158.

In the weekly event of the Cog-Hill Women's Golf club Mrs. Isabell Meany won the low gross with 91. Mrs. James Faltus was second with 94 and Mrs. Florence Jacobs third with a 96.

Mrs. Marie Capera was the low net victor, with Mrs. Gertrude Barrett second. Third place went to Mrs. E. S. Johnson. Mrs. W. Gieck won the prize for the least number of putts with 30 for 18 holes.

64 MISSOURI GRID PLAYERS DRILL UNDER CARIDEO

Columbia, Mo., May 23.—[Special.]—Sixty-four football players reported today to Frank Carideo, 24 year old former Notre Dame all-American quarter back and newly appointed head coach at the University of Missouri. More than 500 hundred persons watched the new coach teaching fundamentals. Carideo's contract begins Sept. 1 at a reported salary of $6,000.

Notre Dame Honors Football Star of 1900

Notre Dame, Ind., May 23.—[Special.]—Rev. John F. Farley, C. S. C., Notre Dame football captain in 1900 and star end for four years, was honored tonight at a testimonial dinner given by residents of Sorin hall, of which he is rector. The occasion was the silver jubilee of his ordination into the priesthood.

CRANE DEFEATS TILDEN, 4 TO 3, IN SEMI-FINAL

Crane Tech, winner of second place in the west section of the Chicago Public High School league, scored its first victory in the semi-final round by defeating Tilden Tech, central division champion, 4 to 3, at Normal park yesterday.

Crane's victory places it with Lane Tech, Bowen, and Lindblom, who also won their first games in the semi-finals. All of the eight teams which qualified for the semi-finals will play three games, the winner of the central-west play meeting the champion of the north-south divisions in the final games on June 4.

Lane, defending league champion, will seek its second semi-final victory today against Schurz at Logan Square park. Yesterday's score:

Red Forces Two Batters to Pop Out.

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—Red Ruffing came to George Pipgras' rescue today to give the Yankees a 6 to 5 decision over the Athletics and an even break in the first two games of the series. Ruffing mounted the hill with one out in the ninth, one run in, Al Simmons on third and Jimmy Foxx on first and forced Roettger and Williams to pop out.

The Macks scored three in the fifth but Pipgras was their master the rest of the way until he weakened in the ninth.

Leroy Mahaffey, young Philadelphia right hander, held the Yanks to six hits, two less than the A's got off Pipgras, but a walk, three hits and an error gave New York four runs in the third. Tony Lazzeri, who has been playing a great game at second base for the Yankees, was forced out with an injured leg in the third. Score:

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

American Olympic officials gradually are realizing there is no better training school for amateur boxers than the Golden Gloves tournament. Four of the eight 1932 national amateur champions are graduates of the big boxing meet conducted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and New York News.

Three New York boys and one Chicagoan came through the recent N. A. A. U. tournament victoriously. They are Louis Salica, New York, flyweight; Jimmy Martin, New York, bantamweight; Richard Carter, New York, featherweight and Freddie Caserio, Chicago, middleweight. All have qualified for the Olympic final tryouts in San Francisco July 10.

In addition, Tony Muscarello and Max Marek, both of Chicago, have earned their way to the Olympic tryouts, although they did not win championships in the N. A. A. U. meet.

Golden Gloves might have had an even heavier representation if Johnny Phagan, Adam Smith, Vernon Miller and Leo Rodak of Chicago had entered Olympic competition. These men chose to fight for Chicago in the international match with Germany, which will be held at Soldiers' field, July 26. They couldn't engage in both events on account of a conflict in dates.

These last named boys are deserving of a hand for their loyalty to Chicago. It wasn't easy to pass up a chance at the Olympic championship, with its trip to California. The officials of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament naturally were anxious to keep their team intact for the battle with the champions of Germany. It will take the best we have to repel the punchers from Berlin. But little or no effort was made to persuade the Chicago boys to remain here. With one exception, they were loyal to a man. The lone exception wasn't a champion.

Germany is sending to Soldiers' field the strongest team of amateur boxers that has invaded the United States. We are glad we can send the strongest boxers in Chicagoland against them.

The battle for leadership in the National league has taken on the color of a free for all, and the chances are it will remain so. Two of the four teams in the first division, Boston and Cincinnati, were given little consideration by the baseball prophets when the season opened. The Cubs, who have been out in front most of the way generally were rated a third or fourth place club.

How long they will remain up there only your favorite crystal gazer can tell. If a deal could be put across, ousting Cincinnati from the league, the Cubs might have a chance to win.

But then, who should knock the Reds? No club has made more heroic efforts to develop a champion. It took courage to buy players like Hafey and Herman and keep up their salaries. The Cincinnati club hasn't paid rich dividends in recent years. But the owners were willing to shoot the works to give the fans a winning combination. They deserve support.

The Western conference track meet, bringing together the fastest and strongest athletes in the central states, attracted only 3,000 to Dyche stadium last Saturday. The small attendance hardly can be attributed to the depression. Track events, with one or two exceptions, never have been well patronized in Chicago.

The sport could be popularized by installing mutuel machines and permitting an expert handicapper like A. A. Stagg, for instance, to post the betting odds 30 minutes before each race.

If this didn't lure the spectators, they could put in a daily double, paying off on the winner in the high hurdles and the winner in the javelin.

Cubs Toss Troubles, Peanuts to Monkeys; Face Cards Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 23.—The Cubs had nothing to do today except loaf around, and it probably was just as well. They were hardly in the mood for work after the three straight jolts they brought on themselves by their own blunders at Cincinnati. While idle they lost their slender hold on first place to Boston.

Some of the boys were in such need of a laugh producer that they visited the monkey cage at the nearby city zoo. Even Manager Hornsby, who ordinarily is philosophical after defeat, was in a low mental state this morning when he started for his estate out in the country. He said he was going there to devote several hours to a study of his present batting order. He thinks that it might be possible to rearrange it so as to get a better production of runs. The only men who have been driving in any tallies recently are Woody English and Riggs Stephenson.

Can't Get Away with Errors.

The errors which gave away two of the games and the shaky pitching which cost the other decision in the eleventh inning doesn't necessarily mean that there is any cause to be alarmed about the fielders or pitchers. It does mean that the team can't afford to indulge in such frivolities because it seldom has sufficient lead to protect itself. That is because of the lack of hitting. A heavy hitting squad can blunder in the field and frequently get away with it. A light hitting team makes errors and it is a case of good night, ball game.

Shortstop Bill Jurges has been the worst offender, but his misdeeds haven't altered his status as an above the average fielder. He made the two errors which on Saturday were responsible for two runs. Once he booted a return throw from Bush. But his errors can't eclipse the fact that he has repeatedly come up with batted balls which, with other shortstops, would have gone for hits.

Grimes or Bush to Pitch.

When work is resumed tomorrow against the world champion Cardinals in the first of a two game series the pitching will be handled by either Guy Bush or Burleigh Grimes. Both want the chance. Bush has good luck against the Cards.

Thus far Grimes hasn't been the pitcher he will be inside a few more weeks. Because of various ailments that took hold of him at the start of the season he didn't make an appearance until May 5. On that day he pitched the last two innings of a 2 to 1 loss incurred by Root. His first start was May 8 against Brooklyn. He was terrible for a couple of innings, but suddenly righted himself and finally won out by 12 to 5. On May 14 he tired after eight innings against the Braves and Root stepped in to suffer the defeat. Last Thursday at Cincinnati Grimes made his third start and won, 4 to 3, in 12 innings. His record indicates he is getting stronger each time.

After finishing here Wednesday with the Cardinals, who will have to get started pretty soon if they are going to be contenders, the Cubs will go home to enjoy another off day before opening a two game series with the Reds on Friday.

Hustling River in Michigan Yields Trout

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Blaney, Mich., May 23.—You trout fishermen who are looking for variety in your streams will find it up here in the upper peninsula where on the north Lake Superior takes the water of various trout streams, and southward Lake Michigan receives the clear, cold creeks and rivers in which the red spotted trout live.

If you want a noisy, brawling little river that runs down hill and pulls at your rubber encased legs there is the Sucker river, a beautiful stream with an ugly name which ought to be changed. The Sucker is east of the quaint fishing village of Grand Marais. It has cut a valley through the high ridges overlooking Lake Superior and makes a big fuss as it swings along singing merrily to get to the big lake.

Here's Comfortable Trout Wading.

Closer to Blaney are the Big and Little Fox, the Driggs, and other streams which are more sedate in their conduct and furnish about the most comfortable trout wading that we ever have seen within an overnight ride of Chicago. As Ray Herman, well known Highland Park trout fisherman, pointed out the other day, one hardly needs wading shoes to navigate the Fox and the Driggs because the bottom of both of these little rivers is soft sand or fine gravel.

Norwood Bard and Carroll Gray Jr. of Chicago, who are members of this trout expedition, took us up to the Sucker river, as this stream has more scenery to the square inch than any of the fishing territory around here. Because of its speed, deep holes, and numerous snags it has an excellent set up for trout. Alex Macklin, who piloted the car over the twisting sand road from Grand Marais to the stream, dropped us into the big hard wood timber on the lower part of the streams and then we hit the trail up river.

Maples Show New Leaves.

The rarely used woods road which we followed was well cut up with deer sign. In the big timber on either side of us spring had worked its miracles in greens as well as reds as the maples were taking on a ruddy glow with their new leaves showing. After crossing the stream we climbed to the top of the high ridge overlooking the noisy river and there below was the panorama of green and musical sun flecked rapids that made you stop, look, and listen.

Alex urged us to continue well up stream, but we couldn't resist the immediate appeal. So we skidded down the steep gravel bank to start fishing while the rest of the party kept going farther up before wading in to fool the trout. Although we failed to connect with any big trout [Alex hooked the biggest ones!] they are here and we want to see this noisy little Sucker later on when the water has dropped to normal and fly fishing conditions are more nearly 100 per cent.

Chrysler Tops All Value

CHRYSLER value goes beyond fine materials and fine workmanship.

Chrysler value begins at the very roots—in basic engineering. It goes beyond weight alone, or wheelbase alone, or horsepower alone. It embraces everything, from the smallest details up to the great development of Floating Power.

It's what Chrysler cars give that other cars do not give. It's what Chrysler cars do that other cars cannot do. It's what Chrysler puts into the vitals of a car.

The unique results of Chrysler's patented Floating Power engine mounting demonstrate clearly that no up-to-date car should be without Floating Power.

Today of all times drive a Chrysler before you put down a penny on any new car. Learn what smooth performance really is. Learn what it feels like to drive a car that is totally free from power tremor at all speeds.

Learn how effortlessly a Chrysler does everything. How easily it steers. How fast in traffic. How restful never to have to touch the clutch pedal. How silently you can change gears. How evenly Chrysler's hydraulic brakes take hold.

Burgoo King, the Derby and Preakness winner, surely has made the burgoo dish which Jim Looney stirs up famous. Jim, the original "Burgoo King," is due at Washington Park today or tomorrow. He will come from Atlanta, where he served some 7,500 persons with burgoo soup at a barbeque last week.

Folks in all parts of the country are calling for Jim to come to their festivals and serve burgoo soup. He doesn't know whether he will have time to stir up any of it in Chicago during the Washington Park season or not.

Old Screw Sanders, the sage of Churchill Downs who has picked every Derby winner — or at least nearly every Derby winner — for 27 years, was at Washington Park yesterday serving as sort of an advance agent for the Burgoo King.

Mr. Sanders recalls the day when Gus Jaubert, a Confederate soldier in Gen. John Morgan's command, willed the recipe for burgoo soup to Looney.

"It was at a G. A. R. encampment in Louisville," Sanders said. "There were 95,000 Federal soldiers who had fought against Jaubert to serve. He mixed up burgoo to feed them. The burgoo that day contained 1,500 pounds of soup meat, two dozen wild turkeys, 50 squirrels, one carload of hens and roosters, 100 crates of tomatoes, 1,000 ears of green corn, and other vegetables. Also the secret seasoning to which Looney fell heir."

The curtain on Washington Park's season had no sooner gone up than American Derby gossip began to buzz. Jack Joyner, who trains George D. Widener's horses, ordered stalls during the day for ten horses. The shipment will include Evening, the sensational filly which is to be sent here to race in the American Derby and Illinois Oaks.

A request for nine stalls was received from Big Jim Healy, who trains for Mrs. J. H. Whitney. His shipment will include the Derby eligibles, Stepenfetchit and Over Time.

Mose Goldblatt, who trains the western division of the C. V. Whitney stable, is trying to employ some one to shoot the jinx which has been trailing him throughout the spring season at Churchill Downs. His horses ran second twelve times. "And if it hadn't been for that jinx each would have won," he said.

Suntica, the Kentucky Oaks winner, was an arrival at Washington Park yesterday. She belongs to Willis Sharpe Kilmer and will be joined here in a few days by a dozen others from Kilmer's eastern band. Suntica has engagements in Chicago in the Illinois Oaks, Arlington Oaks, and Arlington Matron handicap.

When Sobieha won the third race and paid $76.40 for a $2 ticket the folks forgot all about those daily double transactions which became popular during the early racing this spring in Chicago. That was more than the daily double usually paid. There will be no daily double play at any of the major Chicago tracks, it was indicated yesterday. Sobieha was a field horse.

It isn't often a horse travels east from Chicago to fill an engagement like the Suburban handicap at Belmont Park. But Gallant Knight of the Audley farm stable band steamed away from Washington Park yesterday with the traditional Suburban as his objective. He will be shipped back to Chicago immediately after the running of the Suburban.

BALLYGRAN came across sharply shortly after start, kept close to pacemaker, and after rounding the turn easily wore down MISS BRILLIANT and won going away. Latter, away well, showed good speed, saved ground, and held on gamely, but was no match for winner. RED WHISK, forced back at the turn, lost ground entering stretch and closed resolutely, but could not get up. LEBRUYERE was given a hustling ride, had speed, lost ground on stretch turn, but closed well. PROJECTILE swerved badly, bearing in on stretch turn. Others were never in contention.

Went to post at 3:36½. At post 8 minutes. Start bad from gate. Won driving; second and third same. Winner trained by E. McCuan.

SOBIEHA having speed, followed pacemaker under restraint until reaching stretch, where stood pressure and, wearing down BLACK COMET, won driving away. Latter had good speed, saved ground all the way, and faltered near the finish. SEMESTER, fractious at post and placed outside stalls, was away slowly, improved position gradually and, finding an opening on inside in stretch, came through to finish gamely. UNENCUMBERED appeared to bear out at turn and went gamely when straightened out in stretch. FLAG TIME weakened in final drive under pressure. CALGARY KAY, away slowly, was taken up when ELIZABETH BOLLA fell back and had no chance thereafter. Others were never prominent. ELIZABETH BOLLA broke down.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and one-eighth. Four year olds and up. Claiming. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25.

JUDGE LUEDERS saved ground throughout and, taking lead in final sixteenth, outlasted EVELINE F., latter away fast, was unable to keep up, began working way up after reaching last half mile, saved ground near end, and was going best of all in final stages. BANJO showed speed all through, took a long lead, but fell badly tame after reaching final quarter and swerved badly. PLUTARCH faltered near end. BATTLING ON raced wide and quit after three-quarters. Rest were outrun.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Three year olds and up. Washington Park handicap. Purse, $5,000 added. Net value to winner, $5,290; second, $1,000; third, $500; fourth, $250.

At post 4 minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving. Winner trained by S. H. Parbuhn.

GOLD STEP, under light impost, shook off DON LEON after going first quarter, easily withstood LADDER'S bid in stretch, and won easily. SILVERDALE was strong factor throughout, and raced drive resolutely but could not threaten winner. LADDER had speed, moved up on outside entering stretch, but weakened in final drive. POLYDOROUS raced wide throughout and finished well. TANNERY, forced back after three-eighths, made up ground in stretch. MANTA had no mishap. DON LEON and HYMAN showed early speed.

COME ON going in his best form, under restraint for seven-eighths, responded gamely when let down and, racing into lead on outside, drew away slowly at the end. BRASS MONKEY suffered slight interference at first turn, improved position last at far turn, and went into a good lead but failed to withstand winner's challenge but held on well. BATHER saved ground, weakened, but was best of others. WIRT G. BOWMAN quit. Others never prominent.

Went to post at 5:49. At post 1 minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same. Winner trained by J. J. Hogan.

JODPHUR never far off lead and under restraint until reaching final three-eighths, was brought up gradually, lost lead momentarily to TACK but outstayed latter in drive. TACK, lost ground, raced to lead with a rush on entering stretch, and held on stubbornly, but could not overcome winner. COMSTOCKERY was fractious at post, saved ground, but weakened in final drive. GUNFIRE took the lead and had speed, but faltered in final quarter. HAL RILEY showed speed. Balance had no mishaps.

RISQUE WINS, BUT BELMONT CROWD ROARS OBJECTION

It Looked Like Parry to All but Judges.

New York, May 23.—[Special.]—According to the official placing Mrs. J. D. Hertz's filly, Risque, odds-on favorite, won the Milkmaid handicap for fillies, the feature at Belmont Park today. To the crowd—and it voiced its objections to the placing in loud voice—the Greentree stable's Parry, with Workman up, finish a head in front. G. D. Widener's Sheltered was third, five lengths away.

Pintail followed the pace set by Risque to the far turn, where Parry moved up second. Then Steffen laid on the whip and Risque came to the sixteenth first, where Parry got her nose in front.

Returns Only 3-5.

But the noses were swapped behind the judges' stand. The winner paid 3 to 5. The time for the seven furlongs was 1:25 3-5.

J. H. Louchheim's Economic, second in the Kentucky Derby, but beaten off here by Flag Pole and others last week, showed his best form in the fifth race by winning under a good ride by Jockey Horn by five lengths. Faireno was second and Larranga third. The time for the mile was 1:37 3-5. Horn kept the winner in front all the way and the closing price was 13 to 5.

Edelweiss Scores Easily.

Jockey Mills scored easily by five lengths in the third race for juvenile fillies on the Wheatley Stable's Edelweiss. J. E. Widener's Crazy Jane, Garner up, was second, and C. V. Whitney's Fretwork, Robertson in the saddle, third. The winner closed at 4½ to 1. Fretwork was in front a short distance when Edelweiss took the lead. She ran four and a half furlongs in :52 2-5.

WOMEN'S PAR IS CUT 3 STROKES IN ARKANSAS GOLF

Hot Springs, Ark., May 23.—(AP)—Two state champions, Mrs. Ben Fitzhugh of Vicksburg, Miss., and Miss Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, Ia., turned in scores three under women's par to set a course record and lead the field in qualifying play of the trans-Mississippi women's golf tournament here today.

Their scores of 77 over the championship course of the Hot Springs Golf and Country club were one under the record set last year by Mrs. Stanley Alexander, of Little Rock, Arkansas state champion. Thirty-two low scorers in the qualifying medal play will make up the championship flight.

BOZEMAN BULGER WILL BE BURIED AT ARLINGTON

Lynbrook, N. Y., May 23.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Bozeman Bulger, sports writer and baseball expert, who died suddenly yesterday of a heart attack. Bulger, an Alabaman, was 55 and was widely known for his humorous tales and his ability as a story teller.

Burial will be in the National cemetery at Arlington, with full military honors. The funeral party will leave on a Pennsylvania train Wednesday morning, arriving in Washington at 1:15 p. m., where it will be met by a military escort and conducted to the cemetery.

CREDIT RESCUE MAY START IN BOND MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—The newly formed committee of bankers and industrialists was called into session today for the first time since its formation by Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric company and head of the new group.

A preliminary session was held at the Federal Reserve bank this morning by several members of the committee and a full session was held later in the afternoon.

It was understood that one of the plans discussed in an attempt to put to work the vast credit built up by the reserve banks deals with the purchase of corporate bonds.

May Balance Purchases.

The reported plan, however, is to the effect that when and if the committee decides to buy corporation bonds, as a move to stabilize the bond market, the federal reserve authorities will buy, as nearly simultaneously as possible, government securities on a cooperative basis.

It has been the apparent determination of the federal reserve authorities to maintain an increased credit base of some $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 brought about by the purchase of government securities and further purchases would serve to offset the utilization of the extended credit by the committee if the committee buys large quantities of the better grades of corporation bonds.

For Market Stability.

This, in the opinion of some observers, does not mean the creation of buying pools as much as it does a coördination of buying which will maintain the increased credit position while the bond market is receiving stabilizing support.

Wall street was agog with speculation as to just what the committee would do at the meeting and there were many rumors afloat that a definite plan already had been presented and accepted that would help business and industry to turn the corner and begin the climb out of the depression period.

On the other hand, those who are in close touch with the situation, as far as the local committee is concerned, say no such plan has been evolved and that today's session was devoted to a general exchange of views.

As one member of the committee analyzed the situation, it is "highly improbable that any financial Moses will be found overnight who will have a definite workable plan which will be immediately adopted and applied and which will lead industrial and financial New York out of the fog of the depression."

Reduce Commercial Loans.

It was evident from a report of the federal reserve board today that banks generally have not joined the credit expansion program. The report, which gave the position of weekly reporting member banks, which include the large city institutions, showed further liquidation of loans and investments during the week ended May 18.

These banks reduced their commercial loans by $29,000,000 and their loans on securities by $27,000,000. Coincident with buying of government bonds by the reserve banks, these member banks disposed of $51,000,000 of such holdings, although they added $4,000,000 of other securities. They increased their reserve balances at the reserve banks by $26,000,000 but also increased their borrowings from the reserve banks by $5,000,000. Their aggregate net demand and time deposits declined $47,000,000.

St. Louis District Action.

St. Louis, Mo., May 23.—(AP)—Appointment of a credit development committee for the eighth federal reserve district, similar to the one formed recently in New York, was announced today by William McChesney Martin, governor of the federal reserve bank of St. Louis.

James W. Harris of St. Louis, president of the Harris-Polk Hat company, was named chairman.

The committee was formed at the suggestion of President Hoover and has for its purpose the stimulation of business by bringing "reserves of credit to the attention of worthy enterprises in need of funds to carry on their business."

PLANS CHICAGO GROUP

A committee of leading Chicago bankers and business men will be named within a day or two by Governor James B. McDougal of the Chicago federal reserve bank to cooperate with committees already appointed or to be named in the other federal reserve districts to assist in credit expansion. It is expected the committee will follow along the lines of the one appointed last week by Governor Harrison of the New York federal reserve bank.

Chicago bankers lean to the idea that the first step in the program will be a considerable move to purchase bonds of industrial, railroad and public utility corporations in the open market. It is their theory that such buying would do much to inspire greater confidence in security prices, while at the same time it would strengthen the assets of banks, insurance companies and trusts throughout the country.

While the personnel of the committee for the Chicago federal reserve district has not been decided, it is expected to include, among the bankers, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, and George M. Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company. Mr. Traylor went to Washington over the week-end and, according to reports in La Salle street yesterday, will confer with President Hoover and leaders in congress.

Price Gains Are Recorded in Wheat Pit

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The country trader and eastern interests have taken the bull side of wheat. There was nothing spectacular in the buying of futures yesterday, but it was adequate to take care of all profit taking, sales and close the market within a fraction of the top, with prices at a new high since April 18, July sold up 1⅝c from Saturday's finish to 61½c, and there was a more general commission house trade than for some weeks. Closing trades were at net gains of 1¼@1⅝c, with May, 60c; July, 61⅛@61¼c; September, 63@63¼c, and December, 65⅝@65¾c.

Selling against daily and weekly offers, as well as profit taking based on the belief that the upturn of 6⅜@7⅛c from the low of last week had weakened the technical position, checked the bulge. Wheat prices have been on the upgrade for four straight days, and American markets have run away from Liverpool, Winnipeg, and Buenos Aires. This caused some operators to hesitate about following the buying side during the day.

Lower Crop Estimates.

Crop reports on winter wheat are sensationally bullish and come from the widest area so far this season. R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Brothers & Co. expert, in a special estimate on the crop in the 5 leading hard wheat states, said he looked for a maximum yield in Kansas of 75,000,000 bu, with not over 32,000,000 bu in Texas, 38,000,000 bu in Oklahoma, 2,000,000 bu in Colorado, and 17,000,000 bu in Nebraska, an aggregate of 164,000,000 bu, or 23,000,000 bu less than the government May returns. This compares with 444,000,000 bu harvested last year. Bartlett-Frazier company had a report from Omaha claiming Nebraska would probably not harvest over 15,000,000 bu regardless of whether rain fell or not.

Practically every commission house in the trade had unfavorable crop comments on wheat from the states east of the Missouri river, and the reports indicated that the outlook was deteriorating rapidly as the result of Hessian fly and other damage. Jackson Brothers, J. E. Bennett & Co., Logan & Bryan and Stein, Alstrin & Co. all gave out bullish reports during the day and in many instances the reports were backed with buying orders.

H. C. Donovan, the Logan & Bryan expert, reporting on parts of northern Indiana and Ohio, found many fields infected with Hessian fly, with rain needed, while George M. Le Count, reporting from Phillipsburg, Kas., said the crop there never recovered from the March freeze and the yield would be light.

Foreign News Bearish.

Buying of wheat futures was persistent rather than heavy, with all bearish influences ignored throughout the day. Liverpool closed only ½@⅝c per bu higher, with July at 61¾c, or the same price that prevailed in Chicago at the time. On May 13 Liverpool July was 3¼c over Chicago. Winnipeg also dragged, although gaining ⅝@¾c, July being 67¼c at the last in Canadian funds, or around 59c per bu on a gold basis. Seeding of spring wheat in Russia to May 10 was reported at 37,000,000 acres, the total being in excess of last year and two years ago at this period, which had a depressing effect abroad.

A decrease of 1,164,000 bu in the domestic visible supply brought the total down to 169,555,000 bu, against 191,408,000 bu last year, but was ignored as a market influence. Export demand was disappointing, with sales of 300,000 to 400,000 bu in all positions, including some hard winter to Greece.

Country Sells Cash Corn.

Strength in wheat spread to corn and resulted in an upturn of around 1c from Saturday's finish with May selling at 32c, the best price since late in April. Buying on the way up was largely of a local character. Closing trades were on a reaction, with net gains of ⅜@½c, with May, 31½c; July, 33¾c; September, 36@36¼c, and December, 36⅛@36¼c. The country took advantage of the bulge to sell 102,000 bu cash corn to arrive. Shipping sales were 21,000 bu.

Crop comments on corn and other feed grains were in direct contrast with those on wheat. E. L. Glaser, chairman of the board of Rosenbaum Bros., returned from a 1,200 mile trip covering parts of Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin, and returned greatly impressed with the excellent start of the new crops and the almost perfect condition of corn, oats and other grains. George M. Le Count, in a letter from Belleville, Kas., said the corn acreage in western Nebraska would be greatly increased and if a good crop was secured he did not know what the farmers would do with it, as cribs are bulging with old corn now.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—The United States Supreme court today refused a rehearing in the case of the packers consent decree. The refusal means that the court's decision of three weeks ago will stand, with the packers held to the terms of the 1920 decree forbidding them to engage in trade in other than meat products, thus keeping them out of competition with wholesale grocery concerns.

The Supreme court today also handed down a decision, written by Justice Brandeis, ordering the Union Stock Yards company to refund $140,001.25 to 103 commission merchants, members of the Chicago Live Stock exchange.

The latter case grew out of an extra charge of 25 cents for unloading stock cars which the stock yards levied on the shippers during the period from December, 1917, to February, 1920, when the railroads were under government control. As head of the federad railroad administration, William G. McAdoo, then secretary of the treasury, was joined as a defendant in the suit.

STEWART HEADS PAN-AMERICAN FOREIGN CORP.

He's Son of Former Standard Official.

New York, May 23.—(AP)—Organization of the newly formed Pan-American Foreign corporation was completed today with the election of Robert G. Stewart as president.

At an earlier meeting of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport board Mr. Stewart presented his resignation as president and was succeeded by E. G. McKeever, a former vice president of the Mexican Petroleum company, a Pan-American Petroleum subsidiary.

The Pan-American Foreign corporation was formed to take over the foreign properties of Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company purchased recently by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Other Officials Elected.

Other officers of the new company elected today included Eugene Holman, D. L. Harper, and G. W. Gorden, vice presidents; R. P. Resor, treasurer, and M. H. Eames, secretary.

The head of the company is a son of Col. Robert W. Stewart, former chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, which controls Pan-American Petroleum and Transport.

At a special meeting of stockholders of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company today the reduction in both classes of the company's stock from $50 to $5 was approved. Stockholders also approved the distribution of shares of the Pan-American Foreign corporation to stockholders of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company on the basis of one share of the new corporation for each share of stock of the corresponding class of their present holdings.

Offer to the Minority.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will offer to acquire the outstanding minority shares of the Pan-American Foreign corporation on a basis not less favorable than that arranged with Standard Oil Company of Indiana, holder of approximately 97 per cent of the outstanding stock.

For each share of its holdings the Indiana company will receive $14.64 in cash and approximately one-half of a share of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, pabale in five annual installments. The offer to the minority holders will provide for payment in full and not in installments.

Illinois Bankers Open Convention in Springfield

Springfield, Ill., May 23.—(AP)—Bankers from all parts of Illinois gathered here today for the forty-second annual convention of the Illinois Bankers association. Committee meetings and entertainment occupied their time and tomorrow the convention will open with the address of the president, Paul S. Abt of East St. Louis. Finishing touches were today given the report of the committee on economic policies to be submitted by W. R. McGaughey of the Millikin National bank of Decatur. This is the report which will deal with the depression and its effects on business and banking.

Hurley and McCulloch Named Receivers in East

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Newark, N. J., May 23.—Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch of Chicago, two of the three equity receivers appointed there for the Middle West Utilities company, were named today equity receivers in New Jersey for that company, on application of Walter G. Winne, representing the Lincoln Printing company, the complainant in the original action. It was said the action today was taken to protect the interests of New Jersey stockholders in four subsidiaries of the Middle West company.

Stutz Motor Will Increase Working Week at Once

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—E. S. Gorrell, president of Stutz Motor Car Company of America, Inc., announced today that company will begin operating on a six day weekly schedule, effective immediately. In many departments it will be necessary to operate seven days a week. For the last six months the company has been operating on a five day weekly basis.

$11,401,000 IN GOLD SET ASIDE IN GOTHAM FOR FOREIGN ACCOUNT

New York, May 23.—Gold to the amount of $11,401,000 was set aside under earmark for foreign account at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York today, while $300,000 gold was exported to Holland. There were no imports. The large earmarking was interpreted as preparatory to further heavy shipments later in the week.

European gold currencies maintained their firm position against dollars today as additions were made to stocks of metal held under earmark here. French francs closed unchanged, but there were small net gains for dutch guilders and the Belga. Swiss francs were off only half a point. Sterling was dull, closing half a cent higher at $3.67¾. Canadian dollars eased.

Urges Keeping Gold Standard.

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, May 23.—(AP)—The committee appointed by parliament last February to look into the advisability of South Africa's remaining on the gold standard reported unanimously in favor of it today.

LATEST NOTES OF U. S. TREASURY SPEEDILY SOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—The latest piece of short-term government financing was oversubscribed more than five times, according to a statement issued by Secretary Mills tonight.

The offering, made last week, was for about $60,000,000 of 91 day treasury bills, which bear no interest, but are sold at a discount. Subscriptions totaled $334,818,000, and the amount allotted was $60,050,000. The average price was 99.927, yielding a rate of 29-100ths of 1 per cent on a bank discount basis.

STANDARD OF N. J. MAY BID ON CHILE OIL MONOPOLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—Circumstances may compel the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey to bid for an oil monopoly in Chile. Last week, the President of Chile promulgated a law authorizing the creation of an oil monopoly in that country. Owing to the large investment of the New Jersey company in oil distribution facilities in Chile, it is explained that the company could not well withdraw from the oil trade there.

Associated Gas Reports All Current Debts Paid

New York, May 23.—All of the current indebtedness of the Associated Gas and Electric company has been paid and neither the company nor its direct subsidiary, the Associated Gas and Electric corporation, has any bank loans or similar indebtedness outstanding with the public, the company announced today. The first maturity of the two companies is in 1940 when the recent issue of so-called "baby" bonds floated by the company will mature.

Soapmakers Buying More of the Raw Materials

The largest soap manufacturing concerns are reported to have made sizeable commitments for raw materials in the last few days. The companies are again buying prime tallow, coconut oil and palm oil following the further recent decline in prices, it is reported. Colgate-Palmolive-Peet and Procter and Gamble were mentioned as having made commitments recently.

Allis Chalmers Receives Order from Near East

Allis Chalmers Manufacturing company has received a $100,000 tractor and trailer order from the Near East Development company. The order was received through the Paris office. The company has also received orders for 26 tractors valued at $100,000 from contractors on the Mississippi levee work.

BRUSH RESIGNS AS DIRECTOR OF MANHATTAN CO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—Matthew C. Brush, president of the American International corporation and stock market operator who, testifying last month before the senate committee investigating the stock exchange, said that his large short sales had been entered into partly as a hedge against substantial bank stock investments that he held, has resigned from the board of directors of the Manhattan company. That is the holding company which controls the Bank of Manhattan Trust company. Mr. Brush's resignation became effective four or five weeks ago officials of the Manhattan company said yesterday.

The American International corporation held 40,000 shares of Manhattan company stock as of last Dec. 31, the largest bank stock investment held by the company. Mr. Brush is a director of about fifty corporations and at one time was reputed to hold a seat on more directorates than any other American business man. In his recent testimony in Washington he said he had at times been short of as many as 125,000 shares of stock.

New York, May 23.—(AP)—The Van Sweringen corporation, exclusive of subsidiaries, reports for the year ended Dec. 31, 1931, net loss of $1,591,117 after expenses, taxes and interest. In the preceding year the company reporting for the period from May 1, 1930, to Dec. 31, 1930, showed a net loss of $1,058,528.

The company holds real estate and securities of various enterprises controlled and directed by O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen. It was organized in 1930.

The Cleveland Terminals Building company, a subsidiary of the Van Sweringen corporation, reports for the year ended Dec. 31 net loss of $2,422,784 after taxes, interest, depreciation, and other charges. In the preceding year the company reported for the period from May 1 to Dec. 31 and showed consolidated net income of $93,806.

Risk Men Seek Way to Value Securities

BY SCRUTATOR.

The attention of insurance men, bankers, and investment dealers throughout the country will be focused upon Chicago June 22 when the valuation committee of the national convention of insurance commissioners meets here to decide upon a yardstick to be used in evaluating the securities held by insurance companies.

Last fall when market prices for stocks and bonds were sliding to new lows, G. S. Van Schaick, superintendent of insurance for New York state and chairman of the valuations committee of the national convention, came out as leader of the group favoring the use of "average values" rather than market quotations in making up the 1931 year-end statements of insurance companies.

An arrangement was made whereby instead of listing their stocks and bonds at current market prices companies were permitted to evaluate them on a "convention basis." In effect, this meant that a Dec. 30, 1931, statement could be made up using approximately the June 30, 1931, market values.

Go Along with New York.

This arrangement was made by the national convention of insurance commissioners. It was not mandatory, but inasmuch as the convention is made up of the insurance commissioners of the several states its decision had great weight. A few rebel commissioners demanded Dec. 31 values in their states, but by far the greater majority went along with New York and Mr. Van Schaick.

Now another June 30 is coming along and valuation is still a sore subject. New York and Georgia require midyear statements.

Mr. Van Schnick, who is ex-officio somewhat of a czar in the insurance business, has already intimated that he will demand something more modern than June 30, 1931, valuations in June 30, 1932, statements.

"All companies should thoroughly understand that the action of this department in continuing the use of such average or convention valuations is dependent upon current levels," he said last month in a letter sent to all fire and casualty companies operating in New York state.

Problem of Serious Import.

"If at any time it appears that the convention valuation is not justified, a different basis of valuation must be devised and adopted. The uncertainty of such a situation creates a problem of serious import to practically every company.

"It is incumbent on each company to forthwith take every possible step to improve its condition. On the question of dividends, no responsible management would declare dividends based upon surpluses after ascertained upon convention valuations where such uncertainty exists as to the future necessity of revaluation.

"This communication is sent at this time so that all companies may appreciate the seriousness of the problem which confronts them."

Mr. Van Schnick's word of warning has been getting results. There have been mergers of companies within groups. In other cases impairment of capital has been remedied by writing substantial amounts off the capital account and bolstering up surplus. Dividends have been reduced.

On Amortized Basis.

Valuation is not an acute problem for life insurance concerns, because the assets of such companies are valued on an amortized basis and include little stock. It is, however, a matter of much concern for fire and casualty companies.

State laws are rigid, but during the last two years, as in previous periods of depression, insurance commissioners have adopted means of liberalizing their construction of laws relating to values. They have sought to prevent stock market hysteria from forcing sound companies out of business on technicalities. They have taken the stand that a company that can carry on out of current income without weakening its foundations should be allowed to survive.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—In about the slowest full session in eight years the share market behaved like a man on a treadmill. It got nowhere.

The turnover was 557,520 shares and the records would have to be thumbed back to the autumn of 1924 to find anything to equal it in the way of dullness. In fact, a volume of only 300,000 shares to the middle of the fourth hour was the smallest since the keeping of official records, begun in 1928.

Following an irregular opening some semblance of strength was injected in the dealings, the upward movement reaching its zenith around midday. Probably the bull side's appetite was whetted a bit by wheat's good showing in the Chicago pit.

Easiness, however, seeped back as the tedious session wore on and the close was barely steady, with a scattering of small net recession in all group. There wasn't a feature to be found in the entire list.

Profit Taking Arises.

The last hour recession was attributed to realization selling by those traders who make it a daily practice in such a market, but at the same time there was nothing inspiring in the rejection by the house of a bill to legalize and tax 2.75 beer. Nor was there buying incentive in the weekend's industrial and political news, outside of the President's twelve point proclamation on government finance. Mr. Hoover's gospel was generally to the liking of the street. Its most important point, of course, was quick balancing of the budget through cuts in expenditures and tax increases, coupled with a halt in treasury borrowing.

Prices were stalemated through the early trading until the smart advance in wheat and the approach of the house vote on beer goaded traders into experimenting on the upside for a change. A little short covering, too helped. Liquidation persisted in a variety of issues, notably utilities and amusements. Among the public service desriptions to score net losses were Consolidated Gas, Electric Power, North American, and Public Service of New Jersey. These setbacks were limited to fractions, however.

Oils Are Firm.

On the other hand, oils continued one of the really firmly entrenched groups, still led by the Standards. Standard of New Jersey rose about half a point on a fairly large turnover, and it was closely followed by the California member of the family.

The pivotals were a washed-out looking group, with Steel slipping a fraction with Can, Motor, and Woolworth. There was some compensation in slight improvement in American Telephone and Du Pont. Motors and Westinghouse were unchanged.

GIVE MORE TIME TO BOND OWNERS OF "CLAYBORNE"

Nondepositors Again Have Chance.

BY AL CHASE.

Although the foreclosure sale on the Clayborne apartments, at 7124-36 Bennett avenue, was held on April 25 and the protective committee for the Straus Brothers Investment company issues bought in the property, nondepositing bondholders yesterday were given another and final chance to participate in the reorganization by depositing their bonds. According to Barnet L. Rosset, chairman of the committee, the master in chancery is scheduled to report to the court Thursday on the sale. Therefore, those who still wish to deposit their bonds are asked to do so with the Phillip State Bank and Trust company before the close of business tomorrow, May 25.

Mr. Rosset said yesterday that at the time of the sale 91.8 per cent of the bonds, or $175,000 out of the outstanding total of $191,000, had been deposited with the committee, which was more than sufficient to enable that body to act.

Only 18 Cents per Dollar.

"We announced in plenty of time that we'd not accept deposits after April 21, four days before the sale," said Mr. Rosset. "But after the sale, when it was ascertained that nondepositing bondholders would get only 18 cents per dollar for their securities and this payment would terminate their interest in the property, we decided to follow this unusual procedure and again give the nondepositors a chance to realize something more substantial on their original investment.

"So far as I know this is the first time such a step has been taken by a protective committee. We feel that the property is a good one and the reorganization will work out satisfactorily. Therefore, we want all bondholders to be given every possible opportunity to benefit through our plans."

Cregier Building.

A statement by the receiver of the Cregier building, at 6936 Cregier avenue, made public yesterday by Walter C. Palmer, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee, showed cash on hand April 30, 1932, of $7,609. Following are the receipts and disbursements from March 1, 1930, to April 30, 1932:

Receipts—
Disbursements—
Operating expenses	$16,105
Insurance premiums	146
Payments on furniture and carpets	1,400
1928 general taxes	327
1929 general taxes	390
Special assessments	78
Fees of receiver's attorneys	1,600
Fees of receiver	1,900
Total disbursements	$21,946
Cash in receiver's hands April 30, 1932	$ 7,609

This was a Lackner, Butz & Co. $110,000 issue, all outstanding, at 6½ per cent. Occupancy, according to Mr. Palmer, was 51.61 per cent on May 15, 1932.

Sheridan Theater.

William M. Richards, assistant secretary of the H. O. Stone & Co. bondholders' protective committee, yesterday took title to the former Ascher Sheridan theater, at 4038-48 Sheridan road, as a step in the reorganization of that property. The playhouse, it is claimed, has 2,783 seats and was financed by an $800,000 bond issue, since reduced to $710,000. Foreclosure proceedings were started in September, 1931. The Chicago Title and Trust company is receiver.

A statement of income and expenses of the Roosevelt hotel of Pittsburgh, which was financed by the Greenebaum Sons Investment company of Chicago, was made public yesterday by C. J. Olsen, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee. It shows gross income of $385,450, operating expenses of $330,695, and net income before taxes, interest, and depreciation of $54,755. Occupancy on Dec. 31, 1931, was 33.25 per cent. This was a $3,600,000 issue, at 6½ per cent, since reduced to $3,564,000. A decree of sale has been entered in this case, but a date for the foreclosure sale has not yet been entered.

COTTON ERRATIC

There is a disposition in some quarters to take the buying side on every weak spot, while on the other hand the rallies run into selling and bring moderate price recessions. The volume of business actually done is not large and the range of prices from day to day comparatively narrow. The strength in stock and grains checked selling pressure but did not encourage a great deal of buying.

Crop news on the whole was mostly favorable. Trade reports presented a rather better situation in general. Liverpool was lower early after a two day holiday and closed 3 points higher. Domestic future markets closed 10@11 points net higher, with spots up 5@10 points the latter at New York, 5.95c; New Orleans, 5.90c, a gain of 5 points; Houston, 5.70c, and Galveston, 5.75c.

Preliminary figures from the department of agriculture based on new information from foreign countries shows total probable output of cotton abroad in 1931-'32 season at 16,406,000 bales. This is the smallest since 1926-'27, and compared with 11,868,000 bales in 1930-'31 and 11,672,000 bales in 1929-'30. Prices follow:

CALLS GENERAL INFLATION ONE TRADE REMEDY

U. of C. Group Advocates Federal Spending.

A "five year plan" for the revival of business, calling for drastic, but temporary fiscal inflation, has been framed and endorsed unanimously by members of the department of economics at the University of Chicago.

Drawn up as a memorandum at the request of a member of the house committee on military affairs in Washington, which has been considering immediate payment of the veterans' bonus, the document discusses the financial situation as a whole, rejects the bonus payment plan, and proposes alternative inflationary devices."

"We are persuaded," the Chicago economists reported to the committee, "that automatic adjustments in the economic situation have already proceeded to a stage where the necessary inflationary expenditures would be handsomely rewarded in greater production, larger employment, and higher tax revenues."

Spend Freely; Advice.

The deflation continues, these observers declare, because costs remain high, relative to commodity prices. This fundamental cost price maladjustment is aggravated by resistance to the downward swing on the part of wages, rents, and other fixed charges involved in production, particularly in the case of goods and services provided by public utilities and other business characterized by "an exceeding politeness to competition."

The major recommendation calls for "generous federal expenditures, financed without resort to taxes on commodities or transactions." Large scale sale of government bonds to the federal reserve banks is suggested, the funds thus created being expended heavily for unemployment relief and for public and semi-public improvements, which can be readily started and stopped.

This method of inflation, the economists assert, "can now be productive of tremendous gains, with no possible losses of compensating magnitude." Too meager or to short lived inflation would be dangerous, they believe.

"Severe depression and deflation can be checked, and recovery initiated, either by virtue of automatic adjustments or by deliberate governmental action," the report says.

Reviving Chances for Profit.

"Given drastic deflation of costs and elimination of fixed charges, business will discover opportunities for profitably increasing employment, firms will become anxious to borrow and banks will be more willing to lend," the report continues.

"As long as wage cutting is evaded by reducing employment, and as long as monopolies, including public utilities, resist pressure for lower prices, deflation may continue indefinitely. The more intractable the 'sticky' prices, the further credit contraction will go, and the more drastic must be the ultimate readjustment.

"We have developed an economy in which the volume and velocity of credit is exceedingly flexible and sensitive, while wages and pegged prices are highly resistant to downward pressure. This is at once the explanation of our plight and the grounds upon which governmental action may be justified. Recovery can be brought about, either by reduction of costs to a level consistent with existing commodity prices, or by injecting enough new purchasing power so that much larger production will be profitable at existing costs.

See Alternative Methods.

A veterans' bonus in cash is regarded as meager inflation, against which the report warns, saying:

"Parsimonious inflation is an illusory economy. We might experience temporary revival and then serious relapse. If we indorse inflation we should be prepared to administer heavy doses of stimulant, if necessary, to continue them until recovery is firmly established. It is obvious that bonus measures fail utterly to provide this necessary flexibility.

"We must be prepared to see a sort of race between depletion of the gold holdings of the reserve banks and improvements of business. If the time comes, as it probably will not, when we must choose between recovery and convertability, we must then abandon gold, pending the not distant time when world recovery would permit our returning to the old standard on the old basis. The supposedly awful consequences of departure from gold are, as England has shown, nothing but fantastic illusions," the group avers.

Means More Revenue.

"With improvement of business federal revenues will automatically increase. Indeed, one might maintain that temporary inflation is the most promising means to restore a balanced budget. Congress should record the intention of balancing expenditures and revenues over a period of, say, four or five years.

"We have suggested that for the period of the ensuing five years all federal expenditures, including those of an emergency character, should be covered by tax revenues. To minimize the total necessary outlays should be very generous now. It would be wise to avoid any new taxes which fall at the producer's (or dealer's) margin. The levies on income, however, should be advanced immediately to the maximum levels which an imperfect, but improving, administrative system can support.

"Even after recovery additional commodity taxes should be resorted to only if more equitable levies prove inadequate to full completion of the 'five year plan.' Indeed, by 1940, our federal debt should stand at a figure far below that contemplated by existing legislation. We should have high income taxes when incomes are high. Such taxes would now have no serious deterrent effect on business, and they could be levied at the present time with least political resistance."

U. S. SECURITIES SHOW NEW SIGN OF LIFE IN BONDS

Attribute Gain to Hoover Budget Policy.

New York, May 23.—(AP)—United States government bonds showed new signs of life in fairly broad buying today, but most leading corporate issues failed to join the upswing. Trading volume was slightly lower.

Better buying of governments was attributed to President Hoover's announcement of his twelve-point relief plan in which he stressed the need for quick balancing of the national budget without recourse to additional treasury financing. Gains of 8-32 to 10-32 point were made by the First and Fourth Liberty 4¼s. Treasury issues moved up as much as 28-32 of a point.

Selling of railroad bonds tended to offset the beneficial influences growing out of rumors that leading banks, as a means of supporting the present federal reserve credit expansion program, were again considering concerted purchases of corporate bonds. Weakness of the carrier liens was ascribed to declining car loading reports which in turn have given rise to conjecture over the earning position of some of the more vulnerable roads. Selling, however, was not confined to the weaker roads alone.

Rail Bonds Decline.

Baltimore and Ohio first 5s reacted 3 points to a new low at 65. Illinois Central collateral 4s were off 11¼ points to 36¾, also a new low. Virginia Railway 5s dropped 5 points to 75, and losses of 2 points or thereabouts were recorded by Pennsylvania 5s of 1964, Chesapeake and Ohio general 4½s, and Denver and Rio Grande Western 5s of 1978. A number of rail bonds, however, moved against the tide, several issues gaining a point or more.

With its six listed issues selling around record low levels, American Telephone and Telegraph bonds attracted bargain hunting which sent the entire telephone list higher. The company's debenture 5½s rallied 6⅛ points to 102¼.

Conflicting reports over prospects of an agreement at the forthcoming Lausanne conference caused early selling of German bonds. Practically the entire list, including municipals as well as the national government's obligations, sought lower levels, but in closing dealings the German government 7s rallied sharply to 46, for a gain of ¾ point.

New York Curb Is Heavy.

Selling of the utility shares imparted a somewhat heavy tone to the New York Curb market again today, although some of the oils and industrials registered isolated gains. Trading quickened somewhat.

Standard Oil of Indiana was again the most active issue in the list, having recently superceded Electric Bond and Share in this respect. Furthermore, its tendency has been upward, in contrast to Bond and Share. Today it rose ⅝ to 18⅝, coming within a small fraction of the year's high. Other members of the petroleum group were steady to firm. Gulf closed a fraction higher, and Humble was unchanged.

Electric Bond and Share dropped 1⅝ points to 8⅜, a new low for the present shares, and the 6 per cent preferred broke 4⅜ to 28¼, a new low. United Gas, and Columbia Gas and Electric preferred issues lost 2 points, both registering new lows. American Gas and Electric common and United Light preferred sagged about a point.

In the industrials, Deere rallied a fraction, in sympathy with the fresh upturn in wheat, and Aluminum company advanced about a point in a small turnover. The Swift issues were steady to firm. Pratt & Lambert sold at 10, off 2 and a new bottom, and Newmont Mining appeared a point lower at 6, reflecting further heaviness of copper prices last week.

FIRMER TONE IN LARD

Scattered buying by commission houses, a little new investment, and trade purchases featured the provision market. There was no selling pressure of consequence and closing trades on lard were at 2½@5c net higher.

Bellies closed 2½c net higher on July. A fair cash business was under way, particularly with the south, which has taken bellies steadily. The whole provision trade seems to be regarded as in better shape, and operators look for a good average run of hogs in June. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d higher.

Export clearances of lard for the last week were 6,341,000 lbs, compared with 9,711,000 lbs the last year. Of bacon they were 1,590,000 lbs, against 2,831,000 lbs last year. Hogs were down to a new low. Hog receipts, while larger than a week ago at western packing points, were less than last year. Regular cash lard was 3.97½c; loose, 3.45c; leaf, 3.50c; short ribs, 4.12½c; bellies, 4.00c. Prices follow:

The hog market continued on its dreary downward course yesterday. After sagging 5@10c more best grades mustered support enough to check the decline. However, the whole list had moved down to new lows. The top and average prices at $3.45 and $3.20 are the lowest since December, 1898.

The low top at that time sank to $3.42½. In July, 1896, the low top was $3.30. That is the lowest spot for hogs in more than fifty years. Relatively low outside points continue to attract eastern orders. One of the western markets reported an extreme top of $2.90 yesterday, being the first to go under the $3.00 line. Quality showed some improvement, and this, together with the additional decline in prices, attracted a few more local buying orders which enabled the selling side to bolster up prices at their new lows toward the close. There was not even a hint at a recovery, however. Large local houses favored the better grades and were paying the top prices for their selections. Armour, Swift, and Wilson handled a combined total of 17,000 head.

Cattle Receipts Are Large.

Cattle receipts yesterday were second largest since the middle of February and exceeded the immediate requirements of the trade. Losses of 25c were general all the way down the price list. Practically all of the price gains which were marked up so laboriously during the last week have been rubbed out. The relapse, however, was not attributed entirely to the larger supplies. Demand is at a low ebb. Movement of beef continues slow in face of reduced prices. The additional decline in hog prices had some influence. The low hog market is one of the heaviest drags pulling on cattle lately. Considering the condition of the trade, best grades of steers held up remarkably well. Several large local and outside interests converged in cattle selling at $7.00 and above. Only a small share of the supply was good enough to sell above $6.75. One shipment of 36 Iowa steers averaging 1,453 lbs went to shippers at $7.85. Long yearlings averaging 1,077 lbs sold at $7.25, and some 861 lb averages brought $7.00. Heifers slumped mostly 25c, going down in sympathy with steers. Cows held up better than any other class during the forenoon, but finished weak to 25c lower. Calves were weak to slightly lower.

Comeback Is Scored.

The lamb market scored a mild recovery yesterday, gaining back only 25c of last week's $1.50 loss. Choice aged wool lambs advanced to $5.00, while prime 92 lb shorn lambs sold up to $4.85. The spread between the two classes was the narrowest of the season. Fancy Colorado springers sold to city butchers at $6.35. Other natives reached $6.25, while the bulk of medium to good kinds sold to packers at $5.00@6.00. Aged sheep and yearlings remained steady, light ewes selling at $2.00 and old heavy stock mostly around $1.00.

LOANS.

Commonwealth Customers—PAY LESS—for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost per $100 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

NO FEES. You get full amount of the loan and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.

Why pay more than HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE?

The nationally known HOUSEHOLD LOAN PLAN offers cash loans of $300 or less to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.
